Desert Sunshine.
The Price of Flying.
Lindbergh Glides a Little.
You May Hear the King.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HODGE, Cal., Jan. 20.

HODGE, Cal., is named for Robert and Gilbert Hodge, of Buffalo, who started alfalfa ranching on the Mojave "desert," which is not a desert at all if you dig wells near the underground Mojave River. The Santa Fe "Chief" stops obligingly to let a passenger inspect new alfalfa seeding and leave some children at a ranch where there is always sunshine.

JEANS, great British astronomer, says in his book, "The Universe Around Us," that the sun, throwing out energy, loses in actual weight two hundred and fifty million tons every minute. The sun weighs now one thousand million tons less than it weighed four minutes ago. That is hard to believe. But when you come into this sunshine you realize what radiation of energy the sun must send through infinite space to produce such results on our little earth. It is SOLID sunshine. Germs cannot live in it.

THE distressing accident to a Maddux airplane returning from the Mexican horse races at Agua Caliente is part of the price of progress. It means one of the first improvements should be to make a plane taking fire, due to collision, impossible.

Engineering science will produce such a plane.

WHEN railroading started in France, and an accident between Paris and Versailles killed many, it was thought that Frenchmen would ride no more. A troupe of actors, hired, sat in trains at the windows smiling, pretending to like it. Railroading was not abandoned. Flying will increase every year, and become safer than rail or motor travel.

AT SAN DIEGO, Lindbergh borrowed a "glider" airplane with no engine. He asked a few questions, went up alone, flew for half an hour, five hundred feet up, came down and applied for a first class glider pilot license. He got it. There is only one Lindbergh, but there are a million Young Americans like him. They will keep aviation going.

PROSPERITY depends not on what you put away, but on what you spend. Spending is to prosperity what irrigation is to agriculture, and this is a spending nation. 1930 will establish some records.

Public works scheduled by state and federal governments in labor, and raw materials, will amount to $3,325,000,000. California is proud to stand third in the nation, her public works for 1930 reaching $202,-000,000. New York state, with more than twice California's population, leads with $475,000,-000. Ohio is second with $233,-000,000. This includes only public works, no private buildings. That, also, will break records.

UP early this morning you may have heard King George on the radio, reciting a speech of welcome to the naval delegates, prepared for him by Premier Ramsay MacDonald. Pittsburgh heard the speech about 6 a. m.

THIS is a century of surprises. England in Queen Victoria's time could not have imagined a British workingman, made prime minister, writing the King's speech and with others promoted from the ranks of labor, administering the British Empire.

CONSIDER also that the listener, in Seattle, will hear the King's words before they are heard in the back of the hall in which he speaks.

Talk on the radio travels 86,-600 miles, three and a half times around the world, in one second. Sound, through the air, travels slowly.

LLOYD GEORGE thinks the brotherly love naval reduction meeting in London may wind up in a row. MacDonald talked to President Hoover about plans, before the meeting in London. France, according to Lloyd George, sees in that conversation an attempt on the part of Britain and America to dictate to the rest of the world. Secretary Stimson is believed to have smoothed that over.

THIS country does not want to dictate to the world; it has enough to do at home. But it might well, in combination with Britain, and with France, if France cares to come in, serve notice that any wars started must not interfere with neutral nations.

BRITAIN and America do not want war. Germany has had enough of it. Russia is trying experiments that if history follows its natural course will end in a military dictatorship, by a Muscovite, or, perhaps, Mongolian Napoleon. Western nations should be ready to take care of that, if it becomes a menace. Air fleets and submarines would do.

SLUGGERS STOP TAXI SERVICE

Cab Company Chiefs Issue Ultimatum to Strikers, Makes Thursday Deadline

These were the developments today in the taxicab drivers' strike, on this, its tenth day:

1—The Yellow and Green Cab Companies abandoned attempts to operate their cabs after a half-dozen drivers had been beaten in the streets.

2—The employers issued an ultimatum in which they notified the drivers to return to work by Thursday midnight.

3—Henry M. O'Blenness, counsellor on industrial relations, was called by the employers for "advice."

4—The settlement agreed upon yesterday was nullified when 100 drivers refused to accept the terms.

The taxicab strike, which was supposed to have ended last night, still was in effect today. A half-dozen or more drivers who attempted to operate cabs were beaten, after which all cabs were withdrawn from the streets.

Officials of the cab companies announced they would seek the courts' aid to run their cabs. Walter Laird, president of Yellow Cab Company, indicated that he would not only ask for deputy sheriffs to guard the drivers, but would seek an injunction to prevent interference with operation of the cabs.

Six hundred drivers voted 5 to 1 to accept the settlement terms

10 ABOVE ZERO HERE TONIGHT

Snow today was the forerunner of a new cold wave which will strike tonight, sending the mercury to 10 degrees, the weather bureau predicted.

The southwest wind will shift to northwest late today, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, and the temperature will tumble 20 degrees or more by tomorrow morning.

Near zero temperatures were reported from the plains states today and the cold was moving eastwardly behind a low pressure area which was causing snow in the north and rain in the southern states, Brotzman said.

State Fires Clerks In Theft of Stamps

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—Dismissal of two state employes for theft of postage stamps became known here today. They had been clerks in the Department of Revenue.

State police are investigating reports that two other employes have been appropriating stamps in a wholesale manner for their own use. The value of the stamps taken by the discharged pair was placed at about $80.

"OH, SISSY!"

The ownership of a western ranch had changed hands and the hardened ranchers thought that the new boss, a city chap named Reginald, would be "soft" and out of place when he made his appearance. Their beliefs were strengthened when they first saw him, but he soon proved that they were wrong, as is explained in the

PARLEY OPENS WITH POWERS PLEDGING AID

Stimson and Other Delegates Vow Co-Operation for Success of Naval Cut

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—In the glittering royal gallery of the House of Lords, which through the years has seen history-making of a far different sort, five powers inaugurated this morning the most ambitious attempt to limit navies that the world has seen since the historic Washington conference.

Today's opening was in startlingly direct contrast to Washington, where the then Secretary of State, Charles Evans Hughes, electrified the world with his sharp admonition to the powers to reduce their navies or be outbuilt by the United States.

KING OPENS SESSION

There was no such peremptory beginning today—instead, King George of England opened the session with a hospitable and innocuous greeting, which was followed by the heads of each government professing loyalty to the cause of disarmament, but significantly calling attention to the manifold difficulties.

One after another, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Premier Andre Tardieu, Dino Grandi and Reijiro Wakatsuki arose and solemnly pledged their utmost efforts for success and pleaded for good will and confidence as indispensable.

And all reminded their colleagues of the shoals ahead.

Nearly 800 persons filled the gallery. Of these 30 were the principal delegates and scores of technical advisers, 300 newspaper correspondents, peers, British officials and others, but out beyond

League Court's Title On Official Records

Letter to editor of New York American, dated New York, January nineteenth:

Dear Sir: You say the real name of the international court we are asked to join is "Permanent Court of Justice of the League of Nations." You claim that the Washington administration is deliberately concealing the connection of the court and the league. Upon what do you base your charge?

(Signed) F. J. LAVINSKY.

The official name of this court is not determined by what we say or what representatives of the Washington administration say or what anybody else says.

Its name is determined by the wording of the document signed at Geneva in the quarters of the League of Nations by Mr. Moffat, United States charge d'affairs in Switzerland, representing President Hoover.

What did he sign?

He put the name of the United States to a "protocol" or a contract already signed by 54 members of the League of Nations and beginning:

"The members of the League of Nations through the undersigned, duly authorized, declare their adherence to the permanent court of international justice which was approved by unanimous vote of the assembly of the league on the fifteenth of December, Nineteen Twenty, at Geneva."

Who can join the court? According to text "the members of the League of Nations."

What is the name of the court ACCORDING TO THE TEXT?

It is not called the "World Court." It is not called simply "Permanent Court of International Justice." It is called OFFICIALLY: "The Permanent Court of International Justice which was approved by the assembly of the League of Nations on December Fifteenth, Nineteen Twenty, at Geneva."

As every student knows, the assembly of the league on that date approved the court's statute, as drawn up by a body of jurists appointed by the league. Ever since the court was thus put into operation by the League of Nations, the league has elected and paid the court judges, paid for the court's quarters and other expenses and has periodically revised the court's statute.

So in FACT and in the TEXT of the document President Hoover's representative signed, this is the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations.

The connection and the identity of the court and the league are facts that President Hoover should frankly disclose in telling the people about this tribunal he wants the country to join.

ACCUSATION GETS SNARL OF DENIAL

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 21.—Private Ernest Moore, of the Pennsylvania highway patrol, wounded when his buddy, Corp. Brady Paul, was killed December 27, near New Castle, Pa., today identified Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague as two of four persons in the automobile at the time of the gun battle.

Charles Evans, of Benwood, W. Va., was unable to identify the second man in custody here, who had been previously identified as Joe Houston, alias Wells, former Oklahoma penitentiary convict.

The fourth person in the car, police charge, was Donnie, 4-year-old son of the Schroeder woman. He is held by state police in Lawrence County, Pa.

POINTS OUT BLONDE

"That's her right there," said Moore, pointing at the blonde in her cell with several other women.

"No, I'm not," snapped

HOOVER LISTENS TO PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Clad in a sweater and pair of old pants, President Hoover today sat in a basement room of the White House and listened to formal ceremonies opening the London arms conference.

Arising at 5 o'clock, the President dressed himself in the garb he generally wears while taking his daily exercise of throwing around the big medicine ball, and repaired to a basement room where a high-powered receiving set had been installed.

With him sat Attorney General Mitchell, also dressed for the medicine ball game; Justice Stone, of the United States Supreme Court; Dr. Joel Boone, the White House physician; Lawrence Richey and Walter Newton, two of the President's secretaries.

The reception of the different speeches was as clear as if they had been made in the next room. The small group, so vitally interested in the success of the conference, sat completely silent during the entire ceremonies.

Police Club Reds Rioting At City Hall

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Police and firemen battled 200 alleged Communists who attempted to storm the city hall today.

Patrolmen wielding clubs and firemen using fists attacked the mob when it refused to disperse. A number of the alleged Communists and several policemen were beaten up in the melee. Five were placed under arrest.

After nearly 15 minutes of street battling the mob broke up and fled. Leaders threatened to return again during the afternoon and force their way into the city hall.

Life of Boy, 9, Sacrificed in Rum Gunplay

Here is another example of the life of an innocent person sacrificed in the name of prohibition enforcement. This victim, a mere child, received a bullet from a policeman's pistol, fired in an attempt to halt an automobile on suspicion that it might be carrying liquor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Sheridan Bradshaw, a 9-year-old school boy, was killed by a shot fired by H. S. Deaderich, a city policeman, of Las Vegas, Nev., June 17, 1928, when officers attempted to halt the automobile of the child's father, C. W. Bradshaw, suspected of carrying liquor, in the streets of Las Vegas. William L. Scott, county clerk of Clark County, Nev., in reporting this case to the Washington Herald on July 23, 1929, wrote:

"The child, aged nine, was riding with his father, mother and two other children, when two members of the local police force attempted to stop the car by shooting at the tires. A stray shot entered the rear window when Deaderich nearly fell out of the police car, striking the child in the head.

"The district attorney entered a charge of first degree murder against the two officers. This charge was reduced to involuntary manslaughter at the preliminary hearing and both defendants were acquitted by jury trial."

DAWES LATE, BLAMES FOG

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, was late for another historic occasion today when he walked into the royal gallery of the House of Lords after King George had completed his address of welcome to the delegates to the five-power naval disarmament conference.

A nap taken by Gen. Dawes during his term of office as vice president once kept Charles Warren from becoming attorney general.

Dawes' chair was the only vacant one during the speech of the King. The ambassador arrived just before Prime Minister MacDonald began his address. To a scribbled inquiry as to the reason for his tardiness, Gen. Dawes scratched out the following characteristic reply:

"Fog!"

The American ambassador was not the only notable left out in the fog while the King delivered his address. Former Premier David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, needed an hour and three-quarters to make a short journey and missed the plenary spectacle altogether.

The fog, heaviest of the winter, completely tied up traffic. Dawes and Lloyd George made the mistake of traveling by automobile instead of using the underground railways.

King George's car had to be guided from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords. Policemen carrying hand lamps preceded the car at a walking pace to prevent any possibility of an accident.

Schurman Quits Berlin, Going Home

ICE TOO THIN, SKATES SEIZED

The skates of 50 boys and girls of Beechview and Brookline lay in a tangled heap in a locker room of the Dormont Police Station today, while the owners awaited a hearing before Burgess Charles Chamberlin Thursday night.

It all happened, according to Police Chief Albert Reuhling, because non-residents ignored a ban on skating on the municipal pool at Dormont because the ice was too thin.

Street Commissioner Thomas Dolan closed the pool, which is 12 feet deep in places, as a precaution, according to the chief. Soon after dusk last night youths from nearby city districts began climbing over or under the fence surrounding the pool to indulge their favorite winter sport.

50 Poisoned At Lodge Dinner

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Between 50 and 60 men and women guests at a dinner given here last night by Camelia City Circle No. 1102, Foresters of America, were reported ill from poisoning today at their homes or in hospitals. Physicians at hospitals said five or six may die.

Physicians who attended other cases in homes said their patients suffered considerably.

Dr. Howard Hall, city health officer, was working on the matter today, obtaining samples of the food served at the banquet for chemical analysis to determine the source of the poisoning.

Dr. Samuel I. Wells said the illness might be ptomaine, but that the victims were taken ill too quickly after eating.

Dr. J. E. Yates, who attended six cases, said, "It was a queer food poisoning," which might be ptomaine.

CONGRESS DRAFTS BILLS TO SPEED DRY CASES IN COURT

WICKERSHAM PLAN WINS SUPPORT

Measure Will Give Power Of Handling Minor Rum Cases to Commissioners

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—After Chairman Wickersham, of the Law Enforcement Commission, had appeared before it, a House judiciary sub-committee decided today to draft three bills to carry out the commission's recommendations to increase the powers of the United States Commissioners to handle misdemeanor cases in an effort to relieve congestion of the Federal Courts.

Dean Roscoe Pound, a member of the commission, also appeared for questioning.

Representative Christopherson (Rep.), of South Dakota, said that Wickersham and Pound had cleared up any doubts held by the sub-committee as to the constitutionality of the proposed procedure.

OUTLINE PROCEDURE

Christopherson said one of the bills would outline the procedure of handling minor cases before the United States Courts and that two amendments probably would be incorporated into one bill. If this were done there would be but two instead of three measures.

One of the amendments would define slight or casual offenses, the other would amend the Jones-Stalker law to provide for penalties for misdemeanors of not more than six months in jail and a fine of $500.

The measures are to carry out the recommendations of the commission to provide for the United States commissioners to take jurisdiction over offenses not a felony.

Chairman Wickersham said that he and Dean Pound had "gone over the whole subject relative to increasing the powers of the commissioners."

"We discussed fully the difference between the slight or casual offenses and the right to trial by jury," he said. "The commissioners are to have jurisdiction in cases wherein there is no right to trial by a jury."

DENATURANT DEFENDED

Representative Crampton (Rep.), of Michigan, a dry leader, asserted in the House that enactment of a bill to eliminate the use of wood alcohol as a denaturant in industrial alcohol would "not only destroy enforcement of national prohibition, but would destroy highly important industries as well."

The measure Crampton was discussing was introduced by Representative Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, and would eliminate all denaturants in industrial alcohol except substances which he described as emetics. In a speech on the House floor recently Sirovich asserted that poison placed in alcohol was responsible for the loss of "thousands of lives."

Doran Blames Overindulgence Not Poison, for Rum Deaths

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Overindulgence, not poison placed in denatured alcohol by the government, today was held responsible for a large majority of the liquor deaths by treasury officials.

In defending the treasury policy of placing wood alcohol and a wide variety of other denaturants in industrial alcohol to make diversion to bootleg channels more difficult, officials insisted the percentage of poison was comparatively small and insufficient to cause death.

Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran declared indulgence in beverages produced from industrial alcohol was far from healthful, but that before the victim died from the poison denaturants, alcoholism probably would prove fatal.

Coast Guards Shoot Fleeing Rum Runner

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Culminating a thrilling three-mile chase on the narrow, winding Miami river, United States Coast Guardsmen here early today shot and wounded a suspected rum runner and captured a rum-laden motorboat.

The wounded man, Leon Sanders, 28-year-old Negro, was felled by a bullet through the thigh when the boat was run ashore and the crew of three attempted to escape. The other two men, said by the Negro to have been white, made a successful getaway.

DAD'S NICKEL ALIBI -:- By Quin Hall

VICTIM PICKS OUT BLONDE

Moore later identified Dague.

Evans looked at Wells in his cell. He went to school with Tom Crawford, brother of Irene, and it was thought for a time that Wells might be Crawford, under an assumed name.

"I am not sure; I don't think I know him," said Evans. Moore also said, "I don't think I know him."

EXTRADITION HEARING

The identification took place in the Maricopa County jail, soon after the arrival here of the Pennsylvania officers bearing extradition papers to take back the blonde and Dague to face trial in the Lawrence County courts.

Gov. John T. Phillips, of Arizona, set late today for a hearing on the extradition, Attorney Samuel L. Rummel, in behalf of Irene, was expected to try to block issuance of papers by Gov. Phillips. He said he would ask for a continuance of the hearing.

Earlier in the day, when told of the arrival of the eastern officers, Irene requested jail attaches to allow her the services of a hair-dresser, complaining that jail life had given her flaxen locks a rather dowdy appearance.

"I want to look my best to Pennsylvania," she remarked coyly, "and surely you don't expect me to face a jury as they say I will in this makeup." The latter part of her remark was caged with an open sneer for jail attaches who have been urging her to talk.

SEVEN IN PARTY

The Pennsylvania party included County Detective H. M. Lee, Sheriff Frank Johnston, State Patrolman Moore, Sergt. Edward Bergen and Private James Brooks, of the state police; Mrs. Minnie McKibbin, policewoman, and Evans.

Irene was subject to severe grilling throughout yesterday and until after midnight. Sheriff Wright conducted the questioning, permitting her rest periods. To his persistent questions, repeated over and over again, she maintained a stubborn silence, except that occasionally she insisted she was not Irene Schroeder, but "Mildred Winthrop," a name authorities say she adopted the day after her capture in the desert country last Tuesday night with Dague and Joe Houston, alias Wells, who joined the fugitives in flight across Texas.

SCORNS QUESTIONS

"If you are not Irene Schroeder, why don't you prove to us who you really are?" Sheriff Wright urged, after repeated futile attempts to wring the story of her flight across the continent from her.

"Why should I?" was her sneering reply.

"Well, if I were accused of something someone else had done, I certainly wouldn't waste any time proving I was not that party," the officer explained.

"It doesn't interest me at all," she countered. "Nothing interests me—not even what you say the law will do to me.

UNAFRAID TO DIE

"No, I'm not interested in anything at all—not even death. When my time comes I shall die just the same, no matter whether I tell you what you want to know or not. You're not going to get a thing out of me."

This was her attitude throughout the questioning.

St. Louis police yesterday informed Sheriff Wright they believed Dague and Irene had passed through that city on their flight West. A policeman who attempted to stop a car narrowly escaped death or serious injury from bullets exchanged in a running gun battle, local authorities were informed.

Irene, immediately after her capture, Sheriff Wright said, disclosed that bullet holes in the machine they abandoned on the edge of the desert shortly before their capture had come from a St. Louis policeman's pistol. Last night she denied having said anything about St. Louis and insisted she had never been in that city.

ACCUSED IN JEWEL THEFT

Another police report from El Paso, Tex., accused Irene of the theft of valuable jewelry from the home of a woman who had hired her as a maid. The woman, after hiring a blonde girl answering Irene's description, the police report said, left her home for a few minutes and, during her absence, the maid disappeared with several hundred dollars worth of jewelry.

Irene denied this as everything else.

HOLDUP TAUNTS 8 VICTIMS

A waiter and eight patrons in Weinstein's Restaurant at 1830 Center avenue were held up early today by a Negro robber who stole $55 from the cash register. The men were lined up along the wall. Then the robber stepped behind the counter and removed the money.

"Take a good look at me so you will know me the next time," the robber said as he stood in the doorway prepared to leave, according to Morris Wigis, a waiter. Wigis reported the robbery to police.

Issue Bench Warrant For Prisoner at York

Judge Nelson McVicar, in Federal Court today, issued a bench warrant for the removal here of Charles Hawkins, held by police at York, Pa. He pleaded guilty August 6 to transporting a stolen automobile in interstate traffic and was sentenced to serve six months in jail at Butler, Pa. He escaped September 23, but was arrested several days ago.

UNEMPLOYMENT ON DECREASE, SAYS HOOVER

Labor Department Reports Rise in Work Schedule Over Nation Past 10 Days

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—President Hoover said today that the Department of Labor had reported for the first time since the stock market crash that the tide of employment had changed in the right direction.

The Chief Executive said reports for the last week showed that employment was on the increase—and substantially so.

"There has been a distinct increase in employment all over the country within the last 10 days," President Hoover asserted. "The tide of employment all over the country has changed in the right direction."

MARKET REMEDY ACTING

Immediately after the stock market disturbance in November President Hoover moved to stimulate the building of public works in an effort to prevent unemployment.

Today it was felt in administration circles that the President's program to increase the development of public works in both the federal and state governments was bearing fruit.

STEADY INCREASE

The labor department has been keeping in very close touch with the employment situation.

The report of the department given to the President by Secretary Davis at today's cabinet meeting, showed employment on an upward tide. During the last 10 days there has been a steady increase, it was said.

TWICE SEIZED, TO QUIT CITY

Miss Louis Loftis, 22, likes California better than she does Pittsburgh, she indicated in Morals Court today, on the occasion of her second appearance there.

She is returning to the Pacific coast today with two days stamped on her memory; Sunday, when she was arrested for disorderly conduct, and yesterday, when police said she was a suspicious person.

Arrested with her yesterday was her brother-in-law, B. B. Breckenridge, 2520 Beechwood boulevard, where she had been visiting. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

In Morals Court testimony was introduced to show that an argument occurred when the girl insisted on her mother accompanying her to the coast.

"I don't think you ought to wait much longer," Magistrate T. D. Jones told Miss Loftis.

"I'm not! I have my new auto license now and I'm going to California right away."

LE MAIRE, FILM COMIC, DIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—George Le Maire, musical comedy and motion picture comedian, died yesterday at his home here.

Le Maire first rose to popularity as a partner in the vaudeville team of Conroy and Le Maire. The team entered musical comedy in the "Passing Show of 1913." Since then, Le Maire appeared in the casts of Ziegfeld and George White revues and in productions at the Winter Garden.

Last year he joined Pathe to produce and star in a series of comedies. He made 17 two-reel comedies in the series.

Surviving are his widow, Marie Le Maire; a son, Jack, who has appeared with him in pictures, a sister, Mrs. Ida Goldgraber, of Fort Worth, Tex., and three brothers, Rufus, William and Sam Le Maire.

Found Unconscious, Dies in Hospital

Morgue attaches today were making efforts to establish the identity of a man, about 55, who died last night in the South Side Hospital, 12 hours after he had been found unconscious at Smithfield and Carson streets, by South Side Police. An autopsy at the morgue revealed that the victim died from cerebral hemorrhage.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance is centered off the west coast of the Gulf of Mexico, and a depression in barometric pressure extends northeastward to another center in Eastern Ontario. It is causing cloudy weather over the eastern half of the country, and snow north of Tennessee, and southwestward to Northern Texas, and rain over Tennessee and southward over the Gulf states. A marked high pressure area is centered over Idaho and covers the entire country west of the Mississippi. It is attended by clear skies, generally, and cold weather. It caused a drop in temperature over the Plains states and the Central and Southern Rocky Mountain states. East of the Mississippi and over the Canadian Northwest and adjacent border states, there was a rise in temperature during the last 24 hours. The high pressure area will carry low temperatures far into the South again.

FOX DENIES GAMBLING, HITS FOES

Whispering Drive Charged By Movie Magnate in Plea For Refinancing Support

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—William Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation, made a complete denial today of charges made in a second suit for an equity receivership for the corporation. He said he did not play the stock market with funds of his companies, accused his enemies of a "whispering campaign," and made a plea to stockholders to back his new financing plans.

The second receivership suit, which has complicated efforts to clear up the troubles of the Fox concern, was filed yesterday in the United States District Court by Mrs. Susie Dryden Kuser, of Bernardsville, N. J., suing as an individual Fox stockholder and as executrix of the estate of her husband, Col. Anthony R. Kuser. Mrs. Kuser owns about 20 per cent of all the voting stock outstanding, it was said.

SPECULATION DENIED

Mrs. Kuser charged Fox with speculating in the stock market and "so neglecting" his business that he sustained "gigantic losses" in the November Wall street slump. She also charged Fox was voted an annual salary of $150,000 by the Fox Film Corporation "through dummy and rubber stamp directors."

Fox's statement denied he "played the market" with funds of his companies and asserted that the Kuser family had received $2,203,000 in cash dividends from Fox stock and that he had received no salary from his companies for three and one-half years.

In an open letter to stockholders, Fox told how he had planned developments for his companies involving $100,000,000, when he was injured in an automobile accident last year; that he was in a hospital for three months, and five days after he left the hospital the market slump came. The bears raided the Fox securities, he said, and he became the victim of a "cleverly concocted scheme."

WHISPERING CAMPAIGN

Then came a "whispering campaign" against him, the magnate declared. Banker friends privately told him, he said, that they wanted to help him, but dared not. There were ugly rumors, he said.

"They told me," the letter continued, "that the gods of Wall Street had practically proclaimed my doom and that nothing on earth could prevent this great money machine from mowing me down."

The letter ended with a plea to stockholders to subscribe to the $35,000,000 loan which Fox now plans to float.

"Whatever else may happen to me, I propose to maintain my honor," Fox said at the outset of his statement.

Electricity Supplants Organ Windpipes

Science represented by R. C. Hitchcock, of the research laboratories of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, now can produce organ music by means of electrical circuits instead of the conventional windpipes.

The first public demonstration of this new form of music will take place this afternoon in a broadcast program to be presented by KDKA between 3:00 and 3:30 p. m.

Dr. Charles Heinroth, noted organist of Carnegie Music Hall, will play Mr. Hitchcock's electrical instrument which produces the new music by means of oscillating radio tubes.

The electric organ invented by Mr. Hitchcock is a unique development capable of widespread use. It is about one hundredth the size of the conventional pipe organ.

Doolittle, Army Air Hero, Quits U. S. Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Lieut. James H. Doolittle, best-known of Army fliers and "King of the Daredevils," has resigned from government service to head the aviation department of the Shell Petroleum Corporation.

Doolittle's change was announced today by an official of the corporation, who said that Doolittle would make St. Louis his headquarters.

"Jimmy," contrary to his name, has, in everyday parlance, "been places and seen things."

It was Jimmy who made the first "outside loop," most dangerous of aerial manipulations.

It was Jimmy who, while making a power dive at the Cleveland air races, found himself in the embarrassing position of riding earthward at a tremendous rate in a wingless plane. Then and there he made his first parachute jump.

Walking calmly into the field offices, he reported his accident thus:

"You'll have to give me another plane."

It was Jimmy who made the first absolutely "blind" flight. Taking off from Mitchel Field, New York, last September in a plane the cockpit of which was inclosed to exclude all light, Doolittle made a complete flight which included two turns. He landed within a few yards of his starting point.

In 1926 he made a non-stop flight over the perilous Andes Mountains, although both his ankles were broken just before his take-off.

TAXICABS QUIT AS DRIVERS ARE BEATEN

"COUNSELLOR" CALLED

Henry M. O'Blenness, well known as a counsellor on industrial relations, was called into consultation by the Parmelee Transportation Company today in an effort to end the taxicab drivers' strike.

"Mr. O'Blenness was an old friend of mine in the Carnegie Steel Company," said Walter Laird, president of the Yellow Cab Company, "and I have asked him for advice."

He declined to add anything to that brief statement.

O'Blenness at one time was head of the bureau of information and investigation of the Carnegie Steel Company. He left the Carnegie Company with A. C. Dinkey to fill a similar position with the Midvale Steel Company.

It is understood that he since has been conducting a bureau that has to do with the adjustment of labor disturbances.

DRIVER STONED

Sympathizers of the holdouts were blamed for the beatings administered to drivers early today. One driver was stoned by pickets at the Yellow Cab garage in Ross street.

Two others were attacked at Seventh avenue and Grant street when they halted for traffic lights. Another was beaten in Liberty avenue. Three cabs were abandoned by their drivers in the Pennsylvania Station. And there were other attacks.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh took cognizance of the situation today when he ordered his police to arrest "all agitators."

"The strike has been settled now," Supt. Walsh said, "and we are not going to let the few disgruntled drivers interfere with taxicab service. We will protect those citizens who want to ride in the cabs."

Twenty-five cabs were sent out from the Yellow garage early today. Three hours later all were back in the garage. The same officials would not say whether the 25 drivers were drivers who were imported last week.

More than 500 drivers last night in Moose Temple, voted to return to work, and Paul Toole, chairman of the strikers, announced with the employers that the strike was ended.

But these 500 apparently were heeding the call of the holdouts today. The holdouts held a "rump" session last night after the general meeting.

Things seemed at a standstill at least until tonight, when all the 1,400 strikers are to meet again in Moose Temple.

The holdouts were described as "a small, lawless group," by Walter Laird, president of the Yellow Cab Company, and Paul Houston, president of the Green Cab Company.

DAVIS' PLAN

The settlement terms were suggested by Secretary Davis.

The drivers had asked for 40 per cent of their gross receipts and recognition of their union. They received 37½ per cent and recognition of a grievance committee. The percentage is the same offered by the two companies 10 days ago as a pay raise—the pay raise which the employes interpreted as unfair to the older drivers.

These terms were agreed upon yesterday by the strikers' committee and the employers, subject to approval of the 1,400 drivers themselves.

The drivers heard the terms at the mass meeting in the Moose Temple. About 600 were present at what was described as a stormy three-hour session.

Following this meeting the holdouts got together for the "rump" meeting, and voiced their dissatisfaction. Toole announced that at tonight's meeting an attempt would be made to learn the wishes of all the drivers—1,400 of them.

3 FINED IN ROW AT 'PARTY'

Mrs. Laura Davis, of 10 Hemlock street, turned out all the lights in her rooming house to discourage three men "making whoopee" there, she told Magistrate T. D. Jones today, but then her troubles began.

Clarence Riffle, alias J. J. Wilson, 41; Joseph Hahn, alias Joseph Donnelly, 40, and Sidney Ferguson, 22, all of 1334 Chateau street, vehemently resented her action, she said.

They had been visiting Mrs. Hera Jackson, it was testified. Before Mrs. Davis turned the lights on she was kicked and cursed, and the glass in her front door was shattered, she declared. Riffle was fined $25 and each of the others $10.

Afterwards, according to Lickstein's testimony, Friedman threatened to implicate him in the rum case unless he "came across with $500."

BOARD RAPS CONTRACT SYSTEM

Combination in Restraint Of Trade Charged as New Estimates Are Rejected

All bids for electrical work on the new addition to Taylor Allderdice High School were rejected for the second time by members of the Board of Public Education in a meeting of the property and supplies committee last night.

After voting to reject the bids it was decided to hold a special meeting Thursday for the purpose of discussing measures to combat what board members term "a combination to throttle competition by electrical contractors of this city."

Last October bids were rejected. On January 16 of this year when the bids were called for the second time it was found that the lowest bid submitted was only a fraction of a cent per cubic foot lower for the work than the lowest bid of October.

CHARGE COMBINE

Upon rejecting the first bids the board made open charges of a combination in restraint of trade among the electrical contractors and rejected all bids. Last night Marcus Aaron, president of the board said:

"It is a significant thing that the lowest bidder this time was the lowest bidder last time. If there was the slightest doubt in my mind at that time on the attitude of the electrical contractors' association, that doubt has been dissipated by the bids received here tonight."

"I believe the situation is rotten as hell," Mr. Aaron said.

TOLD TO "LAY OFF"

According to James Bonar, superintendent of buildings, one contractor who had contemplated bidding on the job, had been called up and told to "lay off." He said a New York firm had been employed to bid on the work and had made an estimate more than $10,000 below the lowest local bidder, he said.

Mr. Bonar said several out-of-town contractors had made bids higher than Pittsburgh contractors, but he declared that these firms had been reached and had deliberately overbid the local men.

J. Rodgers McCreery, the board's solicitor, was of the opinion that court action would entail considerable expense in obtaining evidence.

"I don't think we can expect much help from the Legislature," Dr. Lewin said, "although its members are supposed to be representing the people, too."

The board postponed consideration of the program for building the proposed Arsenal Junior High School and Elementary High School. C. L. Woolridge, consulting architect, was authorized to study the conversion of the present Washington School into a trade school.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 21.—Two persons were dead today and 25 were suffering from injuries received in the derailment of Louisville and Nashville train No. 4 last night near Trafford, Ala., 25 miles north of here. The principal addresses were delivered by Albert Conway, New York State insurance superintendent, and Judge C. S. Younger, state superintendent of insurance in Ohio. Col. Matthew H. Taggert, insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania, was unable to attend because of illness. Clyde B. Smith, president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, and W. G. Age Keeps Bob Short, Girls Adopt Coy Curls

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 21. — (AP.) — The well-coiffured mother and daughter of 1930 were presented at the convention of the National Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' Association here.

Both had bobbed hair, the mother's rather long on the sides and close at the back, making it difficult to ascertain from a front view whether the hair was long or short.

Daughter's hair was shoulder-length, soft-waved with ringlets curling here and there and a coil at the nape of the neck caught up in little puffs—one of several styles with which youth can experiment.

"Older women are keeping their hair short in the hope of retaining the illusion of youth," observed one coiffeur, "but youth is daring and can afford to be picturesque, coy, quaint, or any other mood which it chooses to express."

This hairdresser said he advised clients against dyeing hair and predicted wigs will have a real place on American feminine heads within a few years. "No one is fooled anyway," he added.

The youthful sleekly bobbed hair of 1930 may be parted any way—diagonally, zig-zag, right or left or middle.

They were married June 8, 1925, and parted November 3, 1927. A month later her baby was born, she testified. Mrs. Haas said she fell down a flight of steps in July, 1925, hurting her back and neck, and her husband prevented her having a doctor until November, when her mother arranged and paid for the services of a physician.

MANKIND WANTS END OF WAR, KING SAYS

Speech Opening Conference Declares Competition in Navy Building Must Stop

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service

London, Jan. 21.—Showing no signs of the recent grave illness that all but cost him his life, King George today personally set in motion the wheels of the disarmament conference.

Escorted by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and the Lord Chamberlin, the King entered the royal gallery of the House of Lords at 11:02 a. m. (6:02 a. m. Pittsburgh time). All the 800 persons in the gallery—delegates, their wives, diplomats, British officials and newspapermen—rose to their feet and the King bowed slightly.

SPEECH BROADCAST

The King stood directly in front of the imposing red and gold throne which had been brought from Buckingham Palace for the occasion, and spoke into a gold and silver plated microphone through which his words were broadcast to the world. He spoke in a somewhat husky voice which was transmitted to all parts of the chamber by means of amplifiers.

The King expressed his sincere satisfaction over welcoming in persons the delegates of five powers assembled with the object of "eliminating the evil results of wasteful competition in naval armaments."

"Every nation here is proud of its navy," Britain's "Sailor King" declared, "and proud of that navy's past achievements and inspiring traditions.

"It is not the fault of these traditions nor of our navies if competition in naval construction, due to supposed exigencies and policies, have led to a feeling of insecurity among nations and even to the risk of war.

AGAINST WAR

"Since the great war all peoples have determined that human statecraft shall leave nothing undone to prevent a repetition of that grim and immense tragedy.

One of the most important columns in the edifice of peace, the King declared, was "limitation of naval strength and reduction to a point consistent with national security."

Commenting on the difficulties previously encountered in attempted naval reduction, the King said:

"Great success was achieved with conclusion of the Washington treaty imposing certain limitations in construction of the capital ship and aircraft carrier, but hitherto all efforts advanced beyond that point have failed.

The King said he believed the delegates intrusted with the mission of continuing the task begun at Washington were "animated by the single-minded intention of working not with any selfish exclusively nationalistic purpose, but with the noble inspiration and resolve to remove once and for all this particular obstable from the path of ordered, civilized progress.

"We all," his Majesty declared, "have varying needs which demand special consideration, but if each of us is equally determined to sacrifice a small portion of our special needs as a contribution to the common good, I feel sure your deliberations will confer a great and lasting benefit not only upon the nation you represent but upon mankind generally.

HOPES FOR GENERAL CUT

"I earnestly trust that the results of this conference will lead to immediate alleviation of the heavy burden of armaments now weighing upon the peoples of the world, and also by facilitating the future work of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, and to hasten the time when a general disarmament conference can deal with this problem in an even more comprehensive manner.

"In this hope," he concluded, "I shall follow your deliberations with the closest interest and attention."

Immediately upon conclusion of his speech, the King sat down and listened while his speech was translated into French for the benefit of the foreign delegates. He then rose, bowed deeply, and departed from the chamber.

M'DONALD BIDS WORLD DISARM OR FACE WAR

Premier Warns Powers That Naval Competition Means Further Strife

International News Service

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Warning that continuation of world competition in warship building would lead to a repetition of the events which led to the outbreak of the World War, Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald called upon the nations of the world to respect their pledges under the Kellogg pact and bring about naval limitations to make future wars impossible, in a ringing address at the opening of the five-power naval disarmament conference here today.

"The whole world may be said with literal accuracy to be turning its eyes upon us today," Prime Minister MacDonald said. "It expects we shall deliberate and negotiate on the assumption that having put our names to the pact of peace we mean to respect our signatures.

"It prays we shall not only relieve its burdens but establish it still more securely in ways of peace.

"It begs us to give public opinion a chance to lift our problem out of the narrower scrutiny of the technical expert and put it on the broader field of the creative statesman.

WARNS OF MENACE

"Above all, it demands from us an agreement."

The Premier sounded a rousing warning lest the nations of the world, through either jealousy or ambition, permit themselves once again to reach that plane of competition in armaments which would spell another cataclysm such as that of 1914.

"This agreement," he continued, "must put a stop to the competition which has already begun to show itself both in types and numbers of ships.

"If we are not careful we shall once more be involved in feverish competition such as heralded the outbreak of the war in 1914."

Considerable progress has been made in securing peace since 1919, the Premier said.

"The League of Nations steadily builds up its authority, provides mutal security to well-doers and menaces evil-doers among nations.

"The peace pact signed in Paris in 1928, which though lacking in machinery except that which the covenant supplies for members of the League of Nations is nevertheless a mighty, moral bulwark against war, and we must never underestimate the effectiveness of moral bulwarks with no bayonet nor bludgeon behind them."

U. S. AND LEAGUE

Premier MacDonald commented at some length upon the entry of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations and the "growing confidence" in the institution as well as the increase in the number of nations which signed the optional clause.

This increase, the Premier described as marking "definite, I believe irrevocable, steps in displacement of military power by judicial process in settlement of international disputes."

Boy Defies Shock To Give World King's Speech

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS)—The lad who plugged up the dikes of Holland with his arm was paraphrased today in a modern epic of heroism.

Harold Vivian, chief control operator for the Columbia Broadcasting system, was the lad. He held two broken ends of a high voltage electric wire in his naked hands so that the world could listen to the radio broadcast of King George's speech at the opening of the naval conference in London.

A second before the historic address by the King was to begin a member of the control room staff stumbled over the wire leading from the switchboard to the generator. The wires parted and the entire network went "dumb."

Vivian picked up the two ends of the wires and held them close in the palm of his hand. Two hundred and twenty volts of electricity seethed through the wire. The boy twitched and writhed, his arms shook with spasms. But he held on for the seven minutes that King George gave out his message of peace to the world.

KING'S SPEECH HEARD HERE

Pittsburgh got up early today to hear the voice of King George V, of England, being broadcast through three local radio stations. It was the King's address opening the five power naval parley in London. Radio fans reported clear reception here while the King was making his address. The broadcast was started at 6 o'clock.

Ten microphones had been installed by the British Broadcasting Company in the House of Lords where the British ruler spoke to the assembled delegates. American broadcasting concerns received the address over short waves and then rebroadcast here.

Following the address of King George the addresses of several other international statesmen were broadcast. An ironic touch was given the broadcast of some New York studios which sent out a program of military anthems of various nations while waiting for the cross-the-Atlantic hookup to function.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the conference, will be heard in Pittsburgh over KDKA at 1 o'clock tomorrow in a special rebroadcast. He will be introduced by William S. Hard, radio correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company.

NAVAL PARLEY 'NOT FINAL' -STIMSON

American Secretary of State Regards Conference as Step Only in Limitation

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A declaration that the present effort at naval limitation is not regarded as final was made here today by Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, in his address at the opening of the naval conference in the royal gallery of the House of Lords.

"Naval limitation is a continuous process," he said. "We regard disarmament as a goal to be reached by successive steps, by frequent revision and improvement. A solution reached today, however perfect, may not respond to conditions at a later date."

The chairman of the American delegation added that he and his colleagues were ready to remain in London until the problems were solved, until the opportunities were grasped and until the world was given an agreement that would carry it happily on to the time when the nations could meet again in the same spirit to look over the situation anew.

SHARE IDEALISM

"We are profoundly impressed and moved by the significance of the speeches we have just heard," he said, "the cordial and hospitable welcome extended to us by his majesty the king and the wise analysis of our problems which has been so movingly presented by the prime minister. I am so convinced that all members of this conference share the lofty idealism that has been expressed in the two preceding speeches that I look forward with confident hope to the success of our labors. I deem it an auspicious event that our first meeting at this conference, in which there must be a spirit of understanding and co-operation, should take place in the House of Parliament which have for Americans a deep significance as the cradle of our jurisprudence and of our fundamental ideas of human liberty.

"The use of international conferences of this sort for the purpose of limiting and reducing armaments is a recent development in world affairs, so recent that a number of our colleagues at this table participated in the labors of the Washington conference, the first of the series of efforts devoted to this great end. That conference was a first step on the long road of international endeavor in limitation and reduction upon which the world has started. We may well feel that this beginning was a momentous event in the history of the human race; we may derive a legitimate gratification from the knowledge that we have lived in days when for the first time human thoughts and desires for disarmament reached practical and tangible expression.

EFFORT NOT FINAL

"I feel it is important to emphasize the fact that we do not look upon this effort toward disarmament as final. Naval limitation is a continuous process.

"While the greatest contribution my country can make to the general cause of disarmament is in naval matters, still it must not be forgotten that our ultimate aim is a general solution of the disarmament problem and a consequent lessening of the risks of war. For that reason, however great the achievements of this conference in regard to the naval problem, our zeal in the general cause of disarmament and our efforts to contribute to the success of future endeavors in other fields will continue unabated.

"We have endeavored to study the particular problems and difficulties of the other nations as well as our own. We have come here to try to find a solution acceptable to all, of benefit to all, and of benefit to the peace and stability of the world. There are many problems we know, but each problem before us seems to us far outweighed by opportunity to serve civilization. We are ready to stay here until the problems are solved, until the opportunities are grasped and until we can give to the world an agreement that will carry us happily on to the time when we meet again in the same spirit to look over the situation anew.

"Mr. Chairman, we have had relations with members of each delegation here which have given us the assurance of the goodwill, patience and wisdom which they will contribute to the success of our endeavors. We assure you on our part that we are prepared to co-operate in the fullest measure, to do our utmost to appreciate the difficulties of others, and to continue such work as long as may be necessary to achieve our purpose. Our people demand of us a success; they recognize the disaster that a failure of this conference would bring to their dearest hopes, and they are determined that we shall succeed."

King Opens Conference On Naval Reduction

these the whole world listened in through the greatest world-wide radio hook-up ever attempted. Far away New Zealand heard, as well as the nearby continent.

MacDONALD LISTS AIMS

As host to the conference Premier MacDonald outlined the aims of the parley immediately following King George's speech of welcome, stressing the most vital necessity of success. Unless naval competition stopped, he warned that the whole world was traveling the same road which led to 1914.

With this he made a special plea for special consideration of Britain's position as an island empire, more dependent upon sea power than any others.

MacDonald, who took over chairmanship of the epochal conference as soon as King George had concluded his brief speech of welcome, began his address with a note of stern warning that naval competition among the powers of the world was already under way, and that if a stop was not put to it immediately, the events which led to the outbreak of the World War would see themselves duplicated again.

Secretary Stimson then took the floor and, in a clear, strong voice, outlined to the assembled delegates the high hopes which the United States held that the conference would result in a complete success.

TEMPORARY ACHIEVEMENT

He stressed the fact, however, that this could be considered at best only a temporary achievement, which must perforce be reviewed from time to time in the future in order that the changing political complexion of the world could be put to use to strengthen and amplify whatever peace-making agreements evolved from the present parley.

Premier Tardieu, of France, also expressed high hopes that the conference would result in success, but laid particular emphasis on the fact that whatever agreement was reached must be subservient to further action by the League of Nations.

Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, called the attention of the delegates to the peace program of Premier Benito Mussolini, and declared that a long period of peace throughout the world was necessary for its fulfilment.

Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief delegate of Japan, told the conference that his nation was prepared to go the limit, in disarmament, consistent with its national security.

FOG CASTS GLOOM

A dense fog—the heaviest of the winter in London—penetrated the gallery, giving it an eerie aspect with its Kleig lights and its microphones, of which a goldplated one had been provided for the use of the King.

The delegates and diplomats, representing a total of 47 nations, were in their assigned seats well in advance of the King's arrival. Premier MacDonald circulated among the assemblage, introducing any of the delegates who had not met their co-workers on a social footing. The wives of all the delegates were in attendance, they being the only women in the gallery.

Following the speeches of the principal delegates, representatives of the British dominions took the floor. J. L. Ralston, Canadian minister of defense, recalled Canadian participation and sacrifices in the World War in the course of his speech.

"Canada united with all the nations here," he said, "in the hope for definite and practical results from this conference. These hopes are intensified because an anxious world awaits a successful outcome."

J. E. Fenton, Australian minister of trades and customs, spoke in a similar vein. He stressed the world's desire for peace and relief from the burden "of armaments in order to enable them to pursue nobler aims."

Sir Atul Chandra Chatterjee, Indian high commissioner in London, expressed pride and gratification that India was participating in the movement for armament reduction.

CALLS WAR CRIME

Prof. Timothy Smiddy, high commissioner of the Irish Free State in London, went outside the usual stereotyped utterances by referring to the fact that Ireland and the United States had a common bond solidified by the closest ties of blood and friendship.

He referred to war as a crime and expressed the profoundest hopes for the success of the conference.

T. M. Wilford, high commissioner from New Zealand in London, warned the conference against single-track minds. He declared that much forbearance and mutual concessions by all were necessary for the success of the conference.

Charles te Water, high commissioner from South Africa in London, spoke in a similar vein.

Because of the necessity for tedious translations, the session was long and drawn out.

It was 1:20 this afternoon (8:20 a. m., Pittsburgh time) before the speeches were finally concluded.

Premier MacDonald immediately adjourned the opening session and announced the conference would be resumed at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. At that time a closed plenary session will be held at St. James Palace.

Serum to Destroy Cancer Tissue Thought Found

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—What appears to be one of the most important steps in the fight against cancer has been taken in this city by two eminent surgeons, working at the Southern Pacific General Hospital.

Drs. Walter Bernard Coffey and John D. Humber have discovered a serum that kills the malignant tissues. They call it nontechnically "the cancer-killing serum."

The treatment consists of injections in the patient's body of a serum extract. This serum is made from a certain gland known as the suprarenal. The glands are obtained from sheep.

While these scientists and surgeons have been working upon their serum treatment for the last three years, they had maintained the most scrupulous silence about their activities. At last their secret was divulged when they were most reluctantly prevailed upon to make a preliminary report before the Society of Pathologists here, at a recent meeting.

The result was sensational. Some of the foremost scientific authorities pronounce this Coffey-Humber work as perhaps the most important in the field of medical science in ages.

Dr. John Gallwey who attended the meeting of pathologists, made the following declaration:

Potent Remedy

"It is inadvisable to hail it as a cure at this stage, but it is unquestionable that the extract has proven itself potent in killing malignant tissues and that properly guarded publicity of these results is quite in order."

Dr. Karl Meyer, director of the Hooper Foundation of the University of California, makes this significant statement:

"I consider Drs. Coffey and Humber's discovery of the utmost possible importance. It is the most notable advance made in the field of cancer research."

Dr. J. C. Geiger, immunologist and professor at the Hooper Foundation Institute also avers that the "Coffey and Humber work is of the most extraordinary interest and importance."

Since neither Drs. Coffey and Humber nor Prof. Geiger contend that the new serum should take the place of surgery or X-rays and radium treatments, the Coffey-Humber discovery may at least prove the most vital supplementary method in attacking cancer.

What is the nature of this serum? How does it act?

How It Acts

To this question Doctors Coffey and Humber replied:

"You may call it the cancer-killing serum.

"It is a potent extract from a special portion of the cortical region of the suprarenal or adrenal gland.

"When injected into the human body, this serum is powerful enough to destroy the tissues of the malignant areas. Must the serum be injected into the malignant area itself? Does it injure normal tissue? Does it produce any local or constitutional bad reactions?

Doctors Coffey and Humber answered each query:

"1. Our serum is injected into the patient's body far remote from the malignant area, the cancer itself.

"2. It produces no local reaction. There is no irritation or swelling where the serum is introduced. Neither is there any general constitutional disturbance. No bad after effects whatever.

"3. The serum kills only the malignant tissues. That is, it causes no destruction whatever of the normal cells. In this respect the serum challenges comparison with the use of strong X-rays or radium rays that are apt to burn normal tissues too.

"The only discomfort that a patient sometimes feels is when the cancer tissue dies and sloughs off. A sort of itching is felt by some patients. But between these intervals of necrosis of the malignant cells, there is no unpleasant sensation."

Acts Promptly

An amazing picture emerges from the full exposition given by Coffey and Humber. What they do is simply this. They inject into the arm a carefully graduated dose of their preparation. The patient feels no discomfort immediately or afterwards, until the softening and destruction of the malignant area set in. Soon after injection the necrosis of cancer commences. The malignancy may be anywhere in the body. It may be cancer deeply buried within the viscera or heart or lung or some glands or other vital organs.

"The effect of the serum is perceived within 24 to 48 hours after the injection," Doctors Coffey and Humber let it be known.

What is the underlying explanation of the effectiveness of their serum?

Doctors Coffey and Humber said:

"We believe and contend that cancer is a systemic disease. All of our experimental work so far points to the same conclusion. Our serum is effective in carcinomas and sarcomas of all sorts, that is, in all varieties of malignancies or cancerous growths we have so far coped with."

It follows that the action of the Coffey-Humber serum may be construed as that of a stabilizer.

Reveal Experiments

Doctors Coffey and Humber were induced to recount how they came to begin experiments with their anti-cancer serum.

"Angina, according to our theory, was nothing else than a deadly spasm caused in the heart of the sudden compression of the coronary arteries, the heart's blood-supplying vessels. This spasm was caused by the nervous impulses traveling along certain sympathetic nerves pervading these blood vessels. When we severed the nerves there was no nervous constriction of the coronaries and so angina itself was abolished.

"Now our next effort was to find a substitute for this operation. Could we dilate the coronaries, the heart's blood vessels, in another way?

"Well, we were convinced that the sympathetic nerves receive and convex impulses to and from some of the ductless glands. That is, the source of the energy of the sympathetic nerves lies in harmonies.

"After patient and repeated and vigilant efforts we succeeded in making a potent serum.

"This was our extract from a portion of cortical region of the supra-renal or adrenal gland.

"Well, in 1926 we had this serum ready. Our first proof that it was a potent preparation was obtained from an experiment upon a patient then. This man suffered from a very high blood pressure. He also had a cancer.

Early Tests

"Paying no attention for the moment to his cancer we wanted to inject our serum into his body to find out if the serum would dilate his blood vessels and thus lower his high blood pressure. The result of our injection was prompt and most satisfactory.

"His blood pressure was as high as 240. After we had given the injections in gradual doses the blood pressure slid down. In a few days the pressure was 150 or less. So we thought that we had discovered the stabilizer and the vasso-dilator that we were searching for. We were elated.

"Simultaneously we noticed that a striking thing had happened. The serum had affected also the cancer of this patient. The malignant growth began to suffer necrosis, that is, began to die. Sloughed dead cancer tissue was ejected from the

"Not only that we injected

"The patient who received our treatment for high blood pressure and also for cancer felt marked improvement. We kept up the serum treatment—now for cancer. In course of time his malignancy dwindled away. He has gone back to his work and is husky and strong."

Since that 1926 case, Coffey and Humber have treated with their serum numerous cases suffering from diverse types of malignancies. Invariably the serum kills the cancerous tissues.

One of the leading pathologists in this city, Dr. A. M. Moody of the St. Francis Hospital, was taken into the confidence of Coffey and Humber. Moody's probity and proficiency was a guarantee that his expert inspection would be of the utmost value.

Dr. Moody told this writer how astonishing it seemed that the serum should kill the cancer tissue in the most hidden parts of the body.

Drs. Coffey and Humber treated only such cases as had been doomed to death by other doctors.

"All the cases we treated with our serum were inoperable," they said. "That is, the doctors had doomed these patients to death. Neither the knife nor the X-rays nor radium rays could do any good to these sufferers.

"Not only that we injected the the serum only in the last stages of the disease. Our object was not to cure these patients, but to discover what effect the serum would have upon their terribly advanced cancers."

"However, our serum always succeeded. That is, the post-mortem autopsy showed that their cancers had undergone marked reductions. Serum had in all instances destroyed the cancer cells."

2 OVERCOME BY GAS RECOVER

Two women were recovering from the effects of carbon monoxide fumes today after they had been revived by North Side police last night.

Mrs. Anna Fisher, 40, of 217 Grantham street, and Mrs. Lena Fisher, 48, of 113 Park street, Millvale, who was visiting at the former's home, were found unconscious in a bedroom on the second floor by relatives. A call to the North Side police brought Wagonmen John Macher and Jacob Sarver with an inhalator to the house.

The policemen, with Dr. C. W. Williams, of 1306 Pennsylvania avenue, worked for more than half an hour with the inhalator before the women were revived. The fumes were believed to have been issuing from a small gas stove found burning.

MEXICAN FLIER SAFE IN CRASH

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The telegraph operator at Los Mochis, Sinaloa, informed the department of comunications last night that Capt. Miguel Colorado, of the army air service, had been forced down by storm Sunday near Los Mochis. His machine was destroyed, although the pilot was not hurt.

Capt. Colorado took off from Mexicali, Bajadwrernia, Sunday morning on an attempted nonstop flight to Merida, Yucatan. Until tonight there had been no reliable reports as to what had happened to him.

The destroyed plane formerly was named the Baja California II, but recently was renamed the Plutarco Elias Calles. It was the same machine in which Col. Roberto Fierro made a non-stop flight from Mexico to Cuba in 1928.

HIGHEST COURT SHUNS RADIO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Abruptly terminating its hearing of the case of Broadcasting station WGY, the Supreme Court indicated its opinion that the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia is the tribunal of last resort in cases brought to it from the Federal Radio Commission. In view of this action, it was expected that the Supreme Court at an early date would dismiss the petition of the commission for a complete review of the case. This action would sustain the Court of Appeals in its ruling that WGY may use the frequency of 790 kilocycles without time limit.

Declaring it was unnecessary to hear counsel for the General Electric Company, owner of WGY, Schenectady, New York, Justice Holmes—who was presiding in the absence of Chief Justice Taft—halted the hearing after counsel for the commission had completed their arguments.

In the course of the hearing, members of the court restricted the commission's attorneys to arguing the question of the high court's jurisdiction in the case and disagreed with their contention that the district court's decision was a judicial action and as such subject to review.

Counsel for the commission indicated that no further court action would be taken in the WGY controversy. They said it was well settled that the Supreme Court is without jurisdiction to review the decisions of a court which functions as an administrative body.

"The net result of the action is a declaration that the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia may try radio cases brought to it from the commission as completely new cases and enter such decisions as it may think proper without regard to the decisions of the commission," said Paul D. P. Spearman, of counsel for the radio board.

It was said at the commission's offices that efforts may be made to induce Congress to limit the authority of the District of Columbia court to judicial phases of radio regulation.

Highwaymen who robbed a woman on the North Side and a man in the East End last night were being sought by police today.

Margaret Keller, of 618 Avery street, was robbed of her purse containing $5 by a man who accosted her at Sandusky street and East Montgomery avenue. She furnished police with a good description of him.

En route to his home, Maurice Hargrave of 715 Bellefonte street was beaten on the head with a blunt instrument and robbed of $18 by thugs at Bellefonte and Howe streets. Hargrave told police. He suffered contusions of the head.

Thieves late yesterday broke the lock on the front door of the confectionery of T. A. Thompson at 741 North Mathelda street, and stole $3 in cash and candy and cigarets valued at $20.

Man Who Saved Buffalo Bill Buried

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A little band of men with whom Dr. Henry S. Felx, 74, "the kid" of Custer's regiment fought Indians in frontier days in the Northwest, attended his funeral here.

Dr. Felx had been pastor two decades of St. Mark's Lutheran Church here. He held a Congressional medal of merit for having saved the life of his friend, William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody. He was national chaplain of the Veterans of Indian wars, and grand chaplain of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

ROUTE CHANGES BRING PROTEST

A protest against the plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission to abolish certain circuitous, but established railroad routes necessary to shippers and manufacturers of the Pittsburgh district, has been filed by the Chamber of Commerce. Heavy loss to business in this territory would result if the commission's plan were carried out, it was declared in the protest.

The action of the board of the chamber, which met with the unanimous approval of 5,000 members, was made public yesterday. In the protest the chamber declares, "the closing of existing routes would retard prompt movement of traffic by requiring interchange between long and short haul lines which otherwise would be unnecessary."

Discontinuance of the routes now under consideration by the commission would be a decided disadvantage to the shipping public and would deprive the Pittsburgh district of at least four of the principal routes to the East, according to a report made by Harry Dangerfield, chairman of the general traffic committee of the chamber. The commission, in its decision and order of June 3, 1929, Rate Structure Investigation, Iron and Steel Articles, prescribed a new mileage basis of freight rates and provided that departures from the long and short haul clause in the fourth section of the Interstate Commerce Act would not be permitted on long routes which are more than 50 per cent circuitous as compared with short routes for distances between 150 to 1,000 miles.

A hearing on the case was scheduled for December 3, but was postponed by the commission to an unfixed date early this year. Delegates from the chamber, railroads and shippers will attend the future hearing to protect Pittsburgh's interests.

Haupt, of Wilkinsburg, asked $20,000 damages from Moore-Flesher Hauling and Storage Company in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. Aged Arnold Man Victim of Knifing

Police today were investigating the cutting of Lewis Neurohr, 73, of 1625 Victoria avenue, Arnold, who was in the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, in a critical condition. Neurohr was taken to the institution last night suffering from knife wounds of the throat and both wrists. Hospital attaches said they had been unable to determine whether he was the victim of a holdup or if the wounds had been self inflicted.

ARREST 4 MEN IN 3 RAIDS

Four men were arrested by prohibition agents and constables in raids on a downtown club and two dwellings on the North Side last night.

Louis Santon, 34, and Richard Berry, 60, were arrested when the agents raided a club on the second floor of 215 Grant street, and seized a small quantity of moonshine and gin, it was reported. Both were lodged in the Central Police Station in default of bond.

Eight gallons of whisky were confiscated in the home of Evan Burns, 32, at 29 Jacksonia street, and a 25-gallon still was found in the residence of Michael Stachura, 57, at 1018 Voskamp street, according to the agents' report. Burns and Stachura were released on their own recognizance.

Howard to Talk on Navy Parley Over Radio

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

FROM his study in the historic old Embassy Building at Washington, Sir Esme Howard will speak for 15 minutes tonight on the opening of the naval parley in London. He will be heard in Pittsburgh through WJAS during the 7 o'clock "Conclave of Nations" program.

American theatrical followers will listen with interest to the production of a George Bernard Shaw play through WCAE at 8:30 p. m. British technique in radio production will be much in evidence with Cecil Lewis, formerly of the British Broadcasting Company, in the prompter's role.

Paul Whiteman will bring Charlie King of "Broadway Melody" and "Hollywood Revue" to the Columbia microphone at 9 o'clock on the Old Gold Hour. WJAS will have the feature here.

"What a Friend We Have in Jesus" will open the Sacred Song concert from KDKA at 7:30. Sacred Songs will be replaced by "The Evening Altar," a similar religious program, after next Tuesday night.

We Now Present

"Um, um, dar's matches aburnin' in someone's pocket," said a Negro entertainer at WJAS the other night when the ozoner was turned on to clear the air in the studio. The ozoner emits a sulphuric odor.

ELECTRIC ORGAN

An electric organ, operated by oscillating radio tubes, will be demonstrated over KDKA tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Charles Heinroth will play the instrument which is about one hundredth the size of the Carnegie Music Hall organ.

The electric organ produces music by means of electrical circuits instead of the conventional windpipes. It is the creation of R. C. Hitchcock, of Westinghouse Research Laboratories.

Introduction of conference delegates and a brief resume of doings at the London Naval Parley will be a 15-minute feature of KDKA at 1 o'clock today, tomorrow and Thursday.

Harley Roberts, Dormont: Who plays the part of Lightnin' in Amos and Andy? ANS. Amos.

Time of the Song Story at WCAE has been changed to Friday night at 7.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Joe White, formerly the "Silver Masked Tenor," who is performing at the Automobile Show, is quite a swimmer. A dip in the pool at the Keystone A. C. every morning is part of his daily routine. He will sing for club members tomorrow afternoon at 12:30.

Trapped in Haunted Mine.

A conference with the "Chief" and a cave-in in a haunted mine reveal the real reason for the revolution brewing in the Central American Republic of Paradise.

Rowsky Rawson, the young Englishman who has journeyed to Paradise for the revolution and has used his position as an aviator with the rebel forces to try to prevent the uprising, receives a command from the master criminal, the "Chief." When he journeys to an abandoned mine to meet the "Chief," Jimmy Ott, the "Clarion" war correspondent; Secret Service Agent McClarden and Trouble Brent, Red Cross nurse, are startled when they hide themselves to overhear the conference.

The "Chief" confides to Rawson and his henchman Pancho the true basis of the coming revolution. He also knows of Rawson's double dealing and by exploding a dynamite charge closes the main entrance to the mine. Ott, Mac and Dorothy Brent are trapped.

The first concerns the old saw that woman's place is in the home. If feeling her place is anywhere her heart may be and finding Joe's future with his firm depends on his landing a slippery customer, determined to do her part in helping friend husband bring home the bacon. This unveils theory number one.

There is another old saw about man proposing, and Joe's example of his apparently high-pressure business nearly proves his own undoing. He baits his big fish with some of Viv's famous home cooking and the fun commences.

AT THE

AUTOMOBILE SHOW

A distinguished exhibition of fine coachwork on the notable Lincoln chassis

To THE person really interested in motor cars as fine as any that can be constructed, the display at the Automobile Show of fine coachwork on precision-built Lincoln chassis will repay a visit. There are new body types, carefully considered additions to the regular Lincoln group, that represent the last word in point of design and equipment in both closed and open cars.

This exhibit is of particular interest, for the cars on display embody three carefully tested chassis developments that materially increase Lincoln ease of operation and riding quality. These developments are in line with the Lincoln policy of having no yearly models; but of steadily developing the car in all its parts, and adding these developments whenever they are perfected.

1929 EARNINGS SATISFACTORY

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 21.—While fourth quarter 1929 earnings of district steel companies will fall considerably below figures for the three preceding quarters of 1929, results for the year will be wholly satisfactory.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube will continue to be the leader, with net profits for last year estimated to reach $16 per share on 1,200,000 shares of outstanding common stock, comparing with $7.95 per share in 1928. It is expected Sheet and Tube's 1929 earnings will establish a new record, not excepting the war years. During the past five years, the company's best earnings were in 1926, when they were equivalent to $11.11 per common share.

In the first nine months of last year, Sheet and Tube showed net earnings of $13.90 per common share, after all charges including provision for Federal taxes, and its fourth quarter figures must therefore equal $2.10 per share, to reach $16 for the year.

Newton Steel will set a new record, showing earnings of about $10 per common share, after all charges for last year.

It is expected Sharon Steel Hoop will show earnings in excess of $4 per common share. Republic Steel earned $8.41 a share on 874,000 shares of common stock in the first nine months, after all charges, and is expected to show profits for the year in excess of $10 a share.

STATE TO DROP CHAPEL RULE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Students at Pennsylvania State College, beginning next term, will no longer be required to attend Sunday chapel.

The board of trustees of the college, meeting here, voted to discontinue compulsory chapel. Increased size of the under-graduate body was assigned as the cause for the action, the chapel building being only large enough now to house about one-fourth of the student body at a time.

Services will be held as usual in the chapel next year, but attendance will be wholly voluntary.

Present officers of the board were re-elected, including John Franklin Shields, of Philadelphia, the president. The trustees were luncheon guests at the executive mansion of Gov. Fisher, who is an ex-officio member of the board.

Preceding the general meeting, the executive committee met and accepted the resignation of Edward K. Hibshman, as assistant to Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the college. Hibshman resigned to accept the post of executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

Attractive Pajama Suit

Pattern 1828

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAM:

Pajamas are now espoused by women of every age because of their comfort, grace and beauty. They are simple to make and quite inexpensive, as they are just as lovely of cotton as of silk. The model shown today has a sleeveless overblouse and trousers with fitted yoke front, and elastic back.

The range of vivid and pastel colors in clever, printed patterns, is very large this season, and cottons have replaced silks to a great degree. Percale, broadcloth, pongee or rayon may be used with good results.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

The NEW WINTER FASHION BOOK is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York City.

ARREST OF PAY BOMBERS SEEN

TOWANDA, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Corp. Cletus Baumgartner, in charge of the Towanda sub-station of the state police, said that within 24 hours a number of arrests will be made in connection with the dynamiting near Wilkes-Barre last week of a pay car of the Glen Alden Coal Company. Baumgartner would give no intimation as to the identity of the persons sought nor how many suspects were to be rounded up, but he predicted that the arrests when made would provide a final solution to the case.

It was understood that the state police were following a lead furnished by the mother of one of the suspects sought. The officers indicated that their investigation was centering in Bradford County.

WHERE STYLE AND ECONOMY MEET

AUTO BUSINESS AIDS MILLS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 21.—Fresh releases from the automobile industry are responsible for accelerated schedules in the Valley iron and steel trade, though reports of the improvement have been exaggerated. Schedules have been moderately advanced because of rush orders from some of the larger makers of low-priced automobiles. Republic Steel, for example, is operating at 70 per cent in some departments, but is scarcely averaging this rate. Youngstown Sheet and Tube is operating from 60 to 65 per cent. Newton Steel is active on a much broader basis than in December, principally on automobile steels, its chief product.

The Valley industry is now operating 20 per cent below rate of activity a year ago.

Sheet mills of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company started Monday night, instead of Sunday evening, as heretofore. On the other hand, strip mills of Republic Steel operated up to 7 a. m. Saturday, instead of suspending Friday evening.

Principal acceleration to date has been in flat-rolled steels, benefitting sheets and strips, but improved tone to the market is not yet of sufficient proportions to warrant sustained schedules at the higher rate.

Carnegie Steel is maintaining district plants at 65 per cent, while Sharon Steel Hoop is operating up to 70 per cent.

Tinplate production is on a broader and more sustained basis than in December, and it is unlikely there will be any recession in this commodity.

MOTHERS GIVING CHILDREN VITAMINS THEY NEED

Approved by Highest Medical Authorities in World

Progressive mothers now give their youngsters the full Vitamin benefit of Cod Liver Oil in sugar-coated tablet form.

Two McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets equal in Vitamin potency one teaspoonful of pure Cod Liver Oil and are just as good for every ailment, sickness, rundown or underweight condition for which liquid Cod Liver Oil is prescribed.

The most learned scientists the world over say Vitamins A and D go to build up strong, sturdy bones, add weight to thin little bodies, help to make teeth sound and straight and keep eyes free from soreness.

Most boys and girls, if they are to develop into attractive, healthy men and women, need a daily supply of Vitamins and in McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets they are sure to get them.

For McCoy's chemist extracts these priceless Vitamins from pure Norwegian, Vitamin tested Cod Liver Oil and puts them in tablets that youngsters love to take instead of the obnoxious oil they hate to take.

Bear in mind that doctors prescribe Cod Liver Oil for the Vitamins it contains—the oil without the Vitamins has no medical value. 60 tablets, 60 cents at any drug store in America. Take your Vitamins straight and take them daily. © 1929, McC. L., Inc.

DENIES CHARGE ON RESERVES

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A defense of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States, particularly of its activities in sending representatives before congressional committees, was made in a letter from Col. Walter C. Cole, national president, to Representative Collins, of Mississippi, which Col. Cole made public last night.

The letter was inspired by remarks of Representative Collins on the War Department appropriations bill on January 10. The letter quoted the Mississippian as saying that the reserve corps is "probably the most powerful political wing of the Army;" that the Reserve Officers' Association is "a very powerful political body" and that he sees no excuse for the existence of combat units except "their great propaganda value."

Declaring that "it is a great disappointment to learn that there is a member of the House of Representatives so much in ignorance as the purpose of the national defense act," Col. Cole made his defense in the form of questions addressed to Representative Collins. Each query beginning with the words "do you know" or "do you believe."

The principal points brought out in the letter were:

That the association has never been affiliated with any political, religious, sectional or secret organization.

That it has never asked Congress or any governmental department for a favor or privilege for a member.

That representatives of the association never have asked a Congressional committee for anything which does not legitimately come under the provision of the National Defense Act.

That the association believes its position in behalf of appropriation to carry out the provisions of the National Defense Act is one of patriotism in that "the provisions of this act endeavor to prevent the unnecessary loss of money and life in the next war, which have characterized all our past wars."

Col. Cole, who is executive vice president of the Metropolitan Trust Company of Detroit, said that the letter has been mailed to Representative Collins.

I'LL PAY Anyone $1000.00 to NAME THIS— IN CASH

Here Is An Easy Way to Make $1000.00

If you were putting a new soap on the market what would you call it? You would give it some name—either simple or fancy—what would that name be? I know you have a name in mind now, or you can suggest one after a few moments' thought. The very name you select may win the $1000.00 I am offering. It makes no difference whether you live in the country or city, if you are educated or not, if you are rich or poor, I want you to help me by suggesting a name for my new soap. We have paid thousands of dollars to prize winners and in almost every instance the person who least expected to win received a prize. You, too, may win by sending a suggestion. It costs you nothing to try. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, for any name may win. This soap is fragrant, lathers freely, promotes a smooth soft skin, is excellent for the bath, washing the hair, etc. A coined word such as Clean-Easy, Clean-All, or the name of flowers, trees, etc., or any other name you think of may be submitted.

YOU CAN'T LOSE

Even though other contestants submit the winning name first, because we will give duplicate prizes to all who send the winning name. If the name you send wins, you will receive $1000.00 regardless of how many other people have submitted the same name. This means you can't lose by others submitting the winning name first.

$100 Extra For Promptness

To get quick action we are going to pay the winner an extra $100.00 for promptness, or $1100.00 in all—so send your suggestion AT ONCE!

CONTEST RULES

This contest is open to everyone except members of this firm, its employees and relatives.
Each contestant may send only one name. Sending two or more names will cause all names submitted by that person to be thrown out.
Contest closes April 30, 1930. Duplicate prizes will be given in case of tie.
To win the promptness prize of $100.00 extra, the winning name suggested must be mailed within three days after our announcement is read.

Absolutely Nothing Else To Do

Remember there is no obligation. The person sending the name we choose will win this handsome prize. Nothing to buy or sell — nothing else to do to win. Think of the pleasure this prize can bring you, the places you could go, the things you could buy, with $1000.00, or $1100.00 cash, if you are prompt. Wouldn't it be delightful to win? Wouldn't it be a pleasant surprise to your friends? Don't think you can't win for your opportunity is just as good as anyone's, if you will send in a name. Do it right now! for the very name you send may win.

PUBLIC WARNED ON FOOD

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The public was told to beware of what speakers before the National Canners' Association described as "health foods" life grains and other food products for which curative or health-giving properties" are claimed. The speakers were Paul B. Dunbar, assistant chief of the food and drug administration of the Department of Agriculture and Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"The American public today" said Dunbar, "has an obsession on the question of health health foods, health fads and health exercise. But in its ignorance of the present limitations of scientific knowledge it has been disposed to accept without reservation the most extreme and in some cases ridiculous claims for the wholesomeness and health-giving qualities of various products.

"Label representations regarding health-giving properties or vitamin content which are not borne out by the actual facts can only be regarded as contravention of the law."

Dr. Fishbein told of what he described as a preposterous claim of a Florida grower that grapefruit had special virtues for diabetes which caused many patients to abandon temporarily their dependence on insulin and scientifically selected diets at the risk of their lives.

"The folly of claiming for various natural foods special contents of infinitely small quantities of various mineral salts and vitamins must not be permitted to dominate the manufacture of millions of cans of staple foods, millions of packages of cereals and millions of pounds of meat," Dr. Fishbein declared.

FREIGHT CRASH FATAL TO TWO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Two men were burned to death last night when a pusher engine rammed an eastbound freight train on the Erie Railroad near Lawtons, Erie County. Two other men escaped injury by leaping from the caboose just before the crash.

The dead are: W. C. McCall, 45, of Gowanda, formerly of Dayton, in charge of the pusher engine on the Erie in the Gowanda section, who is survived by his widow and six children, and Albert R. Dickinson, of Buffalo, brakeman on the freight, who is survived by his widow and five children.

The pusher, in charge of Charles Blair, engineer, was following the freight between Gowanda and North Collins to lend assistance over a steep grade out of Gowanda and to assist again at North Collins, where a new overhead crossing is under construction. The freight train had received orders to proceed directly to Gowanda. It was said, but at Lawtons noticed the signal set against the train. The freight stopped suddenly and the pusher engine crashed through the caboose. The caboose was splintered and the last freight car in the string was knocked from the rails and piled up in the wreckage. The debris caught fire.

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage; holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

DECLARE ALIEN CURB UNNEEDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The possibility that restriction of immigration from the western hemisphere might not result in an actual reduction in the number of aliens admitted as immigrants from some of the countries in the new world was considered in testimony before the House immigration committee.

John Farr Simmons, chief of the Visa Division of the State Department, said the present net annual immigration from Canada was slightly under 20,000, while the Johnson bill would permit the entry of approximately 50,000 annually. He advanced the opinion that enactment of the proposal would not bring any great objection from either side of the Canadian border.

Testimony indicating that the influx of immigrants from Mexico might not be restricted to any extent by the Johnson or Box bills was brought out in questioning of Monett B. Davis, foreign service inspector of the state department. A large reduction in the number of immigrants from the nations of the new world had been brought about in the past year through conferences with consular officials of the various countries, he said, in which more uniform methods of issuing immigrant visas were put in force.

He produced figures showing a decrease in Mexican immigration of about 71 per cent brought about by these conferences.

The average annual number of such visas issued during the five-year period prior to the conference, he explained, was 56,868, or a monthly average of 4,739, while since the conference these figures have been lowered to 16,242 annually and 1,354 monthly.

A still greater reduction was indicated by statistics on visas issue since last July 1, he continued, the average monthly figure for this period being 394, or 4,726 annually.

While declining to estimate the reduction in Mexican immigration which would result from the Johnson bill, Davis said the figures he cited would indicate that if the Mexican population of the United States was still increasing at a rapid rate, the increase was not "via channels that would be affected by application of a quota, but would call for a remedy in other directions."

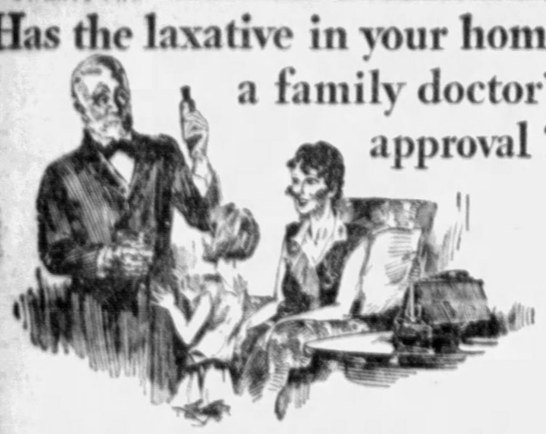
Has the laxative in your home a family doctor's approval?



MOST of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of our trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone.

Some things people do to help the bowels really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval.

A wonderful product now known to millions of people as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients.

Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!

FOREIGN SHIPS' USE EXPLAINED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The Commerce Department has transmitted to Congress a report showing expenditure by department expense during the fiscal year, 1929, and the reasons they gave for not taking American vessels.

The report, requested by Congress in a resolution introduced by Chairman Britten, of the House Naval Affairs Committee, last December, also revealed that officials of the department spent $45,799 in travel expenses on American ship lines in the same period.

The list of names of those who traveled on foreign ships included Assistant Secretary Klein, who made a trip to Europe on ships of the Hamburg-American line early in 1929. His reason for not taking an American ship was that "no American ship was available at the time of departure."

This reason was given by several others.

This was the first department to submit a report in response to the Britten resolution, which was offered after protests had been made against proposals that the United States delegation travel to the London naval conference on a British ship. The delegation made the voyage on an American vessel.

BANKER GIVEN TERM IN FAKE

SAGINAW, Mich., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—John R. Dufty's dream of quick and easy riches through stock market speculation which caused him to risk funds of the bank he had served for two decades, has brought him a sentence of from three to 20 years in the Michigan reformatory.

Dufty, who was cashier of the Merrill State Bank at Merrill, Mich., pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $35,000 before Circuit Judge Martin, who immediately passed sentence. He will not be taken to prison, however, until he has assisted state bank examiners in their audit of the bank's books.

Dufty's career as a banker came to a close last Friday when Detroit police drew from him a confession that he had "faked" the holdup and robbery of the bank 10 days ago. Dufty had gone to Detroit to attempt to identify suspects held in connection with the robbery. Certain technical short-comings in his story of the robbery resulted in his arrest. More than $13,000 supposed to have been taken by the robbers was found in one of the bank's safety deposit vaults where Dufty had hidden it.

In his confession to Detroit authorities Dufty said he had hit on the robbery scheme as the easiest way to cover up certain shortages in his accounts which had been caused by his unsuccessful activities in the stock market.

DAMAGE CLAIMS BOARD PROPOSED HERE

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

SHE is a handsome woman of perhaps 50. Wealthy, she likes to give. Her hobby is the program of sacred songs broadcast weekly from KDKA. For four years she has been paying for the radio time and paying for the singers.

She insists, above all, that her identity be kept secret. None of the singers know her. Probably not a dozen persons in the town realizes what she is doing.

Once each week she makes up the radio program of songs which are her favorites and mails it to the broadcasting station. She is satisfied with her reward, which is the satisfaction she knows thousands are gaining from the songs.

Each morning she drives downtown to her office in a limousine with her husband. Theirs is an old, respected name in Pittsburgh and their business is a rich one. Her husband goes to his office, she to hers.

From 9 to 5 o'clock she studies appeals which have been made to her purse. She gives only after she is satisfied that the charity is worthy. The office telephone is in her secretary's name, the better to shield her identity.

If she so chose, she could take a prominent place in society.

But she explained once that the joys of giving were greater than the pleasures of teas and dinners and dances.

Her weaknesses are comic strips, modern fiction and funny moving pictures. She likes especially Ella Cinders.

Things are looking up sartorially in Pittsburgh. A local school has added to its list of studies a course which is entitled "Taste in Dress." This is a good idea and probably has as its secret aim the elimination of neckties, known in better circles as cravats.

We should like to see as dean of the School for Taste in Dress none less than Mr. Jimmy Wall, who so much resembles Mayor Jimmy Walker that Mayor Walker is often described as the Jimmy Wall of New York. Mr. Wall is the town's most meticulous, most dapper dresser. It would be worth the price of an old hat to hear him instruct a backward student to stay in after school and write, 50 times on the blackboard, "Purple and pink do not match, purple and pink do not match, purple and . . ."

THE Bums is the name of a Pittsburgh club which shuns dignity. Its dozens or more members are politicians and men-about-town. Annually they celebrate the passing of the old year by gathering behind locked doors for one, two, three or four days. They stock their rooms with food and water and just sit around for a few days, discussing this and that. Their one rule is: None shall pass under yonder portals until all food and drink are consumed.

One of the members has false teeth, a condition not frowned upon by the liberal officers of the Bums Club. At last year's meeting he lost them. The meeting could not be broken up until he found them, which he did by sitting on them. This year the same loss occurred. And they were found in the same manner. This year's meeting lasted just two days, which is not long, as these meetings go. In fact, the members are ashamed of themselves.

Will Rogers Says:

LONDON, Jan. 21.—

WHEN you read this in the morning we will already have listened to the king. Everybody must remain standing during his speech. Be a good joke on us if some senator wrote his speech for him. I got the boys all looking fairly respectable. Mrs. Robinson helped me scrub Joe up. Poor little Mr. Morrow can't keep his silk silo on his head and Gen. Dawes would look better if his wouldn't stay on, but his old ash can pipe has never given off more arrogant aroma.

Got a real kick yesterday, picked up a telephone at 3 o'clock and woke up the family at 7 o'clock in Beverly Hills, Cal., and got the call through in exactly eight minutes. No prearrangements at all. Clear as life.

GUESTS AT AUTO SHOW STUDY DESIGNS

By H. W. DIETRICH,
Automobile Editor.

That Pittsburgh takes its automobile show seriously is indicated by questions asked attendants at exhibits by visitors. The automobile show is being presented each day this week, from 1 to 11 p. m. in Motor Square Garden, under the direction of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, and W. N. Owings, general manager.

Among the exhibits that are attracting attention among the visitors are those of DeSoto, Dodge, Hudson-Essex, Oakland-Pontiac, Oldsmobile-Viking and Plymouth. At each of these displays there are special cut-away chases, revealing the many improvements and mechanical features.

STURDY PRODUCTS

The public this year is attending the show not only to view and compare motordom's newest creations, but to thoroughly study them, their questions indicate. The queries reveal an unusually intelligent understanding of automotive lore as the reasons for mechanical changes are sought.

Body designs also are receiving much study, as are interior appointments. One display that is receiving considerable attention is that of Peerless, with its three new lines of eights. In this group is one model, which has been finished in two-tone green. The interior of this model matches the exterior in color so perfectly that it is one of the most harmonious ensembles of the entire show.

Automotive men today will attend two luncheons, one in honor of J. A. Bohannon, president, and R. B. Nettleton, general sales manager, of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation, and the second with the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce.

LUNCHEONS TODAY

The luncheon of Mr. Bohannon and Mr. Nettleton will be given by the Steel City Automobile Company, distributor for Peerless here, in Hotel Schenley at noon. It will afford many Peerless dealers of Western Pennsylvania their first opportunity to meet the new Peerless executives. The luncheon will be presided over by H. D. Eierman, vice president of the Steel City Company, and will be preceded by an inspection of new models and brief get-together.

The East Liberty Chamber of Commerce will observe Automobile Day at its luncheon in Walker Moore Inn, Broad and Sheridan street, at noon. The Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association has been given charge of the luncheon and will provide special entertainment.

Among the out-of-town visitors attending the show yesterday, was F. B. Sears, president of the Elcar Motor Company. He stated that he was very much impressed with the extensiveness and elaborateness of the Pittsburgh display and the enthusiasm with which the visitors greeted the exhibits. He was the guest of Al Hughson, Elcar distributor here.

Young Communists Will Honor Lenin

A Lenin memorial meeting, in observance of the fifth anniversary of the death of the Russian leader, will be held in Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller street, at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Speakers will be Mrs. Fannie Toohey, Ben Careathers and Pat Devine, organizer of the Young Communist Workers in Pittsburgh, under whose auspices the meeting will be held.

Devine said today that speakers will denounce Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Thomas G. Robertson, acting president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor for their part in the taxicab strike.

No Street Change In East Pittsburgh

East Pittsburgh Borough Council voted down a plan to return Electric avenue between Wood street and Braddock avenue to a two-way thoroughfare at its meeting last night. The avenue is part of the Lincoln Highway.

Council several months ago decreed that eastbound traffic should leave Electric avenue at Wood street passing to Beech street to Braddock avenue and the action taken last night climaxed an effort to restore the two-way system.

Nathan Beck, president of council, presided.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Happiness and love have remained steadfastly with Tom and Lovejoy Nicholson during their first year of married life. The arrival of Tom, Jr., brought more joy to the little green bungalow. Then comes Mrs. Aline Alderson, rich but childless neighbor, to sow the first seeds of discontent. When Tom refuses to go to the Aldersons' New Year's party, Lovejoy is incensed. Their first quarrel is patched up and they go to the party. Mrs. Alderson's husband is elderly. Lovejoy is glad she has Tom who has youth and looks if not money. When Tom makes a big sale of bonds to Alderson, Lovejoy plans on more freedom. Mrs. Alderson calls to use the phone. Lovejoy overhears the conversation. In town with Mrs. Alderson, Lovejoy is left alone in a theater. Aline arrives later and asks Lovejoy not to mention her absence. Lovejoy suspects she has an affair. That night all goes wrong at home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

TOM pushed open the bedroom door and stood on the threshold. There was an angry, puzzled look on his face as his eyes searched Lovejoy's sleepy ones.

"What man would be telephoning you long distance?" he asked bluntly.

Lovejoy sat up in bed, shaking her tousled head.

"No man," she said quickly. "Why?"

"Well, a long distance call just came in from South Port," he answered frowning, "and I heard a man talking to the operator. Then he said 'Hello' to me and when I answered he hung up."

Lovejoy was doing some quick thinking. . . . The man who had telephoned must have been Aline's Jack. She had told him yesterday to drive carefully to their meeting place because the roads were wet . . . and South Port was within easy driving distance of the town.

"It must have been some one who got our number by mistake," she said, rubbing the sleep out of her eyes.

But Tom shook his head. "No, I tell you I heard him asking the operator for it, and he had it straight enough," he replied. "Seems funny he hung up the minute he heard a man's voice at this end. . . . You're sure it wasn't some one you know?"

There was a trace of suspicion in his manner, and for a second Lovejoy was tempted to tell him about Aline and her sweetheart.

But she didn't . . . partly because she wanted the friendship of the Aldersons and partly because she was a good sport. A good sport did not tattle on her friends, particularly when she had found out things about them simply by accident . . . That was Lovejoy's way of looking at it.

"Tom," she said gravely, "I don't know a man in South Port or anywhere else who would telephone me, and that's the truth . . . Don't I smell coffee?"

He nodded.

"I made some, and I was going to set it here beside your bed. I thought it would do you good to sleep late for once. I gave the kid his bottle at 6 o'clock, and he's been asleep ever since."

He took out his watch and looked at it.

"Ten minutes past eight," he said quietly. "I'm late this morning . . . 20 minutes late . . . Funny that man telephoned just about the time that I'd be leaving the house, wasn't it?"

Lovejoy saw that he was still suspicious, and anger flared up inside of her all at once.

"Now, look here, Tom Nicholson," she said sharply. "You can't talk to me like that. I haven't any men friends, and there aren't any men who call me up. So you can just keep your nasty suspicions to yourself."

Glaring at him, she got out of bed and thrust her naked feet into her bedroom slippers. She reached for her kimono, a cheap cotton crepe one.

"If you loved me you'd trust me," she snapped out at him, "but the trouble with you is that you don't care about me any more. Look at this thing—"

She flapped the kimono in his face.

"Look at my bedroom slippers!" she went on, at white heat. "Out at the toe, and down at the heel . . . and look at my clothes! I haven't a decent thing to stand up in. But do you care? No! You promised me some money to spend on myself and then what do you do with it? You salt it away in the bank. Buy a bond with it—for yourself. Yourself! . . . And you accuse me of having telephone-lovers . . ."

In another minute she would have told him the truth about the mysterious telephone call.

But before that minute was up Tom left the house. He left it without another word, putting on his overcoat and hat as he hurried away. . . . And Lovejoy was left, as many another scolding wife has been left, to tell her troubles to the four walls.

Out on the table in the kitchen was the breakfast tray that Tom had fixed for her before the telephone call came in to destroy the peace and quiet of the little house.

A clean fringed napkin covered it, and beside the fat little German silver coffee pot was a plate of hard burned toast. . . . Lovejoy's anger melted away as she looked at it.

Tom did love her, and she knew it. If he hadn't loved her, he wouldn't have been so jealous and suspicious over that telephone call, would he?

She found herself crying a little as she broke off a bit of the toast and put it in her mouth.

What was the matter with her and Tom lately? They had had two quarrels in the last week—they, who had never really quarreled before! And now Tom had gone stamping and slamming out of the house as if he hated to be in it with her.

"All because of Aline Alderson," Lovejoy figured it out, drinking the strong, bitter coffee that Tom had made.

When the baby woke up she would bundle him into his buggy and go around to Aline's house. She would let her know, in a nice way, that she couldn't use their house for her telephone-talks with her sweetheart.

It's too dangerous, said Lovejoy to herself.

The weather was mild and warm after the rain, and the sun was shining through the bare branches of the trees when she started out at eleven o'clock with the baby.

She left him sleeping in his buggy in the vestibule of the Alderson house and followed a neat maid upstairs to Aline's room.

It was empty. A three-legged breakfast tray stood on a table beside the tumbled bed.

Lovejoy stared at the bed. She had never seen silky lace-edged sheets before. She had not even known there were such things. . . . Silk sheets!

Beyond the bathroom, there was a low murmur of voices.

Lovejoy tapped on the half-opened door, and Aline called her to come in.

The bathroom was a big room with shining tile walls. It

HERRON NAMES TRIO TO MEET TAXPAYERS

Three Councilmen to Join Group Seeking Efficient Rule of Public Buildings

President John S. Herron has appointed three members of Council to assist a taxpayers' committee in preparing recommendations for the efficient and economical management of city-owned buildings and rates for renting space in city buildings that would produce a maximum revenue.

The taxpayers' committee is a volunteer organization that was formed after J. W. Bamford, heading a delegation from the Building Owners and Managers' Association, and J. W. Cree, Jr., speaker for a committee from the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, protested to Council against a proposed increase in property taxes and offered to explain methods for avoiding them.

Bamford and Cree have been working on their report for some time and W. Y. English, chairman of Council's Finance Committee, proposed a committee of his colleagues to join in the deliberations.

DOGS HUNT GAS LEAKS

W. H. COOK AND THE POLICE DOGS HE'S TRAINED TO SMELL LEAKS IN GAS PIPES

County Fair Party At Keystone A. C.

A "County Fair" party, patterned after the "Night in Monte Carlo" party held last fall, will be held by the Keystone Athletic Club in the Club Building, Third avenue and Wood street, February 1. Members of the entertainment committee are H. S. Garrett, chairman; William H. Patterson, Dr. Charles A. Hill, Frank L. Stulen, Leonard Gardner and L. W. Dupuy.

DOGS DETECT GAS LEAKS

Throughout the ages dogs have proved their worth as detectives in almost every sphere of activity. The canines have ferretted out lairs of other animals and game, birds—and even in a pinch have been used to bring about the capture of prohibition law violaters by detecting the "evidence," by a keen sense of smell.

But it remained for "May" and "Billy," two police dogs owned by W. H. Cook, of 112 Terrace street, McDonald, a line walker for the South West Penn Pipe Lines Company to be pressed into service as gas leak hunters.

HUNT GAS LEAKS

For more than a score of years Cook has been tramping pipe lines over Western Pennsylvania's hills. The dogs have been his companions on many of the jaunts.

This grizzled veteran may be seen early every Monday morning at the local Pennsylvania station as he boards his train.

Attired in cow-country boots, hunting togs and with a knapsack thrown on his back, Cook appears more like a character from Zane Grey, as he and his dogs trek through, rain, snow and sunshine over the miles of pipe lines. He walks nearly a hundred miles weekly.

"May" and "Billy," according to Cook, are quick in detecting leaks.

LIGHTEN LABORS

"The minute one of 'em smells a leak I can tell it by their actions," he says.

"They sniff around and put their noses down close to the greasy line. As soon as they hit the leak all I have to do is stop and investigate and when I get back into God's country, make a report to the office. These hounds sure do lighten my labors."

Several times when he has been caught in snow storms, "May" and "Billy" have acted as life savers by acting as animal heat radiators in barns where Cook took refuge.

COUNTY BAR SPONSORS MOVE

Plan Aims at Economy And Speeding Litigation; Attorneys Name Committee

A committee of Pittsburgh lawyers, it was learned today, are working on a plan which it is hoped will culminate in the creation of a state commission that will pass on claims growing out of accidents in much the same way as the Workmen's Compensation Board does at present.

It is proposed thus to save money for all concerned, do away with "ambulance chasing," and relieve congestion in the courts.

The committee, composed of C. F. C. Arensberg, Gifford K. Wright, Robbin Wolf, John J. Heard, Drayton Heard and others, was appointed by President W. W. Smith, of the Allegheny Bar Association after an address by Attorney Henry S. Drinker, Jr., of Philadelphia, before the association, in which he outlined the nature of the movement.

Mr. Drinker proposed that a board be created to handle claims for damages resulting from accidents, and that to facilitate settlement of claims automobile drivers and public utilities companies be required to carry compensation insurance as a condition of being licensed.

The committee of lawyers has already drafted rules for submission to the courts, prohibiting attorneys from employing persons to solicit business and doing away with other practices held responsible for many of the evils of the present system of collecting damages for personal injuries.

PLEA BY COAL POLICE DENIED

Attorneys Edward G. Coll and Charles B. Prichard have denied reports that they might enter pleas of guilty for Coal and Iron Police Lieut. Walter J. Lyster and Officers Harold Watts and Frank Slapikas when they are arraigned for trial at Franklin, Pa., January 28, charged with involuntary manslaughter, in connection with the beating to death of John Barcoski, Tyre miner, at the Santiago barracks of the coal police February 10, 1929.

Following acquittal of the trio of a charge of murder September 28, Attorneys Coll and Prichard asked the Supreme Court for a change of venue for the involuntary manslaughter trial, claiming an impartial jury could not be procured in Allegheny County, and the court designated that the trial be held in Venango County.

There has been much speculation regarding the defense, but the attorneys for the coal police are emphatic in saying there will be no last-minute suprises and that the full array of witnesses, who testified in the murder trial, will appear on the stand at Franklin.

East End Fumes Laid to Refineries

What resembled a heavy blanket of gas fumes late yesterday settled over several sections of the East End. Scores of persons reported the condition to East End police, who called officials of the Equitable Gas Company. After employes inspected the mains, officials said there was no trace of escaping gas, and attributed the condition to low atmospheric pressure and fumes from oil refineries in the Butler street district, borne into the East End by a brisk wind which was blowing at the time.

Dravosburg Keeps Old Chief of Police

Dravosburg Borough Council re-elected C. A. Livingston chief of police for his fourth term at its meeting held last night. John A. Kelso, president of council, presided.

Eight candidates were in the field for the position. The chief has served Dravosburg six years, going to that police department after having been identified with the state police at the Greensburg barracks.

Coaster, 10, Hits Auto, Injured

Norton Rapaport, 10, of 30 Welford street, was in the Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital today with a fractured leg suffered in a coasting accident at Bates and Zulema streets, last night. The boy was injured, police said, when he coasted his sled in the path of a machine driven by James Kealy, 26, of 201 Ulysses street.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Who is the best-dressed and most distinguished appearing man in the City-County Building?

CLARA ALSTON, clerk, Bureau of Charities: "There can be no question about the distinguished appearance of Mayor Kline himself. His bearing, neatly-tailored clothes and stately manner sets him in a class apart. For my second and third choices as the most distinguished and handsome I would nominate Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, and Councilman W. Y. English."

Miss Alston

BERTHA LICHNOVSKY, social worker: "Who can question Mayor Kline's right to that title? They say Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York City, is a snappier dresser and one who presents a fine appearance, but he doesn't have a thing on Mr. Kline. He wears clothing that accentuates his personality and gives him that bearing of dignity that is so admirable. For second choice I would name Councilman English and President Herron of council."

Miss Lichnovsky

SALLY MARTZ, stenographer, City-County Building: "Mayor Kline takes first honors for the title of best-dressed and the most handsome executive in the building. What makes him so is his distinguished appearance, personality and the cut of his clothes. He always seems so well-groomed. Even after a busy day, when most men appear fatigued and slightly dishevelled, Mayor Kline looks as if he had just stepped out of the barber's chair. My nomination for second and third choice would be Councilman English and Magistrate Snyder of North Side Police Court."

Miss Marts

RUTH SUCCOP, stenographer, City-County Building: "My vote goes to Councilman Michael Muldowney, for his sedate and well-groomed appearance; the cut of his tailored suits, his air of distinction and finally for his youth. He is extremely good looking. Judge James B. Drew, of the county courts and Councilman W. Y. English can have my votes for succeeding choices, because they both always look well."

Miss Succop

MAY HART, stenographer, City-County Building: "Without a doubt and any chance for an argument, Mayor Kline is the best dressed man in the City-County Building. Not only that, he is handsome. This goes far to set off his appearance. Councilman John Herron would be second choice for sartorial honors and Councilman Harry Little as third. There are a number of other handsome men in the building but their names escape me for the present moment."

Miss Hart

MARIAN GANLEY, stenographer, City-County Building: "Many people will concur with me in saying that the Mayor himself happens to be the best dressed and most distinguished official in the city adminstration. It is only proper that the chief executive be handsome and a credit to the city he represents. B. L. Succop of the city department of supplies, is a close second and Councilman W. Y. English is my third choice for honors."

CIVIL SERVICE PROTECTION WANING

Board Acts Friday on Plan To Throw 61 Places Open; Faithful Workers Fearful

Mayor Kline's slogan "To the Victor Belongs the Spoils" has assumed dread significance with the posting of a notice by the Civil Service Commission of a proposal that would permit the discharge of 61 men on the payroll without reason excepting political vengeance.

The proposal has created chaos in the ranks of the employes, many with years of faithful service, who gather in solemn groups to speculate whether they will be among the casualties.

The notice states the commission will hold a hearing at 4 p. m. Friday in the City-County Building and invites taxpayers' opinions on a proposal to place all division engineers, bureau superintendents, chief clerks, assistant chief clerks and law department investigators in the "exempt" class, where no reason for discharge is demanded of a superior.

NOW PROTECTED

The listed positions now are protected by civil service rules that compel the discharging official to give the employe a written notice of suspension detailing the reasons for his pending discharge. The suspended employe has five days to reply to his superior and if the employe challenges the reason given for his suspension he may take an appeal to the Civil Service Commission which must grant him a public hearing.

In the "exempt" class, the discharge becomes effective immediately without a given reason and without the right to appeal to the commission.

The Kline administration is in sorry straits over the scarcity of available jobs and seems reluctant to create vacancies by giving feeble or trumped-up charges for discharging incumbents.

LETS DOWN BARS

With many desirable jobs removed from civil service protection to the "exempt" class, the administration will be able to place applicants who could not pass a mental test, as no written examination is required.

The commission that will decide the proposed change in classification includes Dr. F. H. Frederick, who managed Mayor Kline's campaign; Dr. S. H. Johnson, Mayor Kline's brother-in-law, and J. Howard Devlin.

Employes menaced by the proposed change are 12 division engineers, ranging in pay from $3,600 to $5,000; 19 superintendents, from $2,500 to $7,000; 26 chief clerks, from $2,000 to $3,960; one assistant chief clerk, at $2,400, and three investigators for the law department at $1,800, $2,250 and $2,750 each.

ORDERS BRIEFS IN VOTE FIGHT

Attorneys in the election contest for the commissionership of the Fourth District of Shaler Township, (Glenshaw) were instructed by Judge Thomas J. Ford to file briefs by next Thursday, upon the completion of the taking of evidence yesterday. Permission for the petitioner to put on three additional witnesses on Thursday, provided they can be found, was granted.

Attorneys H. P. Stambaugh and D. C. England, representing George P. Thomas, the petitioner, and Attorneys George F. P. Langfitt and W. T. Kessler, representing Clyde E. Cathers, the respondent, were heard orally and the briefs are to supplement these arguments.

Cathers and Thomas both claim the election, which has been awarded to Cathers by a majority of seven votes by the election board. Thomas presented witnesses in an effort to prove that about 20 persons not entitled to vote had cast ballots for Cathers while Cathers put on witnesses who said some of the voters for Thomas were ineligible.

6 HURT AS AUTO HITS TROLLEY

Six persons, two of them women, were in Mercy Hospital today with injuries suffered when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a Beechview street car at Smithfield and Carson streets, last night.

The most seriously injured was Nick Morrourov, 18, of Terrace, Pa., who sustained a probable fracture of the skull. Other who suffered brush burns, lacerations and bruises were Charles Rabickow, 18, of 407 McClure avenue, the driver; Julia Molish, 16, of 240 Third avenue; Elizabeth Banchenka, 19, of 324 First avenue; George Bell, 18, of 336 Third avenue, and Hall Guzy, 18, of 310 City Farm lane, all of Homestead.

The victims, on their way to a basketball game in McKees Rocks, were taken to the hospital by passing motorists.

Police said Rabickow was westbound in Carson street when he crashed into the car which was city bound. Passengers in the street car were shaken.

SAFETY COUNCIL HEARS GLICK

Secretary Peter Glick, of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, was the speaker at the opening meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council's annual lecture course last night in Moose Temple. Secretary Glick stressed the human side of safety in industry. Mr. Glick was introduced by Frank L. Dugan, president of the council.

Many people look only at the economic side of accidents in industry, Secretary Glick declared. He said this state last year paid out more than $80,000,000 for 2,012 deaths and 164,000 accidents in industry.

"The economic side does not appeal to me," Glick said. "Instead I am more concerned with the human side, the tragic and gruesome side which leaves the mother husbandless and the children fatherless."

Milt Asks City to Enter Pachyderm in Pet Show

Prof. Milton D. Crandall, who has been found guilty of promoting dance marathons, wants to borrow the city's elephant.

The professor petitioned Council yesterday to enter a heavy pachyderm in the "Bring Your Own Pet" show which will hold forth at Motor Square Garden for a week beginning next Monday.

Council will act on the Professor's request today, after it receives the recommendation of the committee on parks and libraries although Prof. Crandall made clear that he wants neither park nor library.

"There is a very pretty elephant in the Highland Park Zoo, I understand," Prof. Crandall explained, "and I think the city would be doing justice to the taxpayers by entering this elephant, whose name may be Sarah. I am giving $500 in prizes for the most interesting pet and the city can use the $500 as well as the next fellow. My only motive is one of public service.

"There is also a girls' bicycle race and a piano marathon as part of the show, but I am afraid I cannot let the city enter any candidates in those divisions."

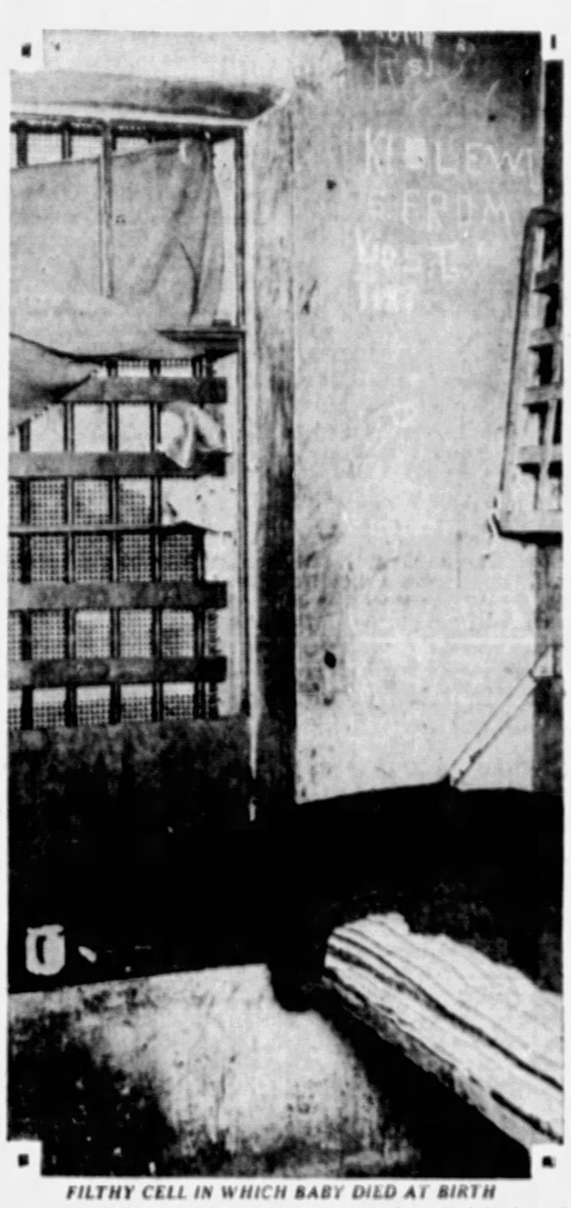
Dirty Cell Which Cost Babe's Life When Mother Was Jailed



FILTHY CELL IN WHICH BABY DIED AT BIRTH

In this cell, its walls scratched with prisoner's initials and wit and its window stuffed with rags to keep out the wind, a baby was born dead to Mrs. Sue Brown, alone and unattended. Two other children were at home as she was serving a 75-day sentence because two cases of beer were found in her home.

Young Mother, Terrorized By Dry Raider, Railroaded To Prison Cell; Baby Dead

Mrs. Arthur Brown is the wife of a young mechanic living in Monterey County, California. She is the mother of two children. The baby that was expected is dead. Mrs. Brown is in a hospital.

A man who said he was the sheriff broke into the lonely little Brown cottage and found two cases of home brew. Shock of the raid and her arrest brought Mrs. Brown to her present condition. Winifred Black, noted writer, tells the story at first hand.

By WINIFRED BLACK

She is in the hospital, and the baby she had begun to make happy plans for is dead. I saw her for two or three minutes in the hospital. She said:

"They brought me over from prison an hour or so ago. I was afraid to stay there any longer—I haven't been very well for two or three weeks—and all the excitement— I just couldn't bear it, I guess."

The big brown eyes flooded with sudden tears. She went on:

"Have you seen Art? Does he know where I am? I'm so worried about Arty and Katherine Bell, my two little children.

HUSBAND MUST WORK

"Poor Art, he has to keep working whatever happens. They've been awfully good to him at the shop, but he's got to keep up his work. I don't see how he does it."

The wistful little face whitened with sudden pain. The nurse stepped forward—and I went out.

I found Arthur Brown, Sue Brown's husband, right where he is every day of his life, at work in the little machine shop in Monterey. He said:

"It all began New Year's Eve. Sue and I were invited to a party in Monterey, but Sue didn't feel very well, so she said she'd stay at home with the children and I could run over for an hour or so and tell the folks she was sorry she couldn't come.

"When I got home I found Sue crying. I asked what was the matter and she told me that just after I had gone somebody pounded on the front door.

BROKE IN THE DOOR

"She put her head out of the window and called down, 'Who is it?' and a man answered in a rough, loud voice, 'It's the sheriff'."

Before she could get to the head of the stairs the man broke in the door. The husband explained:

"She was all alone in the house with two small children, one six years old and one a year old, and the man breaking the door down and coming right in that way scared her so she didn't know what to do. She wasn't well, anyway, you see.

"The man handed her a paper and said he'd come to search the house. Sue said, 'Why, of course. But who are you? Who sent you? Have you seen Art?'

The man went all through the house from top to bottom. He looked in every nook and corner and finally he found two cases of home brew.

"No, I didn't make it myself. A friend of mine made it. I bought half the materials and he bought half, and we thought we'd have a little beer for the holidays.

"It took Sue quite a few days to get over the scare and I couldn't bear to leave her alone a minute. Just as she was getting over it a little—eight days after that—the same man came back and he had a warrant for her arrest.

"She tried to get me on the telephone at the shop, but she couldn't get me and he wouldn't let her wait, and he wouldn't take her past the shop on the way to Monterey to tell me about it.

"When I heard about it I went as fast as I dared to go, but when I got there the trial was over and I had just time to see Sue for one minute before they took her to jail.

EVERYBODY IN HURRY

"She said the judge was in a hurry, and Laughdey, the man who arrested her, was in a hurry, too.

"And Sue was so scared she didn't know her own name. And she thought they had arrested her for the homebrew and she signed a paper saying, yes, she had the homebrew in the house.

"But it turned out that the paper said she confessed to selling homebrew and whisky, too. She didn't know a thing about it, and they never asked me one single word."

And every idler on the streets of Monterey and every other householder in town will tell you that Monterey County is alive with bootleggers and bootleg whisky.

On New Year's Eve, right here in Monterey County, there were hundreds of New Year's parties and nobody was drinking buttermilk at any of them.

Yet, Officer D. M. Laughry, of the prohibition enforcement squad, took his six feet three and his broad shoulders and his courage and his daring out to a lonely little farmhouse on the Castroville road and frightened a simple little mother with two children in the house.

Fine business this, for good old Uncle Sam, isn't it?

Brave business, heroic business, high-minded, intelligent, splendid business! But somehow, I cannot find it in by heart to be very proud of it, can you?

Eyer, 5132 Broad street, charged in a bill of particulars in Common Pleas Court in his divorce action against Mrs. Gladys Irene Eyer, of 11 Sampson street, North Side. The suit alleged unfaithfulness and named James McNulty as co-respondent.

The disappearing act related by Eyer occurred October 11 and he left her, according to the bill. In September, while he was on a business trip to Greensburg, McNulty visited Mrs. Eyer almost every day at their home, Eyer charged. He also accused his wife of other meetings with McNulty on the North Side. The Eyers were married December 14, 1921.

POLICE CHIEFS AMONG RUM CONVICTS

North Side and McKeesport Racketeers Start South To Enter Penitentiary

A party of 14 federal prisoners, including Pittsburgh and McKeesport racketeers, started this morning for the Atlanta Penitentiary in custody of Deputy United States Marshal D. A. Goldman and guards. They were sentenced in the United States District Court to serve terms ranging from a year and a day to five years for committing various offenses against the government. The trip south was made from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station in a special coach.

While final preparations were being made for the trip Benjamin Frank, convicted in the McKeesport rum conspiracy trial, surrendered himself to the United States marshal and advised the latter he had abandoned his appeal to the United States Circuit Court for a new trial. He was taken along to begin a year and a day sentence imposed by Judge R. M. Gibson.

POLICEMEN IN GROUP

Daniel McLaughlin, Fred Stratman and Thomas C. Johnson, convicted in the North Side rum conspiracy cases, who were denied new trials by the Circuit Court, are among the prisoners, each under a two-year sentence and a fine of $5,000 each.

Five men, convicted in the McKeesport rum conspiracy case, are in the southbound prison party. They are John F. Brennan, former chief of McKeesport police, who is to serve 18 months; Charles L. Bergstedt, former chief of Versailles police, to serve one year and a day; Leo P. Vennebush, ex-motorcycle policeman, McKeesport, to serve one year and a day; Harry Uskovitz and Martine Firestone, bootleggers, to serve 18 months and one year, respectively.

MAIL FAKERS TAKEN

Arthur Catlin, alias Floyd White, who has a long criminal record, was taken along to serve a five-year sentence for transporting a stolen automobile from Terre Haute, Ind., to Slovan, Pa. December 12, 1929, he was sentenced to serve four years by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, and while being led from the court room to the marshal's office, he made a dash for freedom, but was recaptured by Chief Deputy Marshal J. H. Irons, and two prohibition agents before he reached the ground floor of the Federal Building. He was taken back to the court room and an additional year was added to the sentence.

The others were Gerald Mackreth, to serve 30 months, and J. V. Matyasovic, to serve two years, for using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with the operation of the Pittsburgh Hand Truck Company. Harry J. Miller, alias "Baltimore" Whitey, two years, for breaking into the post-office at Plateau, Erie County, and Frank Soaper, one year and a day, for transporting a stolen automobile in interstate traffic.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh Society Folk Turn Out for Chicago Symphony Concert

ALL music loving families in Pittsburgh society were represented, I do believe, at the Chicago Symphony concert last night in Syria Mosque. There were buds of this winter there, and their older sisters and brothers and their mothers. And the grandmother generation was represented, too.

It was one of the most colorfully gowned and most responsive audiences I've seen in a long time. During the intermission the corridors of the Mosque were crowded with groups of friends praising the conductor.

One of the most distinctively lovely members of the younger set, Jewel Jarvis Sa[illegible] and slender and blonde was there with her sister Margaret. Jewel wore a gown of black chiffon and tulle reaching the waist and her sister yellow chiffon and tulle.

Barbara Ewing was there too wearing green chiffon and I caught a glimpse of Mrs. George H. Love wrapped in a mink coat entering with her father and mother, the Howard Hale McClintics. Mrs. McClintic wore a simple gown of black velvet.

Walking up and down the corridor was Laura Evans who made her bow this winter. Her gown was of lavender chiffon sweeping the floor, and her wrap of silver cloth had a scarf collar of tangerine velvet.

Mrs. William Thaw Jr. was entertaining a party in her box as were the Horace Forbes Bakers. And Mrs. Baker's gown was of dahlia chiffon with low-placed fullness and moulded waist and she wore a sable coat. The Edgar R. Cates were in their box and Mrs. Albert Harlow of Concord, Mass., who is the house guest of the Bakers. Mrs. Cate looked interesting in a gown of blue chiffon and a wrap of turquoise blue velvet with a collar of white fox. And Mrs. Harlow's gown was also dahlia chiffon and she wore a cape of shirred taupe transparent velvet, banded in fur.

Today Mrs. Baker is giving a bridge luncheon down in Sewickley, by the way, for Mrs. Harlow and tomorrow Mrs. George O. Applegate will give a similar entertainment for her.

Mrs. Jack Edward Lewis wore pale blue chiffon and a mink coat and I believe I caught a glimpse in the crowded corridor of Betty Quiler, who made her bow last winter. And Mrs. Elizabeth Reed Brown was chatting with a group of friends during the intermission, as was Mrs. John Byerly, who wore an interesting gown of black crepe with the skirt simulating a bustle.

Leaving the concert I saw Ellen McClay in a sapphire blue velvet coat with a white fox collar and Mrs. Jack Bissell.

Two buds of the season, Lydia Irish and Frances Forsyth, were there, and Elizabeth Jenkins I saw, too. Elizabeth wore old blue transparent velvet with a square decolletage.

NO matter how perfect a concert may be the theaters always have their following. And when I dropped into the Nixon last night where George M. Cohan was appearing in "Gambling," a most exciting play with clever dialogue, by the way, I saw a number of familiar faces. Mrs. T. M. Jones, III was wearing black lace and tulle and a wrap of black velvet banded in white fox, and Elinor Munroe, mulberry crepe.

Mrs. Robert Patterson, Jr., was in black lace with a furred brocaded coat, and Florence McCormick in black chiffon. And the Robert C. Montgomerys were interested in the play. I noticed Mrs. Montgomery wore an apple green chiffon gown, and a bay green velvet coat.

Black chiffon was worn by Helen Leovy, with a coat of black caracul, and black crepe with the skirt sweeping the ground, by Betty McCullough.

CLUB NOTES

IN its annual observance of the birthday of Gen. Robert E. Lee yesterday the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was entertained at the home of Mrs. Leonard Rawsthorne, Milton street. The program was arranged by Mrs. Stanley Crawford, who introduced Mrs. Carroll Miller, guest of the chapter. Mrs. Miller gave a sketch of the lives of the three great Confederate leaders, Gen. Lee, Gen. Stonewall Jackson and Commodore Matthew Fontaine Maury. She stated that all three were Virginians, born in the month of January, but were of different descent and environment. In their ideals, however, all were of the same type and rendered to their cause the same sacrifices. Mrs. William O'Lee sang several groups of southern songs, accompanied by Mrs. Adalaine Merrill Biddle. The guests were presented with corsages of roses by Mrs. Crawford.

Mrs. Elder Marshall gave an account of a visit made by several members to the home of Dr. L. E. Jenkins, of Vandergrift, an honorary member of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and one of the few surviving Confederate veterans in Pennsylvania. The decorations were carried out in Confederacy colors, red and white, the tea table being centered with silver candlesticks with red candles in silver sticks combined with red and white carnations. INTERESTING talks on penal reform were given yesterday at the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club meeting by Mrs. Charles Long, of Wilkes-Barre, and Dr. Ludwig Bernstein. Mrs. Long, who is chairman of the committee on correction and restoration in the State Federation, showed, through a history of the movement, that progress has been made in penal reformation, although it has of necessity been slow. There is little the individual can do except through urging proper legislative measures, and looking after the local "lockup," she stated. She spoke particularly of occupational therapy for prisoners, and of the Marshall Stillman Foundation Shop for Released Prisoners. Dr. Bernstein, executive secretary for the Pittsburgh Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, told of penal systems in other countries.

Dierks, a past president of the Tuesday Musical Club and now president of the State Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Frederick H. Parke had lent for the day a most interesting collection of Russian curios, including needle work, china, brasses and enamels.

ATELIERS PREDICT CAPES TO BE POPULAR FOR SPRING

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Surely spring must be hiding somewhere behind the lovely folds of the cape that adds a dash of animation to almost every new frock. We have felt the cape increasing in popularity for some time, for it is definitely in key with the mode that has gone so alluringly feminine. And now here it is in ever so many attractive guises. Sometimes it just timidly covers the shoulders and masquerades as a capelet. Then again it is of waistline length, part of a frock. And next season, it is believed that the cape in all its romantic charm will be part of both day and evening ensembles, and we have no doubt but that many will rejoice at its return to fashion and favor.

MUCH red is being worn now, and is in demand for winter resort wear. It is essentially good, when combined with white, for both blonde and brunette. Green and blue, too, in many shades, particularly the pale pastel tones, is much liked, at least, for early spring wear. It is, of course, too early to predict just what hues will add their note of color to the vivid summer scene, but we think that pastel shades will maintain their good start.

JUST now, frocks charmingly seek to suggest the brightness and gaiety of spring with its promise of sunfilled hours that seem to awaken in all of us, if only for a brief spell, the devine glory of youth. Surely, this is the charming thought conveyed by the attractive dress shown here today. It is of bright red crepe with a touch of white in the set-in flat bow at the front of the bodice and on the cuffs. A circular cape, open at both front and back and held on by means of an attached scarf wrapped about the throat completes the frock. Intricate piecings and fan-like pleats trim the front of the skirt. The belt is high and fastens with a silver and red enamel buckle.

Go South, Young Woman, and wear this attractive beach suit made by Mary Nowitzky. It consists of a white flannel jumper, sleeveless, and flaring pyjama trousers also of flannel.

Twentieth Century Club Hears Lindsay Recital

NICHOLAS VACHEL LINDSAY, troubador—hair gone a little white in streaks—quick, wide smile that suddenly changes his whole expression—low, loose collar and capacious tie—came to the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning and had his dignified audience take part in one of his "poem games." And, moreover, made them like it.

Mr. Lindsay read (if one may for convenience sake, call it that) from his "Collected Poems" and his most recent book, "Every Soul Is a Circus," explaining that his songs (he doesn't call them poems) had been written to be danced, a custom that has been since the days of ancient Greece. No orchestra can match the music of the 26 letters of the alphabet, he says, and a cartoon of this same idea may be found in vaudeville when the person "steps off" the words and rhythm.

"John Brown" was the one in which his audience joined. He gave, among others, one of his "whimsies from the nursery." His idyl of the younger generation, "The Virginians Are Coming Again," and some of his older poems from the days when they were "rhymes to be traded for bread" and he was preaching the gospel of beauty afoot across the continent, and that most exquisite "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight" were all deeply enjoyed by the audience. "The Santa Fe Trail" and "Congo" are probably most representative of that type which has won for him (and not to his liking, he says), the title of "the jazz poet."

MUSIC

SYRIA MOSQUE

PROGRAM.
Overture, "Fingal's Cave," Opus 26 ..... Mendelssohn
Arioso from the Passion According to St. Matthew ..... Bach
Symphony No. 4, F Minor Opus 36 ..... Tschaikowsky
Suite for Orchestra, Opus 19 ..... Dohnanyi
Rhapsody, "Espana" ..... Chabrier

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, with Frederick Stock conducting, gave us the most amazing concert in Syria Mosque last night, and the audience, dazed by the wonder of it all, sat breathless until the fit time for its burst of enthusiasm.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Stock offered us a program of substantial music, most of which we had heard many times. And then with the first wave of his hand began to transform every note of this music into radiant tone. When he finished the Tschaikowsky Symphony, we felt that we had heard it for the first time. At one time, during the scherzo, he allowed his men to play without direction from his baton; their obvious success was a miracle in discipline. The archaic forms of Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" breathed with a new life, and the Bach "Arioso," arranged by Stock, displayed at its best the compact tone of his string choir.

The novelty of the evening was the Suite of Dohnanyi. The first movement is a set of colorful variations. There is only sporadic suggestion of the composer's native Hungary in the combination of instruments. There is little new here; the music never loses its sanity, and yet Dohnanyi has never said anything commonplace. The restless grotesqueries of the scherzo, with its confusion of rhythms were highly attractive, and the floating tone of the violins, singing the changeable melody of the romanza, will not soon be forgotten. The rondo was masterly in instrumentation. Dohnanyi has made an astonishing picture with old colors.

Stock will return to close our orchestral concerts.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Many who pay rent could easily own their own home if they would get serious about saving enough to start.

One of the most sensible and easy ways to home ownership is to buy a lot—on time payments if necessary.

After the lot is clear, there are many responsible builders who will arrange easy payments to finance a substantial amount of what the new home costs.

This institution has two plans designed to help ambitious people of modest income to home ownership.

The first is a 15 Year Monthly Payment Mortgage Plan, which is for new homes only. We will lend 60% of our appraised value, which is to be repaid in equal monthly installments like rent, over a period of 15 years—the payments including both interest and principal.

The other is the 10 Year Monthly Payment Plan—not necessarily on new homes—which pays out in 10 years.

Upon request, we shall be pleased to mail you booklets explaining both plans.

Our Mortgage Department welcomes discussion with those who contemplate home purchase. Its counsel will be sound and helpful.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Two Cohans in "Gambling" Leave Audience Guessing Which Wins Most Applause

By GEORGE SEIBEL

TWO George M. Cohans appeared at the Nixon Theater last night—George M. Cohan, playwright, and George M. Cohan, actor. It would be no easy matter to decide which of the two should receive the lion's share of the laurels—if lions eat laurels. For "Gambling" is a great play, and George M. Cohan's acting in the principal role is a magnificent piece of character work.

George Seibel

Perhaps the playwright Cohan deserves even more of the praise than the actor. When an actor writes a play for himself, he generally writes it for no one else. But Cohan has long scenes where he almost effaces himself, and throughout the three acts the best lines are given to Mazie, who is played by Mary Philips with stellar virtuosity. Again the question arise whether Mary Philips or George M. Cohan should receive the credit for this marvelous character study.

No claptrap, no fustian, no melodramatics, no cheap sentiment, no loose ends — "Gambling" is the finest play by far that George M. Cohan has ever written, and one of the finest the American stage has seen in years. There is just one tiny flaw that a crabbed critic might pick in the last act, Who could be crabbed when 24 well selected actors have just shown what real acting is, in a drama that every ambitious playwright ought to see in order to learn what real drama is?

Until the last five minutes everybody in the audience is sitting on the edge of his seat, wondering how this new version of "Hamlet" and "Sherlock Holmes" is going to turn out.

Murder In Advance

Drama begins to unfold as soon as the curtain rises. Gradually we learn that murder has been committed. Then for three acts we follow the square gambler, Draper, as he attempts to find the guilty one.

As played by Cohan, this Draper is a character etched with an artistry that has not been seen since Warfield and Dittrichstein in their best roles. His silences and his pauses are more masterly than great moments of many actors. Perhaps his greatest moment is at the close of the first act when he hands the police inspector the letter telling who the murdered girl was. There isn't a word spoken. That is real drama.

Again at the end of the second act, when he is weaving his snare around Mazie, he gives a triumphant revelation of his knowledge of human nature in the flashy world of the tony racketeer. The old jauntiness of Cohan in his prentice days has matured into a rich mellowness compellingly human.

The third act is somewhat more artificial in its glamour of the palatial gambling hell, and in its climax—but that climax is one of the most vivid and amusing episodes of the play. Here the audience can enjoy all the thrills of a police raid, realistically staged, in perfect immunity.

In the last act again, Cohan is self-effacing. It is in this act that Mary Philips shines as Mazie. She has the best lines in the script—and how she gets them across!

Ingenious Mr. Cohan

It is in this last act that Cohan the dramatist also shows his ingenuity by laying his scene in New York and San Francisco without dropping the curtain. Being a drama of mystery and crime and detection, it would not be fair to reveal too much of the plot, which brings a considerable surprise in the denouement.

Whether the explanation of the incident that brings about this denouement is quite convincing, none but a crabbed critic would ask after seeing 24 actors give 24-karat performances in a play that's as well-rounded as a wedding ring.

There would need be a list of 24 names to do justice to the acting. Perfect is the word that describes it—not a false note—hardly an accent too much anywhere. And the stage settings, four of them—perfect is also the word to describe them.

Crisp and crackling dialogue, absolute fidelity to human nature in the character drawing, perfect mastery of technique as revealed in such minor things as exits and entrances, atmosphere that is so convincing that it looks like climate—all these things make it very difficult to decide which Cohan deserves the more enthusiastic adjectives. Let us call it even and be grateful for both of them as an assurance that the American drama and the American actor are not interred at Hollywood.

Building Inspector Overcome by Gas

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 21.—Charles Seiberling, 27, a state building inspector of California, was overcome by gas while writing in his room. He was found seriously ill and brought to the hospital here.

NORMA TALMADGE FINE IN BROADWAY FILM IN THE PENN

Before the movies learned to talk, Norma Talmadge was one of the stars, none too numerous, who had both personality and brains as well as the curves and angles that would photograph effectively. She still has all these things, as demonstrated in the "New York Nights" shown in Loew's Penn.

The scenario, too, has qualities that lift it above the romantic gush supposed to be good enough for the talkie strata of the census. Of course, the heroine is immaculate, though she wades through mud, and the hero turns out all right after many drinks, because Gilbert Roland couldn't possibly go wrong altogether. It's against screen rules.

"Tin Pan Alley"

Based on the play, "Tin Pan Alley," the picture shows a song writer who is married to a girl of the stage. He can't let the bottle alone, and she is pursued by a Chicago gunman who makes "twenty grand" a day since he came to New York. When the lovely and virtuous Norma leaves her husband, the suave king of the trigger provides for her expenses.

After a shooting at a riotous party, while the trigger king is in jail, Norma finds her husband starving and proceeds to elope to Chicago with him. One more shooting affray on a moving train, and everybody is more or less happy pro tem.

Talkie

Al Evans, M. C.

M. C. does not stand for member of Congress, but for master of ceremonies, of which Al Evans is the new one. He sings the beginning of "Mandalay" so well that you'd like to hear the rest of it. And he presides gracefully over a good stage show, in which the Chester Hale Girls romp about as skeletons, farmerettes and butterflies.

But the outstanding feature of the stage show is the comedy of Eddie Cole and George Snyder—a novel skit showing how a moving picture is directed.

A fine concert overture by Elias Breeskin's orchestra, sweet melodies about the Georgia moon by the Dennis Sisters, fast dancing by Gordon and King, and a fierce fight between two sea lions in the news reel, are other ingredients of the savory menu.

Cobb, Noted Song Lyric Writer, Dies At 53

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Will Cobb, 53, author of many song hits in the "ragtime days," died yesterday in the Metropolitan State Hospital on Ward's Island.

Born in Philadelphia, he attended public schools there and at an early age began writing song lyrics. Among his works were "I'll Be With You When the Roses Bloom Again," "Goodbye, Dolly Gray," "School Days," "Sunbonnet Sue," "Goodbye, Little Girl, Goodbye," "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," and "I Just Can't Make My Eyes Behave."

The last named song he wrote for the late Anna Held.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Fashion revels in the soft, enchanting curves of the modern figure. Don't sacrifice that graceful contour by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When tempted to treat yourself too well, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the modern, alluringly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

"Night in Venice," With Ted Healy and His Gang, Brings Hilarity to Alvin

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

VENICE, with its streets in solution, always has been known to us as a queer town. Last May, when "A Night In Venice" was shown in the Alvin, we had to admit it became a funny town after the arrival of Ted Healy. Since then Ted and his gang (what a gang!) have been in New York, Chicago and elsewhere. Coming back to the Alvin last night, they demonstrated that that Venice, as librettists, tune molders, gagsters and hoofing creators vision it, still has something besides its main canal entitled to be called grand.

The production remains, company and all, as on its last visit—that is, lively, lavish and ludicrous.

FUN PLENTIFUL

Ted Healy and his gang, which means his own personal crew and not the company as a whole, succeed in creating plenty of amusement. Some of the comedy is not too delicate, but since audiences for this type of play usually check their sensitiveness with their overcoats and regard fun merely as fun, why be hypercritical? Ted's gang includes Shemp Howard, Harry Howard, Larry Fine and Fred Sanborn. These five funsters and Arthur and Morton Havel, especially the five, keep the audience in an uproar.

Ann Seymour is the feminine cut-up, still able to provoke smiles and applause with material she has been using ever since her vaudeville days. Beth and Betty Dodge, dancers, also are featured among the big shots, their bird specialty being one of the high spots of the show, winning much applause for the whistling sister, imitating a feathered songster.

ACROBATS BIG HIT

The lads who really make 'em sit up, however, are Joe and Pete Michon, acrobats extraordinary, whose act combines rare comedy with unusual dexterity. Never have funnier twists and falls been seen.

The Stevens brothers and their wrestling bear also are the cause of much merriment.

Singing is cared for by Grace Bowman, John Byam and Gene Scudder, in a generally satisfactory manner, and there is a musical specialty by a xylophone ensemble, headed by Albert and James Johnston.

Elaborate numbers in which girls are used for decorative purposes include "Lure of the Night," "Cellini's Plate" and "The Silver Fountain." The dancing ensembles by the Chester Hale Girls and Allan K. Foster Girls give rhythmic, poetic movement to a gorgeous entertainment.

NEWS REEL FEATURES WEDDING OF ROYALTY

One of the most spectacular scenes ever seen and heard on the screen is the pageant that was staged in Rome in connection with the wedding of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. The pictures show the Princess Marie Jose arriving in Rome from Brussels, with her parents, the King and Queen of Belgium; the parade through the streets, their arrival and departure from the Quirinal, and finally, the royal newlyweds appearing on the balcony of the palace.

In the same issue of Hearst Metrotone News is seen and heard a thrilling battle between two monster sea elephants from Guadalupe, recently arrived in Los Angeles.

Former President Coolidge is seen and heard in an entirely new role as he sits under a palm tree in Florida and discusses life insurance with D. P. Kingsley and Mrs. Coolidge. The former President not only smiles and laughs, but actually indulges in "wise-cracking."

Other features in the current Hearst Metrotone News include a beautiful picture of Britain's Camel Corps guarding Egypt's far-flung frontier; an interview with Mr. and Mrs. William K. Moyer, who were married under a "baby or divorce" agreement; an unusual picture of aquaplane racing in Florida; a battle royal between sons of the naval personnel at Annapolis, and Chinese maidens singing the exploits of Ming Heroes, and others.

The current issue of Fox Movietone News, in addition to the royal wedding in Italy, has a picture of former Gov. Al Smith, of New York, watching sports at Miami, Fla., and an interview with Mr. Voliva, the overseer of Zion City, Ill., who insists the earth is flat and that Dick Byrd did not fly to the South Pole, because there "ain't no South Pole."

Again?
Periodically she suffered; expected to; was virtually an invalid certain days of every month. Then a trained nurse told her the story of Midol. A most marvelous medicine—not a narcotic—that actually ends such pain. Today, the woman who has learned the use of Midol regards the process as an incident! A harmless little tablet acting directly on the organs affected; in five to seven minutes not a twinge of pain remains! Midol is fifty cents, metal case.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Your Health is Your Best Asset

IT'S easily said, but if you're ailing, miserable and despondent, if your back aches like the toothache and you suffer all kinds of pain here or there—what's to be done? Consult your doctor, or if you wish to receive free, confidential medical advice, by mail, just consult Dr. Pierce's Clinic at the Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. Many people throughout the United States and Canada have received his advice, which put them on their feet and made them well.

Women in every walk of life say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a good tonic.

Read this:—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been used in my family for many years, both my mother and grandmother before me used this medicine and always spoke very highly of it as a woman's medicine. My first experience with the 'Prescription' was after the birth of my first baby. I did not get along well, was left with woman's weakness, which kept me very weak and miserable. I was advised to have an operation but instead took the 'Favorite Prescription' and since then it has been my only tonic."—Mrs. James H. Wigton, 205 S. Crawford Ave., New Castle, Pa.

Two Plays

Artist's pen and ink conception of George M. Cohan, actor-playright-producer, who is presenting two plays in the Nixon this week. One is "Gambling" and the other is "Sporting Blood," the latter making its world premiere this afternoon.

RICH LADY PUTS KING BACK ON THRONE IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

It may have taken more than all the king's horses and all the king's men to put Humpty Dumpty together again. But in "Her Friend the King," current comedy drama in the Pitt, all that is needed to put a nice and deposed sovereign back on his throne is a rich American widow. Which isn't just as it would be in real life, yet it certainly makes a pleasing idea for a play.

An outstanding feature of this George Sharp production is that it has Robert Warwick, guest star, in the title role. And though there is no royal ermine or purple about this king of Warwick's, there is much of royalty. Only when he makes his first appearance, garbed in a brown coat and striped flannel trousers, you wonder can he be king? However, before many words or many gestures, you are convinced that here mightn't be a king, but withal here's an actor who can portray a king. Quiet and dignified, yet always with a sense of dramatic value and with an ease in attaining more frivolous moods, Mr. Warwick's portrayal wins praise and attention throughout.

Support for the Star

Mr. Sharp's resident company gives the guest star splendid support. Edith King, as the wealthy American widow, who loves His Majesty and financially fosters a plan to restore him to his throne, yet realizing it may take him from her forever, again displays her versatility and her ability to wear clothes well.

Harland Tucker is present in the role of a prince and helps introduce a second romance—that between him and a daughter of the king. As prince he is quite a princely actor. And he gets kind support in the romancing from Lucette Parker in her lacey and brown and very red dresses. When she sobs and looks very heartbroken, but insists she's happy, you want to pat her on the shoulder and say, "Don't cry, little girl, you'll get your prince before the final curtain."

For Kingly Ears

Other players include Alice Ann Baker, Robert Fiske, Hugh Banks and Billy Link. The latter last night replaced Gus Forbes, who was kept from the stage by illness.

In summing up, this "Her Friend the King" isn't really a play of action. Yet it moves along at a rapid enough pace to the tune of sparkling dialogue. And don't be frightened off by the thought of dignity in the presence of a king. For not once does dignity get in the way of amusement. In fact, there are moments when a good old American "damn" is flung right into the royal ears.

Chicago Has Night In Middle Of Day

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Yesterday was the longest night in the memory of the oldest bookkeepers in the Chicago "loop."

While the sun filtered through a light snow and fog in the suburbs, a thick cloak of cloud buttoned itself tightly over the downtown section and shut out daylight almost all day.

At noon a red ball gleamed faintly through the murk. In early afternoon the sun appeared like a stage set moon. Then the cloud quickly eclipsed it and night came on again.

TIBBETT WINS PRAISE MAKING FILM DEBUT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—The screen debut of Lawrence Tibbett in "The Rogue Song" is the greatest advancement toward cultural progress in the history of motion pictures. We speak of cultural progress at the risk of incurring the open displeasure of the great army of theatergoers who look askance at the mention of a phrase that indicates such a highbrow tendency. Yet Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has contributed to the artistic advancement of the cinema in introducing to the picture-going public an artist of Lawrence Tibbett's rare ability.

Mr. Tibbett's voice, a product of grand opera, made the opening at Grauman's Chinese Theater Friday night a distinguished event that will be numbered among the really significant happenings in filmland.

Superb Baritone

Even with a superb baritone singing for our edification we cannot ignore the entertainment value of "The Rogue Song." The story, written by Frances Marion and John Colton, is highly colorful and full of romantic adventures.

Most of us would be willing to walk miles just to hear that voice. It filled the theater with its great volume and the beauty of its tones, carrying along with it the rest of the singers, some of whom are famous for their achievements. I speak particularly of Elsa Alsen, who as Tibbett's mother, chants her line in a lovely mezzo-soprano voice. The fine male chorus also comes in here, for it dominates many of the scenes.

Colored Photography

"The Rogue Song" is an admirable choice for Mr. Tibbett, based as it is on the operetta, "Gypsy Love," by Franz Lehar, Dr. A. M. Wilner and Robert Bodansky.

Beaver's Lone Tavern Visited by Raiders

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 21.—H. Gussenhofer, proprietor of Ye Olde Kirk Inn, Beaver's only tavern, was held for court under $2,000 by Justice Walter Lewis. State police report they found a quantity of moonshine in the inn following a raid.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

BEAUTY DOCTORS OR REAL BEAUTY

Any Woman Who Desires Can Be Attractive When Well.

You need not envy other women their magnetic qualities. You may be attractive yourself if you desire to. There certainly is a way for any woman by which she can be both desirable and attractive. It is not by buying beautifiers either. They may help in bringing out the good features, but these must be present before they can accomplish much. What constitutes real attractiveness in women is personal magnetism. Some of the ugliest featured women in the world have been the most popular. The really healthful woman is always magnetic. She alone possess the clear skin, the bright eyes, the lithesome body, that constitute real beauty.

Women who are lethargic and heavy in their movements, whose skin lacks luster and whose eyes are dull, in a very large percentage of cases are suffering from gastric troubles. Their bodies are failing to get the real values out of their food, and their organs are not throwing off the impurities from the blood. Instead of being active filters, removing the impurities from the blood, the kidneys are apt to be inflamed, and the stomach lacks tone. Why? Usually because our modern way of living makes for a sluggish congestion in the mucous membrane that lines the digestive tract, the lungs, and most of the rest of the body. That congestion slows up the bodily processes. A sore stomach cannot digest food well, and the blood must suffer. Sore kidneys and clogged skin cannot take off the bodily wastes, and the blood is not purified. Add to this the constipation that frequently follows, and a woman's attractiveness will be reduced to a very low power.

These conditions are usually evidences of catarrh. Remove this catarrh, wherever it is located, by a systematic treatment, and thus give the blood a chance to enrich every part of the body. Then the beauty will appear. The secret of the attractiveness of many women right in this community is found in the clearing up of the system through the use of World's Tonic. Its value in catarrhal conditions is proved by the testimony of thousands. When you are really well, you will always be attractive. Use World's Tonic to make you healthy and beautiful. It can be obtained of Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or of any other first class druggist. (A-40)

DAILY TRUE STORY

"OH, SISSY!"

WHEN the Honorable William H. Norton died it made quite a stir in various circles, especially financial.

But away out in Wyoming on a ranch that spread through a great valley either side of a river, the death of Norton probably created the most unrest.

That was the Norton Ranch.

The late William H. had bought it many years ago. He had added to it, had built marvelous up to date ranch houses, power plant, stables—everything that a multi millionaire lover of ranch life could think of.

And for 40 years a man named Gibbs had been manager.

First it was Amos Gibbs' boyhood pal of Norton. When he died his son was given charge of it.

William Norton used to spend months out there every summer. But for the last 10 years he had been unable to go.

The present Amos Gibbs and his wife and their daughter Patsey, baptized Patricia, had looked upon the beautiful ranch as a permanent home.

No one had thought to wire them when Norton died. The first they knew of it was when Dud Shaffer drove back from Freelo, the nearest town, with supplies and mail.

It was Patsey who, having received no letters, nor expecting any, reached for the Chicago daily and suddenly emitted a sharp, "Great Cats, he's dead!"

"Who?" asked her father.

Patsey looked around at three of the big force of ranchmen who happened to be there and instead of speaking passed the paper to her father.

"Godfrey!" he exclaimed and then—"It's Norton."

Everyone became troubled grave. This might be decidedly serious and they knew it.

"Aw, shucks," drawled Joe Halpin, who had worked 20 years on the place. He probably bunched it in with his other things and some enery cuss will buy it and then whar'll we be?"

He had voiced the thoughts of the others.

"Well, I wouldn't mourn Joe—I ain't broke," said Gibbs.

"Tain't that, Pa," Mrs. Gibbs put in, "but you and me lived here since I was married—"

"I was born here," said Amos.

"An' Patsey was born here—I don't see how we can ever live any other place."

"You'll hafter," that's all," mourned Joe. "This here ranch is worth a million right now—the old boy probably has forty heirs—"

Never Married

"He never married. He had a sister who was—that's all the relatives I ever heard of—she was out here once with her baby," Amos explained.

"I don't remember," said Patsey.

"Strange—mighty strange, Patsey," drawled her father, "unless it might be because you weren't born then."

The three men laughed at this. Then they became sober again.

"We won't need to worry none yet—it takes a year to settle up them estates," Jess Mullins put in.

"I can git hold of th' Quigly ranch at a bargain," Amos said, half to himself. His wife choked back a sob at this and stared off from the porch down the beautiful wide valley.

The more practical Patsey took the paper from her father and began to read it.

"M—m—m—m," he gave a lot for charity—look at the clubs he belonged to—and the companies he directed—they never give the interesting stuff until the end—" she skipped down the half column obituary.

"Uh—huh, here, listen," she said.

"Mr. Norton never married. His only brother's widow, who made her home with him, died some years ago, leaving a son, Reginald Norton, who will fall heir to the bulk of the estate."

Joe Halpin groaned audibly.

Amos Gibbs sighed.

"I know his kind—he'll sell the ranch so he can blow the coin at Monte Carlo—"

"Or on a harem in Paris," muttered Jess Mullins.

"Look here," cried Patsey, "about this bozo Reggie, it says something about him—among the close acquaintances of the late Mr. Norton considerable surprise was expressed over the clause in the will leaving the bulk of his estate to his nephew—'"

"Thar you are—a no-good sportin' sissy guy," said Joe the pessimist.

"Hush yourself," said Patsey, and then she read, "—as it was believed that Mr. Norton never approved of him. Young Norton disappeared shortly after his mother's death and so far as known seldom, if ever, saw his uncle after that."

"Bears out what I said," Patsey's father declared, "just a no-good effeminate little runt who won't give a hang for this grand ranch or us or anything."

So that was that, for the present.

The boys started to get somewhat slack.

"Tell them," Patsey said, "to buck up—run things slicker than ever. Perhaps whoever buys it will be like Mr. Norton, so wealthy he keeps it for a hobby. If he comes on and see everything all right he may want to keep us—somebody has got to run it."

That was good advice and Amos Gibbs worked along those lines.

It was not more than a month later that Amos Gibbs received this letter:

"This is a formal notification of the death of the Hon. William H. Norton which you doubtless learned from the public prints long before.

"The ranch property is now owned by Mr. Reginald de Lacey Norton, nephew of the deceased. Young Mr. Norton wants you notified that he will come on within a few weeks to look over his property with a view to taking full charge of it.

"The late Mr. Norton left to you the sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, which sum will be sent to you in due time. Respectfully,

BAYLE & BAYLE,
"Attorneys."

More excitement mixed with considerable consternation.

"If he had only made you permanent manager it would have been better than a hundred thousand," Patsey's mother declared.

Tell Patsy of Scheme

"I aim to get me a pretty good ranch," mother—why worry?" said Amos, trying to hide the fear he had that he would be ousted from the place he loved best in such of the world as he had visited.

"Imagine a guy named Reginald delacey Norton runnin' a he-man's outfit like this!" said Patsey, showing the rancor she had so long tried to hide.

"Look here, Miss Patsey, me and Dud got a scheme," said Jess, "which is that we'll make life so dam' miserable for this Reggie he'll leave us in charge."

"Put him on buckin' hosses an' scarin' him with rattlers," Dud added.

Patsey's eyes sparkled.

"Boys, I'm with you!" she cried.

Word came that Mr. Reginald Norton would reach the town on a certain date and someone was to meet him.

Mr. Gibbs, with the ranch's best car, was on hand. But so was Patsey, on her horse. Dud, Jess, Joe and a couple others from the ranch were loafing about to get a look at this Reginald.

The porter set down eight traveling bags, including golf clubs, hat box and something that looked like a ukelele case.

Reginald followed. He wore a pearl-gray suit, white silk shirt, rather flowing black tie. He tucked a cap into the caddy bag and donned a panama. There were spats on his shoes and a cane was tucked under his arm. A cigaret in a foot-long holder sent up spirals of smoke.

He retired early. They held a conference. It is a wonder Reggy's ears didn't burn to a crisp, from what they said.

"A cinch—we'll raggle that dude to a finish and send him back East in bandages," Patsey declared.

"Poor old Norton—no wonder he had no use for the big sissy," said Amos.

Movie Actor

"He looks like a movie actor," said Patsey.

"And gals fall for 'em," muttered Joe.

"Me? Not in a million years," said Patsey. "I'd almost rather marry you!"

That was a laugh.

They were having breakfast at six next morning and discussing in whispers the time the new owner would get up. Patsey thought it would be around eleven.

Then a shadow appeared at the door.

It was Reginald.

"Oh, Mr. Norton—I'll send your breakfast right into the dining room," said Mrs. Gibbs.

"No you won't, fair lady, you'll give me my chow right here beside this Adonis," he indicated Dud, "and this charming little Venus masquerading as a cowgirl," he bowed to Patsey, made Dud move over and drew up a chair.

"If I hadn't been so tired last night I'd have made a fuss about eating all alone in that tomb you call a dining room—but I got no sleep the night before, played poker all night. Say, what time do you fancy ranchers get up around here?"

"Five, Mr. Norton," said Amos. The others were staring at him.

"I noticed you had hot water—don't need that to brush my teeth and I bathe out of doors when I can—that's a pretty swell river down there, but I had to use the bushes for a dressing room—you boys build some nice rooms down there for folks to dress in—and now about four eggs and a couple slabs of ham, Mrs. Gibbs, if it won't strain the larder!"

Reggie ate and he talked. He polished off the food and said he believed he could stand another small helping.

Dad hated to be licked. "Ever rode, Mr. Norton?" he asked.

"Had a pony when I was a kid," he said.

"Then you don't need no trainin'. Want to ride and settle them ales?"

"Sure—but I haven't any riding costume—what's your name?"

"Dud, but I ain't one—if you care to wrestle with me," said Dud. Amos kicked him under the table.

"We'll ride first—a nice safe old nag for me—how about some riding togs?"

"We ride mostly in pants and shirt," said Jess.

So they went out. Amos and his wife followed. Mrs. Gibbs was prepared to protect him—any man who could compliment her by eating such a breakfast had her aid forever.

They kept Reggie talking while three boys saddled "Old Hellion." It took three to saddle him.

Reggie looked the horse over, went up and grabbed his nose and looked in his mouth and said, "Hoss, I'm gonna ride you."

"He said 'Hoss,'" hissed Amos, beginning to get wise.

Reggie rode "Old Hellion," he rode him until that former brute came back white with foam and meek with submission.

Then he wrestled with Dud and threw him three out of three!

He joined them for luncheon.

"It seems mighty restful to be having a ranch of my own—ever since my uncle told me I was as useful as a wart I made my living on a ranch in Nevada," Reggie laughed. "Well, sir, he came on to see me a year ago and I gave him $5,000 to invest for me. I rather guess that's why he left me this ranch and the other junk—he was a good old scout—"

"SO ARE YOU!" yelled Dud. Yes, and others.

That night Reggie and Patsey strolled down by the river.

"I never thought of getting married until I saw you," he said.

"And now you are sure you'll never think of it," she told him.

"I don't want to rush you, Patsey, so let's wait a week and get real good and acquainted."

They really waited three months before they were married.

Posing Amid Pots May Give Bride Idea to Throw Them, Says Fay King

YOU WOULD THINK SHE HAD NEVER COOKED A MEAL IN HER LIFE!
ARM ACTION A BOARDING HOUSE COOK WOULD ENVY
THE WASH TUB IS NEVER FEATURED IN PHOTOS OF ROMANTIC DOMESTICITY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

POSING among the pots and pans seems to be the most popular proof of domestic bliss.

We have seen all the famous honeymooners in these skittle sketches.

Perhaps they register such bliss because there is nothing in the tin pan they are beaming into except the happy reflection of their faces.

Some brides pretend not to know a frying pan from a coffee pot. But they forget the arm action in stirring mixtures, only gets that professional windup from years of experience.

The wash tub is rarely featured in these photos, but many a dame has spent more time than she would like to have you know doing the hand laundry stuff for her sheik husband.

Throwing the pots and pans often figures later!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Inaugurates Scheme to 'Discourage' Prince

AT MARY'S shrill question flung at Prince Georges, I knew that whatever madcap scheme she had planned it was now initiated. I felt like an eavesdropper as I shrank closer into my chair, but she had insisted that I be in the room. I eased my conscience by the knowledge that Noel and Princess Olina were also present, and that Prince Georges could have no delusion that he was discussing his affairs a deux.

From under my eyelashes I saw Olina's head raise itself and her eyes travel swiftly to Prince Georges. The young Prince's face bore an expression of stark incredulity at Mary's query. If he were crazy, and her assertion that he sounded as if he expected her to live the year round in Trees.

"Why! dearest!" he stammered. "It is you who are mad to think anything else. Of course we shall take trips and all that sort of thing, but—don't you know that in all probability I shall be king of Trees before long. The ruler of a country must——"

"Oh, yes. I know all that tosh," Mary interrupted impudently. "But that's archaic. You've been long enough over here to get a lot of that out of your system. Of course you must spend some time there, I suppose, swaying your scepter and trying on your crown, and bowing to your more or less washed subjects from the balcony of the palace. I'll love to be there myself, vacations, although I'm dead sure nobody over there is going to cotton to an American wife of yours, Georgie. But you surely can be over here most of the season. That old Premier What's-his-name?—runs your country anyway, and you can find somebody to make the speeches and lay the cornerstones part of the time."

I do not think Prince Georges' sensibilities had ever been so outraged before. I felt a deep sympathy for him as he stared at his lovely fiance's, his face pale beneath its sun bronze. But incredulity was still his strongest emotion, dominating everything else.

"The season!" he exclaimed. "Vacations!" Will you kindly tell me what you mean?"

"Now, Georgie Porgie, don't hand me any guff like that," she admonished him with prettily raised forefinger. "You know very well that I mean the theatrical season. And sometimes, dear heart, I won't have any vacations to spend. Mr. Veritzen's productions are apt to run a long time you know, so you'd better count on spending a lot of time over here."

Prince Georges was patently battling to preserve the poise which was his heritage. He did not answer her for several seconds, but when he did his voice was low and controlled.

"I understand now. You always have avoided this question before, but you must have had it in your mind all through our betrothal. You have planned to keep on with your stage career!"

His voice was an accusation, a bitter reproach. The young prince was seeing his romance wither before his eyes, and that always seems the ultimate in tragedy to youth.

"Has that just begun to creep through the cracks of your alleged brain?" The mockery of her voice and words jarred me, and I feared to think what it was doing to the proud young heir to the throne of Trees. He was being extraordinarily patient with her, I thought, and I marked down a favorable augur for the success of Mary's ruse. If his infatuation had been as strong as it was in the summer, he would have been furiously angry. Now, he patiently was trying to be chivalrous though the wound to his vanity and his affections was exceedingly painful if neither deep nor mortal. From the vantage of my lowered lashes, I saw him glance furtively toward the other side of the big room where Noel and Princess Olina were engaged in a game of cribbage and obviously she had heard nothing of the colloquy save perhaps Mary's first exclamation. After that she had kept her voice to the level of his low tones. Reassured, he turned back to his fiance, evidently not realizing that I was in the room.

"But you must realize that you are planning an impossible thing, from any point of view, yours or mine," he said slowly and impressively. "Your ideas of the duties of a country's ruler are exceedingly—" he paused and flushed.

"Oh! go on, say it and see if I care," Mary said carelessly. "Crude, crass, coarse.—I'll get down the thesaurus and see if there aren't some more words beginning with some other letters. I'll save you the trouble of the further comment that I got them from the comic strips and vaudeville jokes. I probably did, but that doesn't alter my opinion of the job. As for my lot over there—I got a glimpse of what it would be from your dear friend yesterday." She flicked a carelessly contemptuous hand toward Princess Olina. "Just imagine a lot of aristocratic hens, old and young, of her breed, pulling the pin-feathers out of me! Wouldn't I have a lovely time?"

Prince Georges' voice was suddenly stern.

"We will leave Olina out of this if you please," he said.

Nice Clothes or a Home

By WINIFRED BLACK

"FORWARD ribbons," said motorman.

"Forward carpetsweepers," said the conductor, and then both grinned and the car slowed down at the corner for a good-looking young fellow in a smart raincoat, and shoes that he would undoubtedly call "classy" and a pretty girl in a red raincoat and a red hat and a red umbrella—all to match.

Nice-looking young couple they were. Well dressed, prosperous, good humored, smiling—I wondered why the motorman and the conductor grinned when they saw them waiting for the car—and in the afternoon when I went home on the car I asked the conductor about it. You see, I've known that particular conductor for a good many years, and every once in a while he tells me the news about transfers and wages and things—sometimes we even discuss the stock market or the newest form of some new religion.

Nice fellow the conductor—and intelligent—has a nice little wife and two children. He commutes to his home in the suburbs and he carries a picture of his wife and the two children in his pocket—a snapshot he took from the front of his little house one day.

He grinned again when I asked him about "forward ribbons."

"Oh, well," he said, "I'm just kind of old-fashioned I guess, they ride down to work with us every day.

"He's in ribbons, and she's in household goods. They have a couple of furnished rooms down the street here, and sometimes when she's been to the dentist or something and they don't come home together, she asks me if he's been along yet. Nice little thing. I'd like to see her in a home of her own, that's all, but I guess she wouldn't care about that, she's got to have clothes you know, and shoes—the right kind—and silk stockings, and, of course, the young fellow can't buy them for her so she keeps her job and they hurry home at night and buy chipped beef, and baked beans or cod-fish cakes, or potato salad, at the delicatessen and run home and make a pot of coffee—and that's that.

"At night they go to the pictures or window shopping—they seem to hate to stay at home, they're just like thousands of other young couples, I guess.

"I went home the other night and told my wife I thought she ought to go to work and help make the last few payments on the house.

"I knew of a good job for her, I said—say, I thought she was going to throw the coffee pot at me.

"She had a good job when I married her, but she's old-fashioned, too, and she'd rather have a home, and a couple of kids than the best job in the world.

"Not much class to her I guess, nor to me, either.

"Well, it's a good thing we are not all alike, isn't it?"

"It certainly is," said I, and when I walked down the street I kept thinking of the conductor, and the little home he is buying and his wife who hasn't "class" enough to care much about clothes, and his children and the new Airedale pup somebody gave him the other day and the way the conductor looks when he tells you about them—dear me, I am afraid I am hopelessly old-fashioned too.

Are you—by any chance?

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

New Bunk for Old

Santa Claus, Mother Goose and fairy tales, according to the so-called "educators," must be deleted from the lives of our children. No child must be permitted to use his imagination, to indulge in his "divine ecstasies."

We must make him see life as one long, drab state of existence, consisting entirely of eating his spinach, washing behind his ears and doing his home work. No little boy can whirl, in imagination, through the frosty air behind Santa's reindeer, or skim over the tree-tops with Peter Pan.

No little girl can make fascinating trips to Wonderland or through the looking-glass with Alice and the Red Queen who believed in "impossible things." Or ride, in fancy, beside Cinderella in her coach and four.

And now, two famous sexologists in Germany have announced that LOVE is all "the bunk." Lovers, drunkards and half-wits, they declare, are all in the same mental condition. To be in love is positively childish and more than a little nutty. If you'd let them psycho-analyze Romeo's emotions, as he climbed the rose trellis to Juliet's balcony, it would probably make you blush—and change the subject.

All of which is BOSH—and worse! Take all the moments of "divine ecstasy" out of your life—and what have you left? Take all the fantasy, romance and imagination out of the world—and why STAY IN IT?

You'll believe any musty old scientist who tells you all about the inhabitants of Mars. You'll listen to any eloquent speculator who persuades you to take a flyer in the stock market with your savings and make a fortune overnight.

You'll believe, without question, any new faddist who promises to make you slender and beautiful by a new method or a new diet. You'll even believe that monkey glands can endow you with eternal youth! And you'll let any self-styled "Futurist" tell you that the grotesque figures of a diseased imagination with which he spoils white paper, are "Art."

* * *

NEW BUNK for old! You can believe all the new bunk. That's quite permissible. You can believe in the magic of the eighteen-day diet—but you mustn't believe in the magic of love. You can believe in Freud and Steinach—but you mustn't believe in Santa Claus or fairy god-mothers, or Mother Goose. You can have a psychosis or a complex or a fixation—but you MUST not have a good old-fashioned IMAGINATION!

The ecstasy and glitter of childhood visions, the rapture of romantic love, the beauty of Spanish castles and fairy tales and all the fascinating unrealities—these were old bunk. The old bunk was honest BUNK and never pretended to be anything else. But the new bunk calls itself "Science," and gets by!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Walking Aids in Halting Disease

IF YOU suspect that you may have high blood pressure, or someone tells you that you have it, do not be too disturbed, for many a person has lived far past 80 in spite of it.

DR. COPELAND

With the rapid pace of life in these days it is to wonder that people have high blood pressure. As doctors have increased knowledge of the variations that occur from normal to abnormal blood pressure, they realize that "normal" blood pressure is rare.

Certain diseases have high blood pressure as a symptom. Bright's disease, that familiar disease of the kidneys, is usually accompanied by high blood pressure. But the possession of high blood pressure does not prove that you have Bright's disease. As a matter of fact, many other conditions are accompanied by it.

High blood pressure may be brought on by extreme nervousness, worry, or some other disturbance of the nervous system. One of the outstanding causes is autointoxication, or intestinal poisoning.

There is a vicious circle set up in the system by overindulgence in rich foods, alcoholic or other overstimulation, lack of proper rest, and any kind of excess which upsets the nervous system. There is bound to be intestinal poisoning, blood pressure and general illhealth where these excesses exist.

Everyone should have a physical examination by a competent doctor once a year. After a person is 50, it is well to have an examination twice a year. "Prevention" is the watchword today. Be on the safe side and guard your health.

Of course, we should begin early in life to keep fit. To keep in good condition by a proper diet and everyday physical exercise means long life.

Those who must live a sedentary life should be extremely careful to get enough exercise to counteract the inactivity of hours in the day's work. Your muscles, arteries and veins must be plastic and in good working order to do the work of the body. Vigorous exercise of some sort is the only thing that will accomplish this.

Golf, walking, swimming and all sensible exercise help to get rid of disease, as well as to prevent it. One doctor of my acquaintance once said that he had "kept 10 patients with a blood pressure of 200 in good condition for 10 years through exercise on the golf course." He also said, "people should not be concerned with the arithmetic of high blood pressure, but with providing wholesome conditions of living which will eliminate the causes of high pressure."

LOVEJOY

:: By BEATRICE BURTON

looked as business-like as a beauty shop with its glass-encased shower bath, its dressing-table that went the width of it, and its electric reducing machine.

Aline was stretched out on a wicker couch, and a tall wholesome-looking woman was giving her a "facial." Her face was covered with pale-pink cream and so were her hands.

She held out one finger to Lovejoy in greeting.

"Marie will be through with me in just a minute," she said. "Do sit down. I have to live through this 'facial' once a week."

But the bathroom was hot and steamy, so Lovejoy went back into the bedroom to wait for her.

Through the open door of the clothes-closet she could see Aline's dresses and coat on their padded hangers.

On the rug, just outside the bathroom door, Aline had kicked off her bedroom slippers . . . tiny high-heeled things with no backs.

The whole room was filled with the sweet, dry smell of clove-carnations. It was warm and sunny, and the windows were filled with paper-white narcissus flowers in glass bowls.

As she sat looking around the room with longing eyes, the telephone on the table beside Aline's bed rang.

"Answer that, will you?" Aline called, and she picked up the receiver.

"South Port calling Mrs. Aline Alderson," said the operator into her ear. "Is this Mrs. Alderson?"

"No, I'll call her," said Lovejoy.

But before she had time to, Aline came hurrying out of the bathroom wrapped in a Turkish toweling bathrobe.

"Hello!" she said, and her face seemed to whiten under Lovejoy's eyes as she heard the voice at the other end of the wire. "Hello, Jack? . . . Call me in 15 minutes or so, will you? I'm busy just now."

She frowned, listening to his answer.

"Jack, you shouldn't have done that," she cried. "I'm sorry you did that . . . Good-by."

She banged the receiver back upon its hook and faced Lovejoy.

"Did a man telephone your house early this morning?" she asked anxiously. "And did your hubby answer the telephone?"

Lovejoy nodded her head.

"Yes, and he almost lost me my happy home. Tom thought it was some man calling me up," she answered. "That's why I came to see you . . . I had an idea that it was the same man who called you up there yesterday. I couldn't help hearing you call him 'Jack,' so I knew you were talking to a man."

Mrs. Alderson looked thoughtfully out at the sky as if she were reading some hand-writing on the clouds.

"Yes . . . and he's going to make me lose my happy home if he doesn't stop this crazy telephoning," she said in a violent undertone. "Wait until I get rid of Marie . . . I want to talk to you. I want you to help me out of a mess that I'm in."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, January 22

ACCORDING to the planetary aspects both by lunar and mutual aspect, the events of the day should move at a lively pace and bear substantial return for intelligent and persistent effort. This following upon certain crystallized conditions, which have displayed and obstructed the best endeavors. It is a favorable time for making new contracts or launching new projects.

Those whose birthday it is are on the even of a year in which much progress should be made following the breaking up of old obstructions and crystallizations. New enterprises and contracts may be embraced with confidence, but be on guard against fraud or trickery. Elderly persons and organizations may confer favors, and property as well as commercial pursuits should thrive.

A child born on this day may be clever and enterprising, and should make a good success of its affairs through its own merits and stability.

AID TO THANKSGIVING DAY GAME HERE

THOUGH as far as football in this part of the country is concerned, the retirement of Hugo Bezdek as football coach at Pennsylvania State College must take rank as the climax to the record-breaking number of shifts that have taken place among the country's major gridiron mentors since the conclusion of the 1929 season, it cannot be said that the withdrawal of the veteran pigskin tutor came wholly as a surprise.

Hugo Bezdek

The only feature of it that might be termed unexpected was the fact that it came before the expiration of Bezdek's 10-year contract. For some time his failure to get better results with Blue and White elevens had been openly criticized by Penn State men, plans for a change in coaches as soon as possible were frequently rumored, and this, coupled with the known desire of Hugo to take up a more general scheme of physical development which would include practically the entire student body, caused it to be widely understood that he would step down as football chief at the expiration of his agreement.

BEZDEK therefore, only hastened a change that was inevitable. And that it will work out to the advantage of all concerned will be pretty generally conceded. That the veteran will succeed in doing a great work for the physical improvement of the whole student body now that he is free to give his entire attention to the program that he has mapped out there is no doubt.

Neither is there any doubt that football on Mt. Nittany will improve with the direction of gridiron affairs in new hands. There appeared to be little chance for the Lions to get out of the rut under the old conditions. The general opinion was that a new coaching system and the new spirit that usually results from a coaching change after a long period of adversity were the things needed, and an uplift is likely to follow, whether Bob Higgins, several times reported as having the inside track, or one of the other good Penn State grid specialists available, is selected to succeed Bezdek.

ONE effect of the change that is of particular interest to football followers in this section is a probable improvement in the attractiveness of the annual Thanksgiving Day game here between Pitt and Penn State.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

As Dr. J. B. Sutherland, the Panther coach, continued to have the same success that Pop Warner previously enjoyed in turning out teams that defeated the Lions year after year, the game that was first played 'way back in 1893 and that has been an annual fixture without interruption since 1900, was rapidly losing its appeal. Its old color may be restored by the shift on Mt. Nittany, with State presenting better teams and a new spirit.

BEZDEK has never won a decision over Sutherland since the latter began coaching at Pitt in 1924. He has never managed to get even a tie, which he did twice against Warner. Pitt won in 1924, 24 to 3; in 1925, 23 to 7; in 1926, 24 to 6; in 1927, 30 to 0; in 1928, 26 to 0, and in 1929, 20 to 7. Bezdek in his first year at Penn State, lost to Pitt with his army training school team, 28 to 6. In 1919 his eleven defeated the Panthers, 20 to 0. That was the only victory he ever won over Pitt, though he got scoreless ties in the following two years. The Blue and Gold won in 1922, 14 to 0, and in 1923, the last season of Warner's regime, 20 to 3.

DURING his 12 years of coaching at Penn State, therefore, Hugo won only a single game from Pitt against nine defeats and two ties. During the entire period of his career as director of the Lions, his state teams played a total of 106 games, of which they won 66, lost 29 and tied 11. They had two undefeated seasons, 1920 and 1921, but there were two ties in each.

Bezdek played fullback for the University of Chicago under Alonzo Stagg in his active days. Later he aided in the coaching there, next went to the University of Arkansas, and then to the University of Oregon. He came here to succeed Jimmy Callahan as manager of the Pittsburgh baseball club in the middle of the 1917 season, and began coaching at Penn State in 1918, succeeding Dick Harlow.

THE strongest recommendation that a ring battle can have in the eyes of the boxing fans is that the principals have met before in the same locality and proved themselves to be willing mixers, evenly matched.

That is being shown again in the case of the return bout between Bergt. Sammy Baker and Joe Trippe, scheduled for Monday night, February 3, at Motor Square Garden.

Sammy Baker

THE recent fight between these men at the Garden was generally voted one of the best ever seen here, and the popularity of the move made by Manager John L. Hernon in rematching them is attested by the fact that the advance sale is a Pittsburgh record breaker. At noon last Saturday, 16 days before the date of the bout, the receipts for tickets sold in advance totaled $1,429. Garden records show this to be the heaviest sale ever known there so far in advance of a show since Ray Peyel and Richie Mitchell opened boxing there 10 years ago. The largest crowd of the local season is in prospect.

LIONEL CONACHER, all-around athlete and former Pittsburgh hockey player, explained to John Kieran the difference between American and Canadian football. "American teams have 11 men, whereas Canadian teams use 12," he said. In Canada the positions are named differently. A center is a center, but the guards are called tackles and the ends are termed wings. The guard is an inside wing and the end is an outside wing. The extra man is a flying wing. He can play anywhere.

"In America four downs are allowed for 10 yards, but in Canada only three downs are allowed. In the Dominion the rules do not allow interference for a ball carrier once he gets three yards beyond the line of scrimmage. He has to take care of himself once he gets that far. As soon as the teams line up for scrimmage, the referee paces off three yards ahead of the ball, stands there and see that there's no interference beyond that point."

WHEN the new hockey rules were adopted it was predicted in some quarters that they would cut in on the scoring record of big Nels

BIG SCHOLASTIC FLOOR CARD ON TAP

Leadership of Section I, of the City League, hangs in balance today as Schenley and South, tied for the top rung of the ladder with four victories each, clash on the Bellefielders' court. Both fives have escaped without defeat to date, Schenley boasting a triumph over the defending league champion, Fifth Avenue, and South a thrilling two-extra period win over Westinghouse as their principal victories.

BIG CARD ON TAP

The contest is the feature engagement of the day's scholastic card, which consists of three battles in each division of the league and a flock of crack contests in the W. P. I. A. L.

Enhancing the program for Section I are the Fifth-Westinghouse and Allderdice-Peabody struggles. In Section II, the leaders, Perry, takes on a tough one in its North Side rival, Oliver. Allegheny invades Langley for a game with the Corliss Tunnel passers, and Carrick meets the vengeful South Hills quintet on the latter's court.

Coaches Gross, of Schenley, and Washabaugh, of South, intend to start the lineups they have been depending upon so far in their classic this afternoon. That means that the Bellefielders will line up with Oklin and Evans at the forwards, the clever and accurate shooting Crum at center and Slusser, gridiron captain, and Douglass, at the guards.

MERCASH TO START

South will present Cakrewski and Goldstein at the forward posts, Meidzwicki at center and Mercash and Lengyum at the guards. Mercash was the star of the extra-period Westinghouse battle last week, and will be depended upon to make trouble for Schenley today. The probable lineups:

Schenley.		South
Oklin	F	Cakrewski
Evans	F	Goldstein
Crum	C	Miedzwicki
Douglass	G	Mercash
Slusser	G	Lengyum

W. P. I. A. L. TEAMS PLAY

In the W. P. I. A. L. hectic action is booked for Section IV, where Freedom will attempt to slow up the fast stepping Aliquippa quintet. Beaver Falls, still hopeful of nosing out the Indians, take on Monaca at Monaca and Beaver plays Midland at Midland. New Brighton battles Rochester at Rochester.

In Section X, Jeannette engages Uniontown, and in Section V, Monessen hopes to skim over another obstacle by topping Brownsville.

GENEVA, BISONS FACE LOCALS TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

Carnegie Tech and Duquesne, one showing its wares before home folks, and the other swinging down into the Beaver Valley, will represent Pittsburgh in the college basketball scramble tonight.

Chick Davies

The Dukes entertain Bethany's undefeated and seemingly, title bound, Bison passers on the Bluff court in what appears to be the piece de resistance of the week's program. Tech meets Geneva at Beaver Falls, the Skibos hoping to end their losing streak, which has been kicked into a six-defeat string.

It's a good bet that every person who punched his other way into the Dukes' gym a year ago and watched Bethany, with the most sensational rally of the year, score seven points in a minute and a half to nose out the locals, will be back to view the unbeaten Bisons against the Red and Blue tonight. Bethany has dashed through all its games so far with hardly a hitch, and has turned back teams of the caliber of Penn State, Michigan State, Wash-Jeff (twice), Juniata, and Waynesburg. The Buffaloes are right out in front with the leaders in the Tri-state Conference, and with a veteran and accomplished team, figure to stick there.

However, the Dukes, with a better team than they boasted a year ago at this time, respite two setbacks last week on their eastern trip, are capable of playing havoc with the aspirations of the Bisons tonight. This they very likely will do. Coach Davies seems to have found the okay combination, and with the veteran Abele, a star two years ago, back in stride, can toss a formidable array in the path of the West Virginians tonight.

TARTANS FACE GENEVA

Tech is up against as tough a one as could be named as it attempts to emerge from the six-game slump. Geneva has a very good basketball team, being one of the favorites in the Conference, and playing on its own court, will possess an added advantage over the Tartans.

The clever Len Friedman, who led his team's attack in the victory over Allegheny Saturday night, promises to be Tech's big worry. Len rates along with Hyatt of Pitt; O'Donovan, of Westminster; Ryan, of Grove City; Stephens, of Duquesne and Tel-

BEZDEK RETIRES AS COACH AT PENN STATE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The creation at Penn State College of a new school of physical education and athletics was announced late yesterday by the board of trustees at their mid-winter meeting. Hugo Bezdek, veteran coach, will retire from an active direction of the college football and baseball teams to head the new school, it was said.

The creation of the new school is in line with a program started three years ago for the betterment of athletics. One of the aims of that program was the elimination of scholarships and subsidies to athletes.

Another aim of the school, as outlined by the trustees, is to extend the benefits of physical education and athletics to the entire student body that graduates should not only have "a trained mind, but also a sound body."

GETS NEW JOB

The proposal for the new school was approved recently by the college board of athletic control, but announcement was withheld pending action of the trustees. Under the system, Bezdek and all his personnel will come under the direct authority of the trustees just as any other member of the faculty.

In discussing the new system, Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the college, made this announcement after the trustees' meeting:

"The action simply means that the Pennsylvania State College desires that its graduates shall have the reputation of having not only a trained mind, but also a sound body, capable of standing up under the physical strain of a long life of usefulness to society. In raising the Department of Education to a school status, we expect to enter upon a most advanced program for administering to the physical needs, not only of the athletically inclined student, but the backward and

COLISEUM CLUB TO FIGHT CLOSING

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The Coliseum Boxing Club plans to fight the closing down by the city authorities of its new arena, located in what formerly was known as the Columbus Temple, on the ground that the building is a "fire-trap" menace to the spectators.

Announcement was made to this effect after the action of Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh yesterday, in ordering that the permit issued to the club be rescinded as a result of reports reaching him following the first show in the Coliseum last Friday night.

A spokesman for the club, which is conducted by Francis Flynn, former Moose Temple promoter, and the three Meyers brothers, sponsors of the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, immediately got in touch with the police department upon hearing of the ban on the arena and arranged for a meeting of city officials at the Coliseum today to look over the place with a view to making satisfactory changes in the aisles and exits that would permit the re-issuance of a permit.

MAY SUE CITY

In the event such an arrangement cannot be effected, it was intimated suit might be filed against the city for the recovery of the money expended in the reconstruction of the second floor hall for boxing purposes, with the approval of the building inspector's office. The club feels it should be reimbursed for this outlay if it is found that the building is impracticable as a boxing arena after the building inspectors first put their O. K. on the club's plans.

One of the members of the club last night expressed himself as surprised at the action of the police department, which he said was taken without calling in the club officials for a conference to fix the responsibility for the unsatisfactory layout of the hall from a safety standpoint.

"I am sure the matter could have been adjusted without undue publicity in the newspapers," this member said. "As matters stand now, we feel the club has been irrevocably hurt. Even if we should be able to continue, the stigma, 'fire trap,' will remain attached to the building and will scare away many potential patrons. If the building is unsafe for boxing, it is unsafe for other sports, and we should have been so informed when we applied for a building permit, and not after we had put our time and money into it. We plan to fight this matter through to the finish."

COMMISSION BIDES TIME

State Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle said he planned to take no immediate action other than to refuse to sanction any shows in the Coliseum unless the city ban is removed. If this is done, he then will consider the advisability of continuing the club's state license.

Meanwhile the club this morning still was hoping and planning to go through with its second show, Friday night, in the main bout of which Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, is scheduled to meet Maxie Strub, of Erie. As a last resort, the show may be shifted to the Moose Temple, where Promoter Flynn formerly operated.

PIRATE SPRING TRAINING CARD FILLED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The work of marking off the preparatory course to be followed by the Pirate brig on the spring training cruise that will bring the Buccaneers up to their starting point in the National League's 1930 pennant race has been completed. Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss today announced the final booking.

The only remaining open date on which it would be possible to play an additional practice game on the Buccaneers' spring trip was Wednesday, April 2, and this has been filled by the scheduling of a tilt in Beaumont, Tex., with the Texas League club of that place. Recently a game was arranged for March 31 in Tucson, Ariz., with the Tucson club, of the Arizona State League, and these two engagements will serve to break the Corsairs' long jump from Los Angeles to Houston, Tex.

Only two dates remain unfilled on the Pittsburgh team's program, from the time the Bucs break camp in Paso Robles on St. Patrick's Day until they open the championship season on April 15, and both are permanently open. One is April 1, required for the trip from Tucson to Beaumont, and the other is April 14, the day preceding the opening of the regular season.

COMPLETE CARD

A total of 27 practice games in 19 cities and five states will be played by the Pirates after the breaking of camp, barring the possibility of interruptions on account of unfavorable weather. The complete spring card follows:

Lloyd Waner Improves After Operation

Physicians in charge of Lloyd Waner, Pirate star, confined at the Presbyterian Hospital following an operation for removal of his appendix, today were much pleased over the condition of their patient. The clever centerfielder was reported as resting easier.

Lloyd was in considerable pain yesterday after he had rallied from the anesthetic. None but Mrs. Waner was allowed to see him, although Manager Jewel Ens, of the Buccos, was permitted to visit the athlete for a few minutes last night.

Visitors will be barred for a couple of days yet, the physicians state.

NEW TRAINER SIGNED

Treasurer Dreyfuss also announces that a new trainer has been engaged to keep the Pittsburgh players in trim during the 1930 race, filling the post that has remained open since Mike Chambers resigned shortly after the beginning of last season.

The new trainer is Dr. Charles A. Jorgensen, of Columbus, O., a licensed chiropractor who has a large practice in the Buckeye city. He is of Danish extraction, 45 years old, married, and the father of four children.

Dr. Jorgensen has treated many American Association and International League players for diamond injuries, and with such good results that a large number of those athletes recommended him highly to the Pittsburgh club.

LOCAL SCRIBES HOLD MEETING TOMORROW

The banquet committee of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America will meet tomorrow afternoon at the William Penn Hotel for the purpose of furthering plans for the second annual sports dinner, the date of which has been fixed for February 6.

Last year's affair proved such a fine success that the committee this year is counting on handling a crowd almost twice as great as the one that attended the inaugural fete. The Pirate Hall has been engaged and arrangements will be made to entertain 1,000.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, has accepted an invitation to be one of the speakers. Other prominent figures in the sport world are to be guests of honor.

Paul Knocks Out O'Dowd in First

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 21—(AP.)—Tommy Paul, 126, of Buffalo, knocked out Eddie O'Dowd, 127, Columbus, Ohio, in the first round of a scheduled six-round bout here last night. Two left hooks to the head spilled O'Dowd for a count of nine and a moment later a straight right to the jaw dropped him for the full count after one minute, 52 seconds of milling.

Dr. Milton (Mickey) Gross, former star of the Pittsburgh Morrys in the old Central League and one of the cleverest basketball players ever turned out in local professional circles, last night was appointed manager and coach of the Fintex team of the Allegheny County League for the second half of the season. Gross replaces L. D. Schmidt, who handled the reins of the club during the first half of the season.

Mickey Gross

SMART FLOOR COACH

The acquisition of Dr. Gross as coach and manager of the Fintex quintet gives the Clothiers one of the smartest basketball men connected with the sport in Western Pennsylvania, and he should prove a valuable asset to the team during the second half of the Allegheny County League race, which gets under way next Monday night.

Schmidt's resignation as manager did not come as a complete surprise to those who are familiar with the affairs of the Fintex team. Schmidt had a tough row to hoe all season and combined with his law practice he could not give the team the attention it needed. As coach of the team Gross succeeds Nate Lippe, who will continue to hold down a regular position at forward.

Gross, in the hey-day of his career, stood out with the greatest performers in local professional basketball circles. His all-around work contributed much to the success of the Pittsburgh Morrys while they were the professional champions of the district.

KEEN STUDENT OF GAME

A keen student of the popular winter indoor sport, Gross knows how to handle men and this was one asset the Fintex team lacked during the first half of the County League fight. The Fintex team, after getting off to a brilliant start, cracked wide open during the closing weeks of the race and permitted the Duquesne Lafayettes to come from behind to oust it from first place.

With Gross at the helm during the second half of the race, Fintex stands an excellent chance of winning the title and earn the right to meet the Duquesne Lafayettes for the championship in a post-season series.

Sammy Klateman, Fintex County League player, was refused permission to play for the Y. M. H. A. quintet in the second half of the loop's race, at a meeting last night of the West Penn League. The West Penn is rated an amateur circuit, while the County League is classed as professional.

RENAISSANCE WINS

The Renaissance Big Five, of New York, famous Negro basketball team, found a fighting Fintex County League aggregation facing it in an exhibition in the Duke gym last night, the Gothamites winning out by a 22 to 17 margin. The shooting of Renaissance was not up to the mark, and at no time did they lead the locals by more than five points, although it found the game pressing from the outset.

The Schneiders, of the West Penn League, surprised the Duquesne Lafayettes, of the County League, by winning their game at North Side Moose, 31 to 22. I. K. S. found Trinity Cathedral a tough foe in the Central League, but managed to cop by a 57-43 tally.

Duquesne Light defeated Sales and Service, 24 to 22 and Bylesby trimmed Equitable Gas, 47 to 25, in Philadelphia Company League games. P. & L. E. whipped Rieck-McJunkin, 34 to 28, in the C. & I. loop.

In other contests, Paulist A. C., of Butler, walloped the C. M. C. aggregation of this city, 52 to 18, at Butler, and the Lou Gordons tripped Pittsburgh Lyceum, 29 to 20. The lineups:

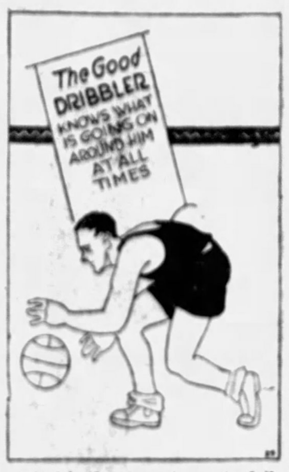
How to Play Basketball



What is the correct way to dribble?

Answered by

J. M. SAM BARRY,

Basketball Coach, University of Southern California, Pacific Coast (South Division) Champion.

A player must be able to bounce the ball while in a running stride. He must be able to "feel" the ball, for his eyes cannot be focused on it. The dribbler must be able to watch the players in front of him as well as know what is going on behind him. The dribbler must know the location of the basket and keep perfect control of the ball. The body should be bent forward in running stride head up and ball bounced in front and in the center of the body. The ball is slapped by the palm of the hands and controlled by the fingers. The bounce should be waist high. Many players can oversee the ball out of the lower part of the eye as it reaches the height of the b[illegible].

GALLATIN GETS BAD BREAK IN LEAGUE

By TOM BIRKS

Gallatin's wonderful success this season in league and cup tie soccer warfare is not making much of a hit in certain quarters. This column is in receipt of a letter from Harry Sickles, captain of the Gallatin club, telling us that the American League has made the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph its official organ.

The game between Gallatin and German Sport, won by Gallatin, was protested by the German Sport Club, because the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph stated that the game probably would be played at the Monongahela Speedway, and that the contest was played at Gallatin.

PROTEST EXPECTED

So the boys running the affairs of the American League also are splitting straws, so now that this column was drawn into the meeting. We think the fans should know the facts, as the writer knew them before the game was played.

In the first place Gallatin should feel elated, as a winning team, for it is filling the place of the now-defunct Heidelberg club games at the Speedway this season.

On Friday before the game this office was called and told of a conversation between one of the members of the German Sport Club and a prominent soccer official. It seemed the German club had agreed to go to the Speedway, and if the game was at Gallatin to protest it.

The writer was asked to acquaint Harry Sickles at the Gallatin-Heidelberg game of the proposed idea—this was on the day previous to the Sports Club-Gallatin game. But in the rush of the game, it was forgotten. Referee Brannigan also was asked to report to Gallatin early and tell the Gallatin officials that the Sports Club intended to go to the Speedway because it was the field registered with the league.

TOO EXPENSIVE

This registered business is a lot of bunk. Gallatin has played few games at the Speedway this season, and could not keep up the rental of the park, and naturally had to play its games at Gallatin. The officials of the American League knew this, and the president of the West Penn Football Association was absolutely opposed to the decision of the league in ordering the game replayed. It must be understood—the local prexy, while he sponsored the organizing of the league, only sits in the sessions in an advisory capacity.

This business of letting managers run leagues is a lot of nonsense. Their ideas of fairness run parallel with what they can get out of the decisions handed down. Before he agrees upon a replay date, Sickles should take the case to the West Penn Football Association. It might be interesting to hear what that body has to say when the case comes up. This writer feels that the Sports Club was given bad advice when told to report to the Speedway but, looking for a lopohole, it took advantage of the advice, and the game, according to the league, must be replayed. So, in the meantime, the fans are beginning to feel that Gallatin is not getting the breaks to which a good club winning its ball games on the field is entitled.

Bower, Pitt Grid Manager, Given Surprise Party

Joseph T. Bower, manager of the University of Pittsburgh football team, was given a big surprise party last night by his brother members of the Phi Kappa fraternity, at the fraternity home, Bellefield avenue.

Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, gave the principal talk at the testimonial affair. The Rev. Father C. A. Sanderbeck, chaplain of the fraternity, and Charles J. Doyle, baseball writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, also spoke.

Bower has been an extremely popular manager. Besides acting in this capacity, he was the president of the Phi Kappas. He expects to graduate in June.

Effort to Elect W.-J. Leader Fails

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 21.—An effort to break a deadlock for W. & J. football captain yesterday ended in failure after several ballots were cast for Andy Cochrane, guard, of Pittsburgh, and Levine, tackle, of Lock Haven, Pa. The first attempt to elect was made at the football banquet last Friday night, it being necessary according to athletic association rules, for a winner to secure three-fourths of the votes cast.

It is understood that the 25 lettermen who cast ballots did not change their votes from last Friday. Another early effort to elect a leader will be made, but indications are that the athletic council will be forced to make a choice, in which event it is regarded as probable that both Cochrane and Levine will be named jointly.

LOCAL GOLFER QUALIFIES

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 21.—The first round of match play in the Lake Worth golf tournament is being contested here today, with a Pittsburgh player participating. He is A. C. Speyer of the Westmoreland Country Club, who is opposing Roger Bacon, of Middletown, Conn., in the second sixteen. Speyer qualified yesterday with a card of 85-39—87.

DUDLEY LEADS $25,000 OPEN GOLF EVENT

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mexico, Jan. 21—(AP.)—Blazing a trail through the first round of the world's richest golf tournament, Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., professional, yesterday shot a par 71 to place himself in a one stroke lead over the field of 115 starters in the Agua Caliente $25,000 open tournament.

While Dudley was mixing brilliant golf with some rather mediocre play, to match his prowess against the treacherous course, MacDonald Smith, Long Island, N. Y., exponent of the great Scottish pastime, settled to the tedious and nerve-racking grind to shoot a steady 72 for second place.

Only two strokes behind the leader came Harold Long, Denver, a "dark horse" entrant, and Al Watrous, Detroit, with 73's to their credit.

NINE TIE AT 74

Nine others, including a pair of amateurs, climbed into fourth position by putting behind them the 18 holes of play over the course made heavy by rains, with cards of 74.

In the fourth place tie came an array of those favored to make the strongest bid for the $10,000 first prize and 19 other money places. Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo.; Al Espinosa, Chicago; Bobby Cruickshank, New York; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Cal.; Harry Cooper, Buffalo; Charles Guest, Los Angeles; and Ed Stokes, Denver, all had cards of 74.

Tied with them were two Simon pures, George Von Elm, Detroit, and Fay Coleman, Culver City, Cal. The nearest other amateur, Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, turned in a 78.

Tied with Farrell were such experts as Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion, and Denny Shute, young pro from Columbus, who climbed to fame by winning the Los Angeles $10,000 open.

COOPER WEDS

Cooper shot 37 holes of golf yesterday, making a 36 on his second out 9 for a 110 total. He is in Los Angeles today where he will be married to Miss Emma Buchanon, of Los Angeles. The Buffalo pro will return with his bride tomorrow and play the remaining nine to catch up with the field.

QUINN DENIES TURNER TO BUY RED SOX

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Reports that the Boston Red Sox baseball team was to be sold to Thomas L. Turner, president and part owner of the Portland Club, of the Pacific Coast League, were denied today by President Bob Quinn, of the American League Club.

TELLS OF DEAL

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—A bigger and better year in baseball was forecast today for the Boston Red Sox by Thomas Turner, president of the Portland club, of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, following announcement that he is to purchase the Boston club.

Although he declined to disclose how far the transaction has progressed, Turner last night announced he will be the new owner of the American League club.

Turner has planned a number of changes for the club, it is said. No purchase figure has yet been named. Henry Wagner was recently named manager.

A little arithmetic will save you money

FROM a mass of claims and counter-claims, one fact stands out—AMOCO-GAS gives more miles per gallon—least cost per mile.

This is proved every day by hundreds of truck-fleet operators who must know to a penny their cost per mile—and by thousands of motorists who want low operating costs and better performance, too.

Prove it to yourself by figuring your own cost per mile. Note how many more miles you get to each gallon—how this extra mileage cuts down your cost per mile. Over a period of time, notice your reduction in repair bills and generally reduced operating costs.

Put it up to AMOCO-GAS, your motor and a lead pencil. A little old-fashioned arithmetic will save you money. When you come to AMOCO-GAS and the lowest cost per mile, you'll come to better all-around performance, too.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—The Ottawa Senators, now in fourth place in the International Group standings, will attempt to vault into the runner-up berth when they meet the Pittsburgh Pirates here tonight.

The local skaters are trailing Toronto idle tonight by one point and are two points back of the second-place Les Canadiens. A win over the Steel City puckmen will enable the Senators to pass Toronto in the race and gain an even footing with the Flying Frenchmen in the event that the latter lose in their fight with the Americans in New York.

BUCS SEEN AS DANGEROUS

Although the Pittsburghers are in the league cellar, the Ottawa icemen have learned (to their sorrow) that the invaders are dangerous foemen. Frank Frederickson's warriors gained a 3-1 decision over the locals in a spirited battle in Pittsburgh on January 2, and up to this time the locals have not had an opportunity to get revenge.

After pacing the entire National League in the early weeks of the season, the Senators suffered a slump and dropped from their high place but they have been turning in victories with some regularity recently and they are prepared to give the Pirates a real battle.

Frederickson today announced that he planned to use the veteran Joe Miller at goal tonight. Rookie Andy Spooner was given a trial in the nets last Saturday, when the Bucs were hosts to the New York Rangers, but the young cage guardian is reported to be in need of more experience. Frederickson further intimated that Hib Milks would be returned to the front line after a one-night stand at defense.

SPARES RESPECTED

The Senators regard the Pittsburgh spares with considerable respect, for it was the Bucco reserves who hammed home the scores that beat the locals when they invaded Pittsburgh. The probable lineup:

SENATORS		PIRATES
Cotton	G	Miller
A. Smith	D	K. Smith
Cleary	D	MacKinnon
Laing	F	Milks
H. Kilrea	W	Darragh
Finnigan	W	Lowrey

Spares—Senators, Gagne, Trudeau, Cox, Shields, W. Kilrea; Pirates, White, Jarvis, Barton, Drury, Spring, Fraser, Brydges.

PIRATE SPRING CARD SET

Among them were Billy Southworth, Johnny Rawlings, Bill Wambsganss, Lute Boone, and Jack McCallister, former Cleveland manager and now assistant manager of the Boston Red Sox.

The new trainer will go to Paso Robles with the Pirate advance guard that is scheduled to leave Pittsburgh four weeks from tonight, and will remain with the club throughout the season.

George Asten will be assistant trainer and will continue to have charge of the Pirate baggage.

BOOL REAL STAR

Catcher Al Bool, of Baltimore, the hard-working athlete purchased by the Pirates, was one of the standouts of the International League last season, according to the official averages released today. Bool was far ahea of any other catcher in the league in the point of regularity, he working in no less than 129 games.

Quite naturally the new Bucco had more putouts and assists than any receiver in the league. On the other hand, the sturdy performer had more passed balls than any of his catching pals—and that, dear fans, is not so good. He was charged with 17 of these slips.

George Toporcer, the spectacled star who worked up a big furore by hitting an umpire in the post-season series between Rochester and Kansas City, was a featured player at second base. The Rochester keystone tender was far ahead of all his rivals in the matter of chances. His assist string was just one short of the 600 mark, and he made 465 putouts.

ONSLOW SLIPS

Eddie Onslow, a perennial first baseman in the International, slipped up in regularity during the past year. The veteran took part in 61 games at first base for Baltimore and Newark.

Hinkie Haines, once a football star at Penn State, was just about the most consistent outfielder in the league. Haines led in the percentage of accepted chances, and he took part in 148 games.

ALEX AND JIM

Alex Stevenson and Hizzoner Jim Malone will continue their respective vocal descriptions of Pitt's trip to California before the members of the Pittsburgh Co-Operative Club at the Fort Pitt today. The affair will take the form of a luncheon.

Alex and Jim talked to the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board last week. What I'm wondering is, will they mention the score of the ball game today? They didn't for the Realtors.

The Tipoff

Having bid, been doubled and promptly set in three consecutive four-bids in a bridge fracas with the Ira Coupe brother night (and by the way, at that), I have decided to go back to red dog.

Two fine high school coaches as good as they come, will match teams and wits against each other this afternoon at Schenley and South to up to a Section 1 City League game. I mean Walt Gross and Grover Washabaugh.

Do you know that Lubo DiMonte is slated to become the coach at New York University next year? Yep, 'tis the truth. Chuck Mashuz is expected here soon to close the deal with Captain Lubo.

Bob Waddell, jaggery coach at Carnegie Tech, has been invited to speak at an athletic banquet at Ambridge, January 30 and has accepted.

Illinois Board Bans Wrestling

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The Illinois Boxing Commission today will bar heavyweight wrestling from the state, according to Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman.

"The boxing commission has no desire to be employed as the tool of any professional athletic combine," Clinnin said last night in an address before the Marine Post of the American Legion here.

"While the commission does not claim heavyweight wrestling matches are fixed, he regards it as strange that they always come out in a way beneficial to the manager."

Gen. Clinnin charged in his talk that there are wrestling trusts whose object is to keep the title within "the family" by declining to meet wrestlers from outside.

New Yorkers Set New Bowling Mark

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The Nyack Roofing team has established a new all-time five-men record for one game in the American National Bowling Tournament which was inaugurated in 1891.

Rolling here last night, Nyack toppled over 1,204 pins in their last game to beat the New York Mineralites in three straight games and clinch the tournament. The tournament record previously had been 1,174.

Hiltenbrand, incidentally, rolled a total of 731 for his three games, getting 233 and 201 in addition to his 297 on the last game. The world five-man record for one game is 1,265 set in 1926 by the Democrat and Chronicle team of Rochester, N. Y.

NOT TO LESSEN PROGRAM

"We do not expect to lessen emphasis on intercollegiate participation in our dozen organized sports, but rather to supplement this vigorous activity with an extensive program of play and education which shall touch every student in the college.

"Prof. Bezdek has recognized the great opportunity that lies in the program of this new school and has asked to be relieved of his coaching duties in order that he may devote his full time and energy to the promotion of this program."

Bezdek's present coaching contract has two more years to run, but he felt that by his retirement he would be better able to carry on the work of the new school, the board explained.

MANAGED PIRATES

Bezdek won his football spurs under Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg at the University of Chicago in the early 1900's. After his college career had ended, he, for a time, assisted Stagg and than went to the University of Arkansas. Later he coached at the University of Oregon.

In 1917, Bezdek managed the Pittsburgh baseball team of the National League. The next year he went to Penn State as coach of the football team of the student army training corps. In 1919 he became coach of the college team. His football teams of 1920 and 1921 went through the seasons undefeated.

Bezdek recently was granted naturalization in the United States. He was born in Prague, Czecho-Slovakia. His retirement is effective July 1.

Long's Sport Comment

A glance at the records for the present season, however, shows that it is going to take more than the altered code to stop Stewart. He is still right up there among the leading scorers of the league.

Nels Stewart

STEWART is a great hockey player and has been a consistently frequent scorer under all rules. He was always "up there" as an amateur, when there were no divisions and no off-side passes on the ice, and as a professional under rules that allowed no forward passing by the attacking side in the defending team's zone. In the season of 1925-26, his first in major company, Nels led all the scorers with a total of 34 goals, then more than were registered by Cy Denenny, the Ottawa sharpshooter. There was no forward passing then, but Stewart scored just the same. He is a more finished hockey player in every way than he was then, and likely will go right on scoring goals unless he is roped and tied. They have done almost everything except that, yet he keeps on making life miserable for the goal tenders.

BAT BATTALINO IN HOSPITAL AFTER BOUT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Bat Battalino, world's featherweight champion, who went through 10 thrilling rounds with Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, at the Arena here last night with an infected finger, spent the night in a hospital and will be forced to remain there another day or two, physicians said today.

The Battler's index finger on his left hand was lanced on Saturday and again on Monday morning. Some of his handlers tried to persuade him to postpone the match against Massey, but rather than disappoint the fans he went through with it and lost the decision. The champion depended almost entirely on his right hand.

RISKO BEATS ITALIAN

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Johnny Risko, the rubbery baker boy of Cleveland, whipped Ricardo Bertazzolo, the Italian heavyweight champion, decisively in their 10-round slugfest here last night. It was a benefit show for the family of the late Ray Campbell, local sport writer.

Risko clubbed the big Italian all over the ring. Bertazzolo was down twice in the seventh round, once for a count of nine and once with no count. In the final round Bertazzolo was hanging on grimly while Johnny landed rights and lefts to the jaw. Risko weighed 193¾; Bertazzolo, 210½.

The Great Arthur Shires, who was to come from Chicago to referee a bout on the card, was refused permission to act in that capacity by the Cleveland Boxing Commission. Shires stayed in Chicago.

morning from Hot Springs, Ark., whither he went some weeks ago to regain his health after his sorry showing against and knockout defeat by Mickey Solmen in a bout in the Moose Temple. He was accompanied by his manager, P. J. (Bunny) Buntach, who spent part of the time at Hot Springs with him. Buck said he felt greatly improved physically and hopes to resume training shortly for an active ring campaign. He now scales 176 pounds and expects to be able to get down to and continue to weigh around 160 in fighting. In his most recent bouts he averaged around 152 pounds, but was underweight and weak at that figure.

Between Rounds

Luke Carey, local manager, is building up a stable of boxers to be headed by Jack Zivic. He has signed an Irish middleweight named John Patrick Doherty, from California, and a Jewish welterweight, Sammy Goldman, a former local lad who has returned after breaking into the fight game in California, and plans to add a 126-pounder and a heavyweight.

Jack Wells, West Virginia heavyweight, is back in town ready to box after giving his broken hand a chance to mend. He is in the stable of James (Red) Mason.

Frank Novak, of the North Side, Western Pennsylvania amateur heavyweight champion, and Sailor Mann, of McKeesport, have been signed to box the second bout at McKeesport Thursday night. A double windup of two 10-round bouts tops the show, Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, meeting Johnny Sacco, of Buffalo, and California Joe Gans, of McKeesport, battling Joey Coffman, of Buffalo, a stablemate of Sacco. Eddie Gans, of Chalfont, and Hugh Cunningham, of Buffalo, will box the opener.

Al Winkler vests Eddie Reed Negro star, at Philadelphia, Thursday night. Carmen Spagnola and Marty Collins box the windup of a show there Friday night.

GIZZY ON GARDEN CARD

C., has arranged an attractive card of five six-round bouts for the Auditorium Arena in Erie next Friday night, as follows: Johnny Flai vs. Jack Gibbs, Ray Collins vs. Eddie Kaufman, Henry Andrews vs. Jack Simpson, Frankie Bolonki vs. Nick Severo and Matty Dilatch vs. Joe Sabland.

LATZO IN COMEBACK

Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, now fighting as a light-heavyweight, returns to the limelight against Billy Jones, local Negro star, in the main bout at the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night. A broken jaw forced Pete to quit the ring for more than a year.

Ray Fay, of Charleroi, bosses Cutley Reese, of Buckhannon, W. Va., to the tune of a show at Clarksburg, W. Va., Thursday night.

Public Attitude Toward Investment Trust Shares Changed.

IT is only a few months ago that the public was interested in investment trust stocks to such an extent that their shares were being purchased at prices materially above the book values, and this was considered a premium being paid for the good banking and other managements. Today many investment trusts are quoted below book values, but outsiders are not interested in the stocks to any extent. This change of attitude on the part of the public is not surprising in view of what occurred during the October-November break. Investment trust shares at that time suffered materially in the sharp declines.

At times during last week the railroad shares gave evidence of moving forward, although any possibility of an enthusiastic long following in this and other groups was halted by the selling which came from the bears in the other stocks, especially some of the weaker industrials and specialties. Several houses have resumed their recommendations on the rails, contending that this group involves the smallest risk for those who have decided to adopt a long position to be carried for a few months. No one looks for a major move in the rails at this time, however, because of the small car loadings reported.

FOR several months market interests have been studying conditions closely in an attempt to pick out the stocks which have prospects of doing better this year. Many have made a long list of selections for long pull purchases, and they have been switching from issues on which the outlook is not quite so favorable into the other shares. Naturally the result of this operation has been to increase the irregularity. Indications are that the market will be more or less selective for some time. Advices from commission houses have been that discrimination must be used in making purchases, because many stocks are expected to hang back or be reactionary, even while others are moving forward. Therefore, it is the theory that the safest course would be to consider only the standard dividend-paying stocks on which the outlook is considered satisfactory.

For some time past reports have persisted in the financial district to the effect that Missouri-Kansas-Texas common would shortly enter the dividend paying class of rail stocks. Now comes the news from reliable sources that such action is not contemplated by the directorate at its meeting in January, nor at the February gathering. It is now thought that earnings report for 1929 will show amount available for common well above the $4.14 a share reported in 1928, but apparently not in excess of $5. The latter figure would be in line with the average for the past four or five years.

ACCORDING to preliminary audit of earnings, Gotham Silk Hosiery in 1929 earned approximately $3 a common share. This would mean that net income was in excess of $1,600,000 last year, and, while under early forecasts, was considered satisfactory in view of the developments in the trade at various times during the year. Officials state that company is in strong financial condition with cash well in excess of $3,000,000, of which more than $2,500,000 was loaned on call. It is also stated that although accounts receivable at the end of 1929 were somewhat higher than at the end of 1928, this item has been substantially reduced since the start of the year.

In trade circles it is said that sales of Union Carbide's anti-freeze preparation—Prestone—have been showing substantial increases and that the pick-up in that department has more than offset the decline in sales of radio sets. Management has been diversifying its lines with the result that a slackening of demand in one is usually followed by greater sales in others. Around the middle of March Carbide will release its annual report and in well informed quarters estimates of earnings running in excess of $4 a share on 8,921,000 shares outstanding.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Prospective and current new financing served to divert attention from listed bonds again today and a slightly easier trend developed in the early trading. United States governments and prime domestic corporation issues suffered from an apathy almost as complete as that of yesterday, which was the dullest day of the year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP).—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

For more than a year we have been broadcasting, under contract, daily quotations of the more active stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange over

Westinghouse Station
KDKA

A test was recently conducted by the station to determine, whether or not, this broadcasting was of sufficient interest to warrant continuance.

The result was astonishing. Thousands of letters, cards, wires, cables and several petitions were received, the majority of which emanated from Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. Others came from most of the eastern and southern states and from more distant points—Cuba, Porto Rico, Dutch West Indies, Jamaica, Bermuda, Panama and Newfoundland. All desired the continuance of the daily quotation broadcast.

The demand for this service was of such volume that we renewed our contract to broadcast daily quotations during the current year.

Because of the impossibility of replying individually to those who requested the addition of outside quotations, we wish to state that we are limited to stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange and compelled to confine quotations to the more important stocks, because of time restriction.

We trust that this service will continue to prove beneficial.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Turn Up — Local Market Narrow

STOCKS RISE IN NARROW TRADING

Prices Dip After Early Irregularity, Then Turn Higher for Net Gains

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The stock market was still moving within a narrow trading range today, and showing little indication of a pronounced trend in prices. After an irregular opening, prices dipped moderately when selling pressure was renewed against some of the popular industrials and specialties, but good buying support appeared and by early afternoon there was a preponderance of net gains.

Trade news was rather colorless in character. Preliminary estimates indicated a drop of more than 20,000 barrels in the daily average of crude oil production last week, with a sharp reduction in prices. A receiver was appointed for the Kolster Radio Company, shares of which were heavily bought last year on the prospects of the manufacture of home television sets. Wall Street heard that the terms of the Republic Steel merger would be announced within a day or two.

MONEY RATE DROPS

Call money again dropped from 4½ to 4 per cent, with the supply plentiful and the demand light. There were no changes in other monetary rates. London dispatches indicate that there is a 50-50 chance of the Bank of England reducing its discount rate tomorrow, and a change in the New York Federal Reserve rate is expected soon afterward.

Reports that cigaret prices in the Chicago district had been increased to 15 cents a package by the leading chain store organizations stimulated the demand for the tobacco stocks. Schulte common, which sold as low as 3½ last year, climbed 2⅝ points to 10¾ and the preferred jumped 25 points to 75, which contracts with a low of 30 last year. United Cigar Stores common advanced 1⅜ and the preferred 3½.

FOOD STOCKS STRONG

Food stocks also were in good demand on the theory that those issues would be likely to suffer the least in any business depression. National Biscuit (old stock) jumped 7 points, and the new stock, Purity Baking common and Continental Baking "A" advanced 2 points or more.

Selective buying developed in the rail groups on the report of the Atlantic shippers' conference that freight movement in the first quarter was likely to exceed that of the corresponding period last year. Atchison, Chesapeake Corporation, Missouri Pacific preferred and Chicago and Eastern Illinois common advanced 2 to 3 points.

LONG LIST GAINS

Auburn Auto, Collins & Aikman, Raybestos, Westinghouse Electric, Keith-Albee preferred, Abitibi preferred, Allied Chemical, General American Tank, International Harvester, American Machine and Foundry, General Gas and Electric "A" and R. H. Macy advanced 2 to 5 points.

Radio was under fairly constant pressure, but held within a couple of points of last night's closing price.

Exports of Grain Larger for Week

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Exports of grain from the United States during the week ending January 18 totaled 1,686,000 bushels, as compared with 3,846,000 in the corresponding week of last year and 1,612,000 in the preceding week.

Exports of corn totaled 104,000 bushels, against 148,000 in the preceding week; oats 4,000, against 35,000; barely none against 47,000; wheat 1,578,000, against 1,382,000.

Canadian grains in transit cleared from United States Atlantic ports were 609,000 bushels as compared with 530,000 bushels in the preceding week. Exports of wheat flour were 226,000 barrels as compared with 288,000 barrels. Of this amount 199,000 barrels was United States wheat flour and 27,000 barrels Canadian flour in transit during the week of January 18. In the preceding week 271,000 barrels were American flour and 17,000 Canadian.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Raw sugar was quiet, but the undertone was easy with sugars from store available at concessions of 1-32c or at 3.61c, duty paid. No sales were definitely reported, although it was believed that something was done at the quoted prices.

After opening 1 point lower, raw futures developed a decidedly easier undertone under a renewal of long liquidation and selling by houses with trade connections. Prices broke 3 to 5 points from initial figures and into new low ground for the season. Stop-loss orders were uncovered on the break, with the only demand in evidence covering by recent sellers, and at midday the market was at about the low of the forenoon and from 2 to 4 points below the previous close. The selling was influenced by the continued liberal offerings in the spot market.

In refined a fair withdrawal demand was in evidence, but there was no new buying and prices were unchanged at 5.20c for fine granulated.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Shares on the curb market rallied moderately today, after further bearish efforts during the first hour of trading met with little success. Shorts were inclined to cover on the theory that the market had become oversold, for the moment, at least.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

FRANCE SEEN AS LENDING CENTER

Laws Hindering Country As Capital Exploiting Nation May Be Changed

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The expected emergence of France as a great capital exporting nation will be the climax of a series of recent events distinctly helpful to international finance.

Until the bull markets culminated in New York, the rest of the world was being starved for capital and credit. New York and Paris, the two largest repositories of gold, were closed as international banking centers. New York was blockaded temporarily on account of temporary preoccupation with speculation at home, which offered a better rate for funds than any other outlet. The undoing of the bull cycle is relaxing the situation at New York, which doubtless will again become active in international lending in proportion to its leadership in gold holdings.

The chairman of the Anglo-French Banking Corporation, in reporting to stockholders, expresse the opinion that France will ultimately become a great lending center. It has been prevented from making long-time foreign loans by the continuance of obsolete tax laws, which it is understood the Bank of France would like to see repealed. The tax laws were framed during the inflation period when France was anxious to stop the flight from the franc. As for short term credits, Paris has been handicapped somewhat by the conservatism of French bankers and their relative unfamiliarity with this business, which has been most perfectly understood in London. France's huge gold hoards measure the extent to which the war-torn country has staged a financial recovery.

EARLY REVIVAL SEEN

Of course the settlement of the reparations issue at The Hague and any substantial agreement on armaments at London will further clear the air for the promotion for foreign trade and finance, which seem at the threshold of an important revival, which lies beyond the current dullness.

Unquestionably, the panic last fall was superinduced by the excessive issuance of new securities at a faster rate than investors could absorb them, culminating in the issuance last September of more than $1,000,000,000 of new securities. In the rush of blind competition among investment banking houses and banks, there was no adequate leadership which envisaged the needs of the situation as a whole. Instead of there being a money trust, as Congress feared before the war, there was an absence of an agency powerful enough to think for the street as a whole. When the late J. Pierpont Morgan lived, his personality supplied such co-ordinating leadership.

H. Parker Willis, professor of banking at Columbia University, in alluding to this situation, points out in The Annalist:

"We have referred to the dangers that attend the hasty competitive issue of excessive amounts of securities. The fact that these dangers exist and are well recognized plainly suggests the necessity of developing definite means of recognizing the responsibility of the profession with regard to the control of issues and of making its decisions effective in some way. During the World War, the danger involved in excessive competitive issues was so plainly recognized that we then organized the Capital Issues Committee at Washington, working in conjunction with the Federal Reserve Board and the War Finance Corporation. The committee was vested with the duty of determining whether given issues were socially necessary or desirable under the then existing conditions or not, and if they were, of authorizing them, while if the contrary was the case, they were not permitted to occur.

CONTROL BODY NEEDED

"One way to provide a satisfactory type of social control at the present time would be to revive this Capital Issues Committee, or some other body of the kind—though it needs hardly be said that such action should be regarded only as a last resort. It has been suggested by a former New York banker that a control of this kind should be exerted today, perhaps by the New York Stock Exchange, or the clearing house, or by both acting jointly—although where they would get their legal authority in the matter is not made plain."

Clearly there is need for an organized clearing house of ideas as to how many new issues the market can absorb in any period. This function could, in my opinion, best be carried out through the Investment Bankers' Association of America, to which all the principal creators and vendors of new securities belong.

Mellon Against Issuing $2.50 Gold Pieces

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Secretary of Treasury Mellon recommended that issuance of $2.50 gold pieces be discontinued. He said they are not used in commerce, but are given away as Christmas presents, and thus go out of circulation, and that this gold is needed for credit purposes.

A total of $50,541,475 in $2.50 gold pieces have been issued between the years 1796 and 1929, inclusive, of which $170,307 remain in the Federal Treasury and offices, Secretary Mellon pointed out.

Air Brake Has Record Fourth Quarter

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE last quarter of 1929 was the best of the year for the Westinghouse Air Brake Company. The annual report which will be published soon will show that earnings in the final three months were greater than those of any other quarter of either 1929 or 1928.

The company enjoyed a substantially better volume last year than in 1928 so that net profit for the year will show a very satisfactory increase.

The large volume of railroad equipment buying during recent months is responsible for the fact that the company's production is at about 80 per cent of capacity, which is a higher rate than prevailed during most of the past two years.

Large Orders Booked

BOTH of the principal branches of the company's business have been gaining. Westinghouse has shared in the equipping of the large number of railroad cars bought recently. Many of the car builders have their production sold for several months in advance, which insures a good rate of operations for the air brake department.

In addition to this, large orders have been booked for signal equipment. The Pennsylvania Railroad is installing cab signals and automatic train control on many of its locomotives. This road and others have placed substantial orders for car retarder equipment for hump freight yards.

As a result of the increased needs for railroad equipment, the Westinghouse Air Brake Company is one of the few large industrial organizations whose business has been on an upward trend during the past three months.

Earnings Gain

FOR the third quarter of 1929 the company reported net profit of $2,115,678, or 67 cents a share on the 3,177,110 shares of capital stock. This compared with $1,720,113, or 54 cents a share in the corresponding period of 1928.

For the first nine months of the year net profit was $6,164,028 or $1.94 a share. This compared with $4,650,463 or $1.46 a share in the corresponding period of 1928. Net for the nine months was not far below that of the entire year of 1928 when $6,490,557 or $2.04 a share was earned. With the gain anticipated in the final quarter, earnings for the year obviously will show a large increase.

Car Buying

THE company's earnings have followed closely the trend of railroad equipment buying. In the latter part of 1927 the manufacture of railroad cars dropped to a low level and the company also completed some of its large contracts for automatic train control installations. As a result of this profits declined.

Railroad buying improved in 1928 so that profits showed a gradual upward trend which continued into 1929. At present, however, the car builders have the greatest volume of business on their books in several years so that the prospects for 1930 are for a continuation of the rising tendency in Westinghouse Air Brake Company's earnings.

A factor in future profits may be the development of heavier brake equipment which has undergone a series of tests during the past year. This new equipment is designed to meet the need for adequate protection on heavier trains being run on many lines.

The stock is on a $2 annual basis. The company has no preferred stock or funded debt. The report will show an exceptionally strong financial position.

Member Banks' Loans Decrease

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities on January 15 shows decreases for the week of $188,000,000 in loans and investments, $114,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks, $22,000,000 in net demand deposits and $7,000,000 in government deposits, and an increase of $39,000,000 in time deposits.

Loans on securities declined $52,000,000 at all reporting banks.

N. Y. C. Unification Plans Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the New York Central Railroad to pledge its holdings of capital stock in Michigan Central Railroad Company, the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway and the Chicago, Kalamazoo and Saginaw Railway Company, under its refunding and improvement mortgage.

Kidney and Liver Sufferers!

Dr. Oscar E. Lee of Olympia, Washington

Declares That Vitaminized Flaxolyn Discovery Relieves Constipation Condition Naturally; Brings Sound, Restful Sleep by Perfecting Digestion.

"Dear Dr. Lunts," writes Dr Oscar E. Lee, head of the Sanitarium Baths of Olympia, Wash., "I want you to know how much both Mrs. Lee and myself think of Flaxolyn, and how happy we are to learn that you have perfected your formula in a pleasant liquid and vitaminized form.

"You will recall that both Mrs. Lee and myself used Flaxolyn personally with such wonderful results that we felt it our duty to interest as many people of the Northwest in Flaxolyn as it was humanly possible for us to do. As a result we have distributed thousands of packages of Flaxolyn and feel overjoyed with the good it has wrought."

The new vitaminized Flaxolyn is a blessing in disguise. It is so easy to take; so quick to act; so splendid in its results. I sincerely hope that before long every person who needs greater strength, greater energy, keener appetite and sounder sleep, will realize that Flaxolyn is the means to that end."

Let Karl Duane of McKeesport Tell How Flaxolyn Gave Him New Strength and Energy

How His Awful Gassy Condition Cleared Up Like Magic; How That Dizziness Vanished; How Heartburn and Headaches Disappeared Under the Healthful Influence of Flaxolyn.

"What a wonderful thing it is to have your health restored to you when you have given up all hope of ever finding relief," declared Mr. Karl Duane, of East McKeesport, Pa., to a special reporter who was sent to interview him.

"For some time," continued Mr. Duane, "I suffered from a very bad gas condition caused by chronic constipation. I would bloat very badly and the gas pains would seem to cause my heart to beat so fast, at times I could hardly breathe.

"Occasionally there was a ringing in my ears, and sometimes I would get dizzy headaches. After a while I felt worse and I was disturbed several times during the night. It seemed there was to be no relief.

"A friend who had taken treatments at Battle Creek and had used Flaxolyn with very good results, asked me to try it. More to satisfy him than in the hope of finding relief, I did so. I have used three bottles and feel like a new person. The gas and bloating are things of the past. My bowels are regular and I sleep all night, once again. I eat well and enjoy my food.

Mr. Karl Duane, of McKeesport, Who Says:—

"To my many friends who have remarked on my improvement, I give full credit to Flaxolyn. This is the first time I have ever allowed my name to be used in this manner, but in view of the help received from Flaxolyn, I think it only fair to do so."

Skin Aglow With Health Since Dr. Esther Wallin Used Herbal Flaxolyn

Proves the Great Merits of Dr. Lunts's Formula, and Shows How Her Own Stubborn Case of Skin Blemises Disappeared When Flaxolyn Drove Out the Constipation Poisons in Her Body.

If you have been reading any of the previous news concerning vitaminized Flaxolyn in this paper, you have probably noticed how many doctors say they tried Flaxolyn themselves before prescribing it for their patients. Was there ever a more wonderful recommendation of a health product than this?

Here is another example: Dr. Esther C. Wallin, of 522 Commonwealth Building, Cleveland, who writes: "I thought you would be interested to hear of the splendid results I have had from Flaxolyn. I had a very stubborn case of Acne, which I felt was due to chronic constipation, and thanks to Flaxolyn, my complexion is just fine and I can heartily recommend your formula."

PRIEST'S DEATH DUE TO UPSET

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—State police announced their investigation of the automobile accident which resulted in fatal injuries to the Rev. Alexis Udavcak, 28, St. Vincent College professor, early yesterday, disclosed that the automobile had overturned and struck a culvert. It was first thought the machine had been sidewiped by another car.

The condition of the Rev. Paul K. Odelga, 33, pastor of St. Florient Church at United, who was accompanying Father Udavcak, was reported improved at a hospital.

The direct cause of the overturning of the machine has not been determined, state police said, although they expressed certainty that no other machine was involved.

Father Udavcak, ordained six months ago at St. Vincent's, was professor of botany and biology at the college. Funeral services will be held tomorrow from St. Vincent's Archabbey Church.

AID IN FEEDING GAME ASKED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—An appeal for earnest and immediate co-operation by sportsmen, school children and others to prevent starvation of game in the woods, a situation caused by the heavy snowfall over the week-end, was issued by the Game Commission.

The Commission said its entire field force has already started planting food in the woodlands.

"But they cannot cope with the situation without the help of others," the Commission asserted.

Game protectors in the various parts of the state have been stocked with food supplies, which can be obtained by volunteers for placing. Corn on the cob, stuck on sharp twigs at points known to be frequented by game, was recommended as the best food. Loose grain and nuts placed in cleared portions about the foot of trees or clumps of underbrush were also suggested.

POLICE STATION REPAIRS ASKED

Officials of the State Welfare Department have submitted to Council a letter recommending repairs to the plumbing at South Side Police Station to correct an unsanitary condition.

Residents of the Twenty-eighth Ward have asked Council to order "Stop-and-Go" traffic signals at Noblestown road and Crafton boulevard, and at Obey street and Crafton boulevard.

Property owners have requested repairs that would make passable the roadway of Shady avenue extension between Landview avenue and Beechwood boulevard.

The roadway in former Hays Borough from the foot of Glass Run Hill in Baldwin Township to the brick pavement in Hays is in poor condition, according to a letter from T. J. Flynn, of Hays station.

C. B. Yates has requested the construction of a roadway and boardwalks on Chetoph street.

Predict Flapper Passing With Long Skirts

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 21.—Contributors to the Setonian, monthly publication of Seton Hill College for Women, predict that manners and customs among women will gradually undergo a change because of the long and short skirt controversy which is now raging.

One writer claims that the "odious term, 'flapper,' is beginning to give to terms less uncomplimentary, such as 'sub-deb.'

"A new era has been born," the writer declares, "one to which both the 'flapper' and 'sub-deb' are with difficulty adjusting themselves. Men will have to readopt the courtesies they dropped when the freedom of the equals held full sway."

STATE MASONS IN SESSION

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Lettuce to Be Eaten

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
When eating fruit salad, is it proper to eat the lettuce? I say "no," but my office associates differ. E. H.

YES, indeed, you eat the lettuce that is the "background" of fruit salad. That is, if you want to. Why not? It is full of very valuable food properties, and by many people is considered the best part of the salad. What would you eat if you had just plain lettuce salad? I'm afraid that you are not a lettuce "hound" as I am. I have often wondered how many miles of lettuce they eat every day in Paris, where they know the value of foods.

Present From the Fiancee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
I have heard that it is customary for the bride-elect to present her fiance with an engagement present. Will you please inform me if this is correct. M. T.

WHILE it is not exactly customary for a fiancee to give her fiance an engagement present, it is perfectly good form for her to do so. The fact that there is an engagement means that she has the right to give the kind of presents that she may not give to her betrothed before the engagement.

Acceptance a Matter of Choice

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
When coming out of a theater, should I always accept refreshments, whether I want any or not? What should I say for refusal? I can't say just "no"—can I?

In meeting his superior (that is, his employer) should I extend my hand? And what shall I say? G. B.

WHETHER or not you accept an after-theater invitation depends on your choice. If you do not wish to go, either for sustenance or chatting, you may say, "No, thank you. If you will excuse me, I must be home early tonight," or some other comment of this kind.

When the man's employer is introduced to you, you would not extend your hand for such a casual introduction, but would simply acknowledge that introduction by a pleasant smile, a slight bow of the head, and the customary "How do you do?" Don't say "Pleased to meet you," or "Glad to meet you, I'm sure," or, indeed, don't say anything but just "How do you do?"

TO THE PUBLIC!

The Taxicab Companies propose to abide by the settlement reached with their employees through Secretaries Davis and Glick and Mayor Kline, and to live up not only to the letter but to the spirit of that settlement.

Since we were notified about 6 o'clock Monday afternoon that the men had voted about five to one to accept the settlement, we have made every endeavor to carry out the settlement and stand ready to do so at any time . . . but, unfortunately, during last night and early this morning ten of our men were attacked by a small group who refused to abide by the decision reached by an overwhelming majority and were so badly beaten that three of them had to be taken to the hospital, and, under the conditions, we had no choice except for the time being to withdraw our taxicabs from the streets.

In Accordance with the terms of the settlement, we shall hold the positions of the men open until midnight Thursday, January 23rd, and we expect the men to report to work as agreed upon on or before that day. If this is not done, we shall be compelled, as a Public Service Company, to render service to the public, and we shall expect the authorities of law and order to support us in that endeavor and to protect us from the unlawful interferences of the small group of taxicab drivers that are now attempting to dictate policies and by force to compel the men to violate the settlement.

Just Full of Typographical Errors — By Young

OH, BOY... WOW... DID YOU READ THIS LETTER THE FILM COMPANY ENCLOSED WHEN THEY RETURNED OUR TALKING PICTURE STORY? IT MAKES ME FEEL PRETTY TERRIBLE!
BOB AND I HAVE BEEN SO BUSY WITH OUR WEDDING PLANS, I DIDN'T NOTICE IT... READ IT TO ME!
"YOUR TALKING PICTURE STORY WAS THE WORST EVER SUBMITTED TO THIS OFFICE AND BELIEVE US, WE'VE RECEIVED SOME TERRORS... IT WAS POSITIVELY INCOHERENT AND SOUNDED AS THOUGH A MORON OR A NIT-WIT WROTE IT"
"IT IS AMAZING THAT IN THIS ENLIGHTENED AGE, SUCH AN INANE STORY COULD BE WRITTEN... YOUR PLOT WAS POSITIVELY IMBECILIC AND THE DIALOGUE ASININE"
THEN HE SUGGESTS THAT WE GO TO A DOCTOR AND HAVE OUR HEADS EXAMINED... THEN HE GOES ON TO SAY...

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d" to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

COOK-COOS by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1930)

Theatrical managers are planning an economy program to cut down expenses.

Well, they can fire all the box office attendants—and use phonograph records which repeat, "Nothing closer than the thirteenth row."

There's really nothing the matter with the stage except the plays, the actors, the prices and the taste of the audiences.

You can always tell a good stage actor nowadays by the way he mumbles and turns his back to the audience.

Milestone on the path to civilization—

District Attorney Bushnell, of Boston, said: "I do not want the public to think I indorse the tactics of the Watch and Ward Society. I want to serve warning that if ever again as long as I am District Attorney of this district they go into a book store and induce or procure a person to commit a crime I will proceed against them for criminal conspiracy."

EDITOR'S MAIL

Sir—

I was remarking to my wife that it's fellers like me that ought to be on the stage.

"Yes," she replied, "you ought to be on the stage all right, all right—the one goin' west."

Yours since,
E. L. Spearman.

AND POSSIBLY A SECOND MORTGAGE

(Trade Journal)

"Suggestive of a Castilian villa are the flock of ten one-room bungalows, each one different in color and architecture, but held together by a central note."

About the only family tie that remains unsullied is the one that father gets on his birthday.

PUBLIC CRAZY TO AID ENCYCLOPEDIA

Mr. Beal,
Encyclopedia Editor—

You deserve the hearty support of every patriotic American in your effort to publish an encyclopedia in your column. And you can make your exhaustive work more complete than the Encyclopedia Britannica. I'll tell you how. Print the name and address of every man, woman and child in America! Have people send in names of friends and acquaintances. I looked for my name in the Britannica and couldn't find it—that shows how careless they are over there.

Harry Hamman Beal,
Beal's Livery Stable.

(Ed. Note—Suggestions are always welcome. Mr. Beal's idea is very helpful.)

MURDERERS WILL OUT

"Women," says the Rt. Rev. Wiley, "have become equal to everything but the occasion."

The march of progress may be annoying in a lot of ways; but still when you look at some of our chicken wire architecture it's nice to know it won't be there long.

Wise crack, 1900—

Adam Scoffiow's Journal

Up and dulge in some contentful talk with my zaney while she stir a noble batch of horseradish ale in the washing machine—and whilst thus gaged I did see a tear trip hesitatingly down her apple cheek and this vex me to think I dast ever speak a cross word to the dove.

Illinois Citizens to Give First Opinion of League

The Senate is often described as the most powerful law-making body in the world.

It exercises its power in accord with the will of the people when it KNOWS FOR SURE what the people want.

Every two years, including this year 1930, a third of the Senate comes up for renomination in the primaries and re-election in November.

So in 1930 the people will have a chance to elect Senators who have done the people's will, and to discharge Senators who have not.

A large group of Senators deserve discharge because they disregarded the plain mandate of the people to keep this country out of the League of Nations system, which means entanglement in Europe's affairs.

In January, 1926, a number of Senators voted to put the United States into "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations," which is owned and operated by the League of Nations; and its judges hired, instructed, paid and fired by the League of Nations. In many respects it is the most dangerous branch of the League for us to enter.

Among the Senators who voted for us to submit America's destiny to this foreign tribunal were Senator William B. McKinley, of Illinois, and Senator Charles S. Dineen, of Illinois.

That was in January, 1926. Three months later McKinley was buried in defeat at the Republican primary in a contest where the only issue was his voting for us to enter "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations."

They didn't get a chance at Deneen then. They have a chance this year. Deneen is running for renomination, opposed by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick. The only issue again is to be "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations." It is the most important political contest in Illinois in many a year.

Fortunately, a vote against Deneen is still a vote to keep us out of the League of Nations system. We are not yet in "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations," League members refusing to accept even the mild "reservations" which the Senate attached to its resolution to join.

The League rewrote the reservations to suit itself and President Hoover is asking the Senate to join on the League's terms. The citizens of Illinois, first of all states, get the chance to say whether THE PEOPLE want the country put back into European politics.

Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Mark Hanna, wife of ex-Senator Medill McCormick, of Illinois, should be nominated and elected to the Senate.

We believe she will be elected. The first woman to be United States Senator could not be a more capable one, nor one elected in a greater cause.

What's Wrong With This?

Several Things. But He Is a Good Emperor.

HIS IMPERIAL MAJESTY THE MIKADO ON HIS FAVORITE HORSE.

The Emperor is on a horse raised in England, shipped to Japan for His Majesty's comfortable use, named in Japanese Hatsu-Yuki, meaning "White Snow." The Japanese always have poetical names for things.

The toes are turned OUTWARD, which would bring the heels against the horse's sides. Assuming that the Emperor rides with spurs, the poor "White Snow" would be pricked unnecessarily.

The Emperor seems to be holding his reins, snaffle and curb not quite according to rule: the snaffle rein seems to be outside of the little finger, instead of being on either side of the ring finger.

However, Hirohito has ONE big advantage. He is safe on a safe horse, and what's more, he is SAFE ON HIS THRONE.

His government knew enough to stay out of the big war, merely collecting the things that were needed, close at hand.

You don't notice Japan taking on Russia at present. They know that it is a DIFFERENT Russia.

Japan has another great advantage.

This Emperor Hirohito is a thoughtful young man, and while he is taught by tradition to believe that he is related by birth to the sun and moon, a natural born ruler of the whole universe, he doesn't brag about that in dealing with Western nations.

He just attends to business. FORTUNATE JAPAN, wise Hirohito.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

That Tattered Ensign

ONE hopeful item about the London naval parley is that President Hoover has indicated America's gentleness by giving up his yacht.

"Bugs" Baer

It is true that Tommy Lipton is complicating the disarmament clique by building another Shamrock. Tommy says that there will be no war as only the starter will have a gun.

America will be allowed one raft for drowning sailors. England will be permitted to keep one life preserver in photograph galleries and France will limit the royal salute to the popping of 21 bonbons.

Mothers of the world will refrain from dressing their little boys in sailor suits. No boy likes to be considered effeminate.

Arrangements have been made to instruct Annapolis students in classical Greek dancing and botany. There will be a lecture every Friday night in the gymnasium on the medicinal properties of slippery elm. Upon graduating, each middy will get a Japanese fan for a diploma.

The junk heap is now sailors' Snug Harbor. We know they beat the sword into a plowshare but we never thought they would crack the turret up into mouse traps.

Well, the Navy took 'em over and the Navy broke its back. A fight could start between a Rocky Mountain goat and a near-sighted armadillo on Pike's Peak and they would blame a sailor for it.

When ever trouble starts at a dance or picnic, the official slogan of the Pinkertons is cherchez la gob. Meaning, find the sailor and you will discover the missing teeth.

As the unformented truth, a sailor is a gentle lad who never speaks until he has a good answer. We attended the last dance of the Arkansas and it was as gentle as curry of lamb. All the boys did was to tattoo pansies on each others' arms.

The London naval subtraction is a serious thing. When you are sinking cruisers you ain't bobbing for apples.

Soon our Navy will consist of the night boat and a ship in a bottle. A lot of these disarmament dukes must be thinking about 1893 when Hobson got a lot of kisses for sinking the Merrimac. But there is one thing for Dawes and the others to remember, Hobson was good looking.

Well, the salty old sailor is eating sugar now. No more will he win the war by shining brass. The old flotilla ain't going to buzz around Rangoon any more, the eagle is twittering like a cuckoo and John Gob will soon be dashing up two flights of steps to get a suit of civvies with the buttons where they belong.

THE PARROT FEVER

By Herbert Kaufman

A SUFFICIENTLY enlarged cross-section of whatever metal, far from showing a solid, IMPERMEABLE mass, would disclose particles of matter arranged in helter-skelter fashion, very much like a slice of cheesy stone.

Dr. Jeffries, president of the American Society for Steel Treating, says that we can increase the hardness of any ore to an INDEFINITE degree, by reducing the size of its unit crystals, and then laying them tight against each other in exact rows.

That's about what occurs when tungsten is forced through a hole one-thousandth of an inch in diameter. Even glass, which we assumed to know its OWN business, discovers itself three thousand per cent more compact after such atomic compression.

Steels, harder and denser than diamonds, and aluminum alloys of incredible wear resistence, are EN ROUTE from experimental laboratories to motor plants, machine shops and aeroplone factories.

AND that isn't all, by a JUGFUL.

A different casting method which enables seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of equipment to duplicate the work of two and a half million dollars' worth of paraphernalia, has successfully demonstrated that ingots, ready for the rolling mills, can be cast in whirling drums at a saving of five dollars per ton, besides eliminating fifteen per cent of waste, inevitable under the best PRESENT practice.

Which means that industry, during the next decade, can take a several billion dollar tuck in overhead with a corresponding lowering of construction and manufacturing costs.

The news throbs with further cuts for automobiles, tin plate, household utensils and agricultural implements.

THE first way of doing EVERYTHING is THRIFTLESS and EXPENSIVE. And SO are the second, third and fourth procedures.

None of our formulae are utterly precise or free from loose habits.

Cocksure enterprises, of any dimension, invariably emerge from their day dreams on laurel mattresses, to find wider-awake competition setting the pace and getting the orders.

FORESIGHT alone survives. Managements that aren't in touch with test-tubes, research developments and patent office filings, are in the predicament of nations without a cross-check on the arsenals, hangars and naval bases of rival powers.

The once strongly intrenched wagon-builders of the United States discounted the gasoline cloud that suddenly appeared above Detroit and promptly joined the Dodo Club.

The parrot fever, which so unduly disturbs us all, has actually raged, in a more DISASTROUS form, beyond recorded memory.

Ninety per cent of society is hopelessly infected with the tendency to repeat BLINDLY what YESTERDAY thought best, instead of taking cues from tomorrow's EVIDENT trends.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

WILL THEY GET 'EM ON ME?

OVER MY DEAD BODY!

Long skirts.....corsets..... petticoats? ..'..... Lissen ..... havva heart! Maybe they're cute for those little trick dames that a guy collects in idle moments—

But think about girls like ME!

Here am I, 200 pounds of blonde beef on the hoof, with a stride like the take-off of a Fokker.....can you not see ME with my shape corralled in some 50 yards of fluffings and my inhibitions and complexes and other vital organs crammed into a 28-inch waist?

Yes, you can NOT.....and what's more you're not going to.

The "feminine mode"? You can't tell me anything about it. I was that way once. To be exact, I was that way about 40 years. It has only been, relatively speaking, a couple of minutes since I got the chance to use my legs. And, believe me, no fashion whipper-snapper is going to sign ME up for a Back-To-Dry-Goods Movement.

For I like my legs—and, what is more, I need them. They are not a mere decorative fringe to my anatomy, as it were. They are a Going Concern and they have got plenty of grief heaving me over the landscape without having to rassel with a lot of lingerie.

Of course, I believe in moderation. Too much is always too many. Especially with some knees that I have seen. A couple of yards of legs is all a nice girl should want to show. But, within decent limits, legs are part of any female's inalienable rights...and I hereby serve warning that any style snooper who tries to put Valenciennes on these fair ankles GETS BIT!

All of which is a prelude to the remarks of one of our Outstanding American Heroes who has risen to the defense of Us Girls. I refer to Ray Long, broadcasting his "FAREWELL TO LEGS" in the January issue of THE COSMOPOLITAN.

"I am all confused," says he. "I thought Cosmopolitan was doing a good deed when we published recently an article by Dr. Draper advocating that men dress as sensibly as women. Dr. Draper said we were a lot of sheep. We dressed uncomfortably because it was the fashion to dress that way; women had much more courage in dress, and because of that courage they were being comfortable and getting to be so vigorous and healthy that before long men must take a back seat.

"Lo and behold, just about that time the Paris dressmakers decreed that women should not be comfortable any longer.

"They must return to long skirts, long gloves, long hair, big hats, corsets.

"They'll never do it," I said.

"I was wrong. They ARE doing it. . . .

"I am told that the women who haven't good-looking legs and the women who had to diet to maintain the slender frocks they've been wearing are enthusiastically behind the new fashions, and that they far outnumber their sisters to whom Nature gave shapely legs and slim lines. I can't believe that. So far as I have been able to observe—and I have looked carefully—there are more pretty legs in the world than the other kind. And if I were young again and in my courting days I'd much rather hug one of the lithesome, uncorseted figures of 1929 than gather an armful of whalebone as we did in 1899.

"The idea of Helen Wills or Amelia Earhart, Glenna Collett or Maureen Orcutt with hair done pompadour and built up with 'rats,' with skirts sweeping the dust, in hats like mother used to wear—frankly, it appalls me.

"But, I suppose all that is just around the corner, and we might as well accept it gracefully. There's one consolation. It was great while it lasted."

And if THAT doesn't plug the Petticoat Peril . . . then the candy hearts are on me.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

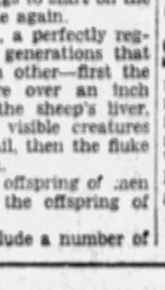
By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE offspring of this little adventurer differ both from their immediate parent and from the original flukes. They are elongated and worm-like, about a twenty-fifth of an inch long when fully grown, and they wander about the body of the snail and consume it, showing a particular preference for the liver.

These ingenious parasites, the rediae, live and die and reproduce themselves inside the snail, weakening it but prudently not killing it, and in this way there follow several generations more, all very much alike.



H. G. Wells.

But at the chill of the following autumn there is another change. New forms appear in the little community—forms called cercarie, somewhat smaller than the rediae, with big round heads and long thin tails.

The cercarie are not satisfied by the leavings of their parents and—platyhelminth pilgrim fathers, so to speak—they bore their way out of the snail's body in quest of a larger organism to colonize.

They swim up wet blades of grass or the leaves of other herbage, and there they fortify themselves; they exude a slime which thickens into a hard white capsule and, thus protected, they wait.

If nothing more happens to them they eventually die, but if the grass on which they are waiting chances to be swallowed by a browsing sheep (or other grazing animal, for flukes of the same species have been found in oxen and deer and even rabbits), they make good use of their opportunity.

Their capsules are obligingly digested away by his gastric juice, and when he has freed them in this way they creep up his bile-duct to his liver, where they thrive and grow at his expense. In about six weeks' time they are ready to beget eggs to start on the adventurous cycle again.

There is, then, a perfectly regular rhythm of generations that differ from each other—first the fluke, a creature over an inch long, living in the sheep's liver, then the barely visible creatures living in the snail, then the fluke again, and so on.

It is as if the offspring of men were mice and the offspring of mice were men.

The flukes include a number of different forms with more or less picturesque and adventures life-cycles. The one most troublesome to ourselves is Bilharzia of tropical countries, which spends its fluke stage in the human intestine or urinary bladder and its microscopic stage, like that of Fasciola, in a fresh-water snail.

It invades us through the mouth or through the skin, reaches the bladder along the veins.

The third class of platyhelminths is the tapeworms—also parasitic, and also showing an alternation of generations in two different hosts.

The animals have long bodies sometimes up to 80 feet of them—and they have suckers and hooks on their "heads" by means of which they cling to the wall of the host's intestine. They have no digestive system of their own, but absorb the food at the surfaces of their bodies when it has been digested for them by their hosts.

The body consists of a chain of segments—two or three to many hundreds—each with a complete reproductive system in it. As the hinder ones ripen they drop off, and swollen pockets of eggs are loosed into a wider world with faeces of the host, and they are continually replaced by new segments which originate in a zone of growth close to the head.

Of those which infect man some spend their adult stages in our own bowels and their intermediate stages in the muscles of pigs or cattle, entering us with our meat; another even more troublesome, spends its adult stage in the dog's bowels and its intermediate stage in our own bodies, where it forms large "hydatid cysts" in the lungs, liver and other organs in the hope that our flesh will be devoured by dogs.

7. Et Cetera.

SO far we have dealt with seven animal phyla. Now comes the ragbag. We have left over a residuum of minor phyla containing few forms of having little economic or theoretical importance. We will not catalogue them here. Briefly we will mention four groups.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—New York has a group of high-jumping young ladies always seen where lights are brightest. They are daughters of very rich parents and of whom a society writer recently wrote: "Declasse debutantes on a bust."

Many live in the Gothic grandeur of those barn-like mansions that have somehow stubbornly resisted the sweep of the deluxe apartment house. Surfeited with ennui, they go panhandling royally through life—expecting everything and giving nothing.

Eternal gad-abouts—they are here today and disporting on the bathing beaches of Palm Beach and Cannes tomorrow. They gulp cocktails like the hardiest toper, burn up cigarets in quick inhalations and shock Watteauish old ladies at dinner parties with boasts of virginity.

Despite their halo of wealth, they would be tossed out of the toughest speakeasy back rooms on Tenth avenue. What they try to pass off as "the new frankness" is in reality the patter of the brothel. Their idea of cleverness is a secret flirtation with a married man.

Parental purse strings are never tightened. They have individual cars for every occasion and one actually has four chauffeurs on her personal payroll. But with all the luxury, they suggest the futility of those hags of the Monte Carlo gaming tables who carry on by frequent fiery jolts of brandy.

Once in a while they seek to "express themselves" by opening a tea room, an antique salon, interior decorating shop or by writing a dirty book. But chiefly they play bridge for high stakes all afternoon, guzzle gin and dance with gigolos until dawn.

Frequently they slump from night club tables and are hurriedly carried sick drunk through kitchens to their limousines. Strangely enough most of them have been reared in an atmosphere of super-refinement. But the jazz mania gripped and holds them fast.

One of the giddy guild, however, met her match in a chop house the other night. Primed with whisky sours, she was aiming shafts of stinging sarcasm at innocent diners a few tables away. Finally one insulted and white-faced gentleman walked over to her and with a deadly calm said: "Listen! I used to stoke coal on a lake steamer with your Daddy before he found an oil well in his back yard. We have come off many runs filthy with oil and grease and stinking with sweat. But at that we were cleaner than you."

* * *

W. C. Gibson, dean of the art editors and known to every illustrator in the world as "Pop," has finally retired to enjoy a future of leisurely ease in far-away Switzerland. "Pop" made many efforts "to get away from it all" and do a little painting himself. He has for years been father confessor to such artists as Harrison Fisher, Dean Cornwell, James Montgomery Flagg, W. T. Benda and scores of others among top-notchers. He is old in service, but not in years, and his reward is to be pensioned on full salary for the remainder of his days.

"Pop" Gibson has gone through life dealing with perhaps the most difficult people to handle. Artists are sensitive, quick-tempered and inclined to sulk over trifles. It was "Pop's" job to laugh them out of their moods, and he did.

* * *

Mr. Gibson's fine character reminds me there are many other rare souls in this old world. Recently a man who has worked hard for his success dropped into my workshop. He had just learned his daughter smuggled several frocks in from Europe and was voluntarily on his way to customs to apologize for her act and pay the duty and penalties.

* * *

I have lost much faith in billboard advertising. Near Long Island City a huge billboard—and what a treat?—proclaims: "Meet O. O. McIntyre—Every Day in the New York American." I have driven a visitor from home past it a dozen times, even stopping once in front of it as though suspecting a puncture, but it fails to catch his eye.

"Did anybody," asks Virgil C., "ever catch his head in one of those collapsible music racks in your town and have to be filed out?"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HAS your home become a place to eat meals, sleep and hurriedly change your clothes in order to go somewhere else? Because your interests are outside it, are you neglecting it? Do the premises about your home show they have not been cared for? Have you ceased to make additions to the furnishings of your home?

Are there two reasons for this—one that you do not care so much for what it contains and the other, that you spend for other purposes, principally amusement?

Time was when you tried to beautify your home and make it comfortable. Why should your greatest ambition now be to leave it? To sleep and eat and change your clothes so that you may get anywhere else but home?

Isn't this discouraging to the other members of home? Are you so bent upon exciting amusement that you cannot stand a quiet evening with your family and a good book or magazine?

You are working to disrupt the family ties.

If you have not realized it, and home means anything to you, begin to show that it is your home and you are willing to do something for it before it is too late.
